London Papers Heavily Score New Treaty

Great Astonishment and Grave Misgivings. Times Says German-Russo Pact is Open Defiance of the Entente—Dishonorable and a Challenge to Europe, says One British Statesman—Russian and German Delegates Express Their Views.

(Canadian Press Cable) London, April 18—It would not be easy to imagine any possible happening at Genoa which could excite greater astonishment or more anxious misgivings than the announcement of the new German treaty produced in the majority of this morning's London newspapers.

(Canadian Press) Paris, April 18—Although maintaining an open attitude for the moment, it is understood the cabinet approved further instructions to Vice-Premier Barthou at Genoa to regulate the action of the French delegation in case it was required to take a prompt decision.

(Canadian Press) Paris, April 18—The indications were that Premier Poincare was handling the crisis cautiously, awaiting a decided expression from the allies before committing the French government to a definite policy.

(Canadian Press) Paris, April 18—The view taken in official circles is that the Rapallo accord prejudices the questions which were up before the inviting powers and the Soviet delegates as to the conditions of Russian participation in the conference and the recognition of the Russian pre-war debt and that it is impossible for the allies to allow the Russians and the Germans thus to dominate the proceedings of the conference.

(Canadian Press) Paris, April 18—George Chitchebin head of the Russian delegation discussed the Russian position in the Russo-German treaty, said negotiations for a full resumption of diplomatic relations with Germany and Russia had been in progress several months.

(Canadian Press) Paris, April 18—The place and the time of the signature, it was predicted, that the two governments intended special significance in concluding the treaty at the Genoa conference rather than elsewhere. The treaty was contemplated long ago.
