Weak and Run Down, With Heart and Kidneys in Bad Condition -Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was very much run down, having seen sick for several months. I had been trying different remedies which did me no good. I would have severe spells of coughing that would leave me prostrate. I was told that my lungs were affected, and my heart and kidneys were in a bad condition. In fact, it seemed as though every organ was out of order. I felt that something must be done and my brother advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I procured a bottle and began taking it. Before it was half gone I felt that it was helping me. I continued its use and it has made me a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly." Mrs. SUMMER-VILLE, 217 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Get only Hood's, because

THE STEVENS

Flames and Water Do $8,000 Damage.

Plucky Fight Put Up by the Firemen.

Half the Third Story Burned-Origin a Mystery-About Seventy Men Will Be Out of Employment for Some Days-Loss Fully Covered by Insurance.

Fire caused about $3,000 damage to the iron and brass foundry of the Stevens Manufacturing Company, corner of Richmond and Bathurst streets. Saturday night.

The loss might easily have been many times greater. But the firemen, who themselves worked like Trojans, were materially assisted by onlookers. And the wind was in a favorable quarter. These factors saved the building from complete destruction.

The fire was discovered a few minutes after nine o'clock, by Watchman Trudell, who lives at rear of the foundry, and each night makes two trips through the buildingone between six and seven, and the other between nine and ten o'clock. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but President Stevens thinks it possible that a spark from the furnace lodged in the cupola, and smoldered there for some time. The theory of spontaneous combustion was also offered. The watchman found everything right on his first trip of inspection, but when the fire was discovered it had a good start. The fire brigade was at once called out by telephone, and shortly afterwards an alarm was turned in from a box near by. A good run was by all three companies. No. 1 reached the scene first, and carried a line of hose into the building and up to the third floor, on which the fire was. A fire wall with iron doors divides the building in the center, and on the north half of the third floor, devoted to woodwork. This portion was not burned. South of the dividing line was the painting and varnishing room. electro-plating and polishing depart-ments, a storeroom in which were several large cans of oil and varnish, and and does not want to know. a drying room.

A FIERY FURNACE. Fierce flames filled the south half of the flat when the firemen arrived, and they sent a stream of water through doorway which divided the burning portion from the woodworkers' room. It seemed doubtful if their efforts would be successful, and the aerial truck, which had been sent for when the nature of the fire was learned, was kept in readiness, whereby the half. fire, if it spread to the north could be fought. Ladders were run up to the third story windows at the front and two lines of hose laid there. Two more streams were brought to play on the flames from the rear, and in a short time the firemen were able to owners on your side who might also be enter the burning portion of the building.

FIREMEN IN PERIL. Every effort was made to prevent the oil in the storeroom catching fire, and with success. While at work in the attic over the plating room, the floor under Chief Roe and Fireman Dan McDonald and Jack Case gave way.McDonald fell thirteen feet to the floor beneath, and the others grasped a beam, to which they hung until a ladder was put up for them. None were injured.

A DESPERATE TUSSLE. The firemen did not leave the scene until 3 a.m., and during their six hours' fight they felt the cold keenly. A slop ing, slippery tin roof, on a low building back of the foundry, and across which a line was laid, proved the downfall of many who ventured upon it. INSURANCE. The building is insured for $40,000, and the Lincoln and Lancashire, the Sun, the Guardian and the Union companies are all interested. One hundred and forty men are employed in the works, and it is expected that about half that number will be laid off for about two weeks while the necessary repairs are being made. A new roof will have to be put on, and the machinery and stock throughout all the works is all more or less rusted and damaged by the flood of water. In the paint shop were a number of heavy sleighs for the Northwest trade, and the fire seemed to have little effect on them.

A TIMELY HINT.

Fortunately, Mr. Stevens was on hand to direct the movements of th to direct the movements of the fire-men. It would be well if the chief and the several foremen connected with the force became personally familiar with | before the 16th

ABOUT CANADA

American Public Men Indifferent To This Country.

Prospects For Reciprocity Not Regarded as Bright.

A Chat With Representative Hitt-A Few Block Reciprocity and the Washington, Nov. 27-(Globe special) -The conference between influential senators and members of the house or the one hand, and the president and members of the commission on the other are in progress. As to the prospects of a successful issue from the negotiations, the people of Canada can scarcely understand the feeling of absolute indifference toward Canadian affairs that one continually encounters here. It may be thought that this indifference is the result of the present stress and strain on public men following upon the war, and that with the settlement of the terms of peace the Canadian negotiations will become a matter of general interest. Nothing seems to be further from the truth. To the average American in public the Dominion does not exist. Canada may be the next door neighbor, but it is not on his visiting list. It would agreeable to say that Americana take an interest in our affairs, and know something of our development, but, if a small official circle whose duty it is to look into Canadian questions be excepted, the governing class at Washington know nothing about us,

The Globe correspondent had an interview with Representative Hitt, who was once foremost in advocating reciprocity with Canada. "The people," said Mr. Hitt, with a note of bitterness in his tone, "cry 'Hooray for reciprocity with South America,' all the time forgetting that a single Canadian village often takes more American goods than a whole country does down there." "Did not the preferential tariff arouse public attention over here, Mr. Hitt?' "No," he replied, "not even that. The only interest in Canadian affairs that counts is the interest of the few farmers and fishermen on our side who might be adversely affected by Canadian competition, and the few factory affected. Away from the borders there is no personal interest, and sentiment is the dominant influence. It has been skillfully used to keep us apart. Sir John Macdonald, who was your greatest man, always knew how to slip a burr under the saddle. The seizure of New England fishing vessels was an example of that, and it had its effect in increasing antagonisms. Why, even where I come from, a thousands miles from the ocean, you can always whoop it up for our brave fishermen, the backbone of our naval strength, and so we stand a tax on the fish of some seventyfive million people for the benefit of a few thousand on the Atlantic coast." He evidently feels that so long as the only active interests are those hostile to free trade, so long will it be impossible to negotiate a reciprocity treaty on an extended scale.

The reather was very disagreeable, but this defect was more than overcome by the warm southern hospitality of the host and hostess. This morning the Bering Sea committee resumes its work, and Sir Louis Davis thinks a decision on the question of compensation will be reached in a few days. This will leave only the Atlantic fishery and the reciprocity questions open. VETERAN ACTOR PASSED AWAY.

Demise of Charles Walter Couldock, Aged 83 Years.

New York, Nov. 28 .- Charles Walter Couldock, the well-known actor, died at 9:30 last night. He was born in Long Acre, England, in 1815. He made his first appearance on the stage in "Othello" at Sadlers Wells' theater, London, in 1835. For a number of years he was connected with the old Royal Lyceum, Toronto. He played in England for a number of years, and then came to America, and played at the old Broadway Theater, New York, since which time he has been a constant follower of the stage.

About the year 1880, Steele Mackaye found him playing the character of Dunstan Kirk in a play called "The Iron Will." Mackeye remodeled the piece, calling it "Hazel Kirk," with Mr. Couldock still in the character of Dunstan, a part which he played at least 250 times each year. Mr. Couldock had experienced time and again the ups and downs of life, which happen more plentifully to those following the profession of the stage than to others, and he had repeatedly been the recipient of honors as well as defeats. His career on the stage had been notable for his constant adherence to his profession and the faithfulness which ever dis-
