

A BIOGRAPHY OF
WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT,

With Extracts from his Private Correspondence. By PARKE GODWIN.

With Two Portraits on Steel: one from a Painting by Morse, taken in 1825, and one from a Photograph taken in 1873.

In two volumes, square 8vo, cloth, $6.00.

Containing a full account, from authentic sources, of the poet's ancestry; of his boyhood among the Hampshire hills; of his early poems; of his ten years' life as a country lawyer; of his long editorial career in New York; of his intercourse with contemporaries; of his travels abroad and at home; of the origin of many of his poems; of his political opinions; of his speeches and addresses; and of the honors he received.

"Mr. Parke Godwin has written, and the Appletons have published, 'A Biography of William Cullen Bryant,' in two large volumes, comprising some 850 pages. It is undeniable that the task upon which the biographer felt himself impelled to enter has been executed in an admirable spirit of candor, and with remarkable literary ability. Mr. Godwin has produced a book which, like Masson's 'Life of Milton,' might be much more properly described as a history than as a memoir. To the student of American manners, to those who would survey the growth of thought, culture, and refinement, in New England and New York during the first three quarters of the present century, these volumes will prove a mine of precious information, garnered from the wide and varied experience of a busy life, and illumined by the insight of one who is himself an accomplished man of letters and a citizen of the world. Nor is there any lack in these full-freighted pages of thoughtful and useful comment on the political problems and controversies by which the public mind was occupied during the crucial period of our national evolution, which happened to be synchronous with Mr. Bryant's life."—New York Sun.
