

APPLE GINGER.

A DESERT DISH.

Two pounds of any kind of hard apples, two pounds of loaf sugar, one and one-half pints of water, one ounce of tincture of ginger; boil the sugar and water until they form a rich syrup, adding the ginger when it boils up. Pare, core and cut the apples into pieces; dip them into cold water to preserve the color, and boil them in the syrup until transparent; but be careful not to let them break. Put the pieces of apple into jars, pour over the syrup, and carefully exclude the air by covering them well. If kept in a dry place, it will remain good some time.

SAGO AND WINE.

Wash an ounce of sago in cold water; put it over the fire in a pint of cold water, let it slowly approach the boiling point, and boil it gently until tender; then stir into it two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a glass of Madeira or Sherry wine, and serve it hot or cold.

LARDED POTATOES.

After washing, use an apple-corer to take a piece out of the potatoes from end to end; in each case put a strip of salt pork or bacon, seasoned with pepper, and bake them in an earthen dish in which they can be sent to the table. Serve them hot.
