As a matter of fact, neither of the Marlborough boys promises to be very robust, but the second boy (Lord Ivor) will probably have to spend his winters abroad for some years to come. His father, whose best characteristic perhaps is his interest in his son, is seriously worried about the boy, whose illness began with adenoids and has now developed into lung trouble.

TAGGING FOR CHARITY.

A Popular American Scheme is Being Tried in Montreal This Week—Was Suggested in St. John.

At its meeting on Monday the playgrounds committee considered, at the suggestion of Miss Mabel Peters, a scheme that has been carried out with great success in Philadelphia and some other places to raise funds for playgrounds and other purposes. The plan is to put a printed "tag" upon every citizen on a certain day to be known as "tag-day" and accept the sum, large or small, which he may be willing to pay for the distinction. The committee felt that such a scheme would not be popular in St. John, but it is being worked in Montreal. The Montreal Star of Saturday says: "The new game of 'tag' was introduced into Montreal today. To-morrow a committee of three hundred ladies, sub-divided into committees consisting of six each, will carry on the work. These sub-committees will visit all the offices, large shops, hotels, railway stations, restaurants and the baseball grounds and will tag every individual willing to be 'tagged,' the proceeds to be given to the fund now being raised for the Victorian Order of Nurses and intended to supplement the large sum it is hoped will be raised on June 14th at Dominion Park on the occasion of the Victorian Order fête. The 'tagging' will continue all day Monday, and will be a feature at the Park on Tuesday. While Montreal may not contribute any such sum as that recently raised in the cause of charity in some of the big American cities, there is little doubt that a good cause will be materially assisted by the innovation."

He said: "I have not much to say tonight, but I think that the result will be in favor of the government. The community was soon in a state of excitement and Thompson disappeared in the woods, where he was in hiding up to a late hour this evening. Eleven bullets were extracted from Gerrish's back, neck and head. While his wounds are serious, he is expected to recover.

SHERIFF DEFIANT; JUDGE WONT TALK

Sheriff Ritchie Says He Will Carry Out the Law in Reference to Remanded Prisoners. Sheriff Ritchie says that whatever the police court authorities may do with regard to remanded prisoners he is going to keep his shirts clear. Sheriff Ritchie explained that the law provided for three days or formally remanded for seven. The prisoners released yesterday were in on verbal remands. Relative to a statement in a morning paper to the effect that the jail authorities had been asked to furnish a list of the prisoners in jail on remand, the sheriff said he would have thought the police court officials would themselves have known that. In any case, he was going to keep his shirts out of the crack. Judge Ritchie, when communicated with today, said "I don't wish to be cited in the matter, I've nothing to say."

PLUNGER WALKER'S FALL DUE TO TAUNTS OF HIS FRIENDS

New York, June 9.—John Brandt Walker, who faces an attachment suit for $23,415, lost a fortune of $1,500,000 during the past six months because he could not resist the temptation to prove to his friends once more that he was a "student of the stock market." Walker, after his sudden rise in Wall Street, was accused of being lucky rather than a good speculator. He resented the statement, and while he had declared no war with Wall Street forever, he took his winnings back to the Street and left them. Six months ago he had "whipped" the market until he had taken away $1,500,000; to-day the market has taken it back. "I have made my fortune and I am through," Mr. Walker told his friends when he made his last big winning. "I am credited with winning anywhere from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. I didn't touch that figure, but I did get half of the first sum and I have it in the bank and invested in interest-paying bonds. It's enough for me and I am through." His friend and associate at that time, J. J. Townsend, let it be known that Walker was the first man he had ever known who went into the market, and after making a big winning had the nerve to stop. "He will be back in the game," was the comment of a majority of fifty brokers with whom Walker traded. "He likes the game too well to stop." But Walker fooled his friends for about two weeks. He did keep out of the market. Then changes came and his opinions were attacked in club room discussions of his friends. He was told that he had just been lucky; that he had not earned the fortune by good judgment or the studying of conditions and that his theories were all wrong. While a quiet and easy-going man in appearance, Walker is somewhat of a bulldog when it comes to his opinions. So the taunts of his friends started him into the game once more. During the past six months Walker has carried on a most extensive campaign in various brokers' offices in the city. He had a large following and was a welcome visitor to many brokers' offices, more because he brought the people who were following his lead than for his own trade. Walker is said to have bought and sold stock estimated at $100,000,000 in the past 6 months, and it was in these transactions that the loss of his great winnings resulted. He has recently paid a number of visits to the racetrack, but with no luck. Yesterday Walker escaped from the Waldorf to dodge newspaper men, it is said, and went to Atlantic City for the day.

TURKEY INVITING TROUBLE ON THE PERSIAN FRONTIER

St. Petersburg, June 9.—Special despatches received here indicate a serious situation on the Turko-Persian frontier. Turkish troops, which hitherto have been massed on the Russian side in the vicinity of Erzerum vilayet are in full movement towards Persia. Detachments already have invaded Persian territory. The Turkish occupation of the district of Azerbaijan, west of Urumiah Lake, has been carried out in a systematic manner, and the method of administration of this territory is similar to the administration in regularly annexed territories, which would seem to indicate that the Turks mean to remain permanently. Bodies of Turkish regulars, who have followed in the wake of the Kurdish tribesmen, have commenced to collect revenues. In spite of the proverbial Turkish sloth, a customs house has been established at Keilun, some miles inland from Urumiah. The Turks have established mines belonging to the Persian Crown and have expelled the shah's officials. There is every indication say the despatches, that the Turks are taking full advantage of the disturbed condition in Persia to seize a valuable strategic position of the country.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

EVIDENCE OF LOYALTY. The John along the line of the I.C.R. between the John and Sussex are said to be patronizing the Sussex train more than ever this summer. They have discovered that in this train is the car that was built for the Prince of Wales (now King Edward VIII) more than forty years ago. As it has already passed the age of the average healthy car, it may some day come to the attention of the I.C.R. Assuming that it did so, what could be more soothing to a man with a broken leg than to point to it with loyal pride and exclaim: "I had that leg broken in the wreck of the car that was built for the Prince of Wales." Or what more inspiring epithet could be engraved on a tombstone than this: Sacred To the Memory of JOHN JAMES JIMMISON, He was killed in the car that was built for the Prince of Wales. ANGLERS AND HAWKS. When Mr. Hiram Hornbeam was told this morning that Charles Baillie had gone out after trout in the dusk of the evening, and had caught a night hawk with his fly, the man from the Settlement snuffed contemptuously and said he supposed St. John folks thought that was a great thing, although there were so many night hawks around here that anybody could get a line on one of them without any trouble. "I was fishing," said Hiram, "I was fishing out to the Settlement last week an' I ketch'd a big perch. Jest as I pulled em up over the bank a big fish-hawk swooped down an' grabbed him. The perch stuck his bristles up like a porcupine an' the fish-hawk couldn't let go. I got 'em both. Well, good-day."
