The twenty houses undertaken by the St. John County Housing Board have been completed, with the exception of a few finishing touches and it is planned by the board to rent those not sold for the winter. This is being done in order to protect them from damage by frost. Two of the houses have already been sold and others are now under negotiation. Ten of the new buildings are in McKel street, Paillette, and the other ten in Champlain street in the Parish of Lancaster. The tenancy of the houses is now being given until May 1, but the board plans to continue rental until the houses are disposed of. Members of the board were in conference this morning with Warden Bullock, of the Municipal Council, with regard to the order of the council to discontinue building on completion of the blocks then under construction.

DR. G. N. PEARSON OF SUSSEX IS DEAD

Passes Away in Sleep at Home

He and Wife Had Been in Hospital Here But He Returned to Sussex Yesterday
—A Man of High Character.

Friends in this city were profoundly shocked this morning to learn that Dr. George N. Pearson had died last night at his home in Sussex. As related in the Times a few days ago, both Doctor and Mrs. Pearson were patients in the General Public Hospital in this city, coming down less than ten days ago. It was while bringing Mrs. Pearson in their car to the hospital that Doctor Pearson was stricken with heart trouble, and after reaching the hospital lay for two or three days in a very serious condition. He rallied, however, and became very anxious to return home. To a friend on Thursday he said he did not intend to remain in hospital much longer, and yesterday morning he suddenly decided to go. Against the advice of the physicians, who warned him of the grave danger, he insisted on having his car brought from Sussex yesterday morning and he went home. He seemed to stand the journey fairly well, and last night he asked Miss Sybil McAvoy to go into his room about eight this morning to close his window. She went in and found that he had passed away, probably soon after midnight.

To Mrs. Pearson lying ill in the hospital here, the news of his death was almost overwhelming. She had said to a friend a few days ago that she was very anxious about her husband, as she had seen for some weeks before he was stricken that he looked very gray and worn, although he continued to go about the arduous duties of his profession with his customary disregard of self. To the same friend the doctor had expressed regret that he had not insisted last summer on his wife taking a prolonged rest, though she seemed then to have recovered from a severe illness of the springtime. Each, lying in hospital, was grieving for the other, and now the link is broken.

Dr. George N. Pearson was a son of the late George Pearson of Apohaqui. As a young man he taught school for a short time, then took up the study of medicine, graduated, and settled in Sussex, where he has practised his profession for thirty years or more, building up a large practice and taking an active interest in the affairs of the town and county. Exceptionally well informed, he was keenly interested also in provincial and federal politics, and was twice a candidate, though unsuccessful, for a seat in the provincial legislature. He was a man of high character, kindly and generous, and will be sorely missed by a great number of families whose physician he has been for years. He is survived by his wife, who was a daughter of the late Charles Secord of Apohaqui, by three sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Mrs. James Manchester and Mrs. Lisson, who live near Sussex, and Miss Alice Pearson, a nurse in Newton, Mass. The brothers are Howard of Apohaqui and Albert E. Pearson, barrister, of Sussex. There is also a foster-daughter, Miss Sybil McAvoy, who has lived with Doctor and Mrs. Pearson since her childhood, and who was inexpressibly shocked this morning when she entered Doctor Pearson's room to find that he had passed out of life. To her and other relatives, and above all to the devoted wife, will go out the profound sympathy of the people.

It was expected that Doctor Murray would come down today and accompany Mrs. Pearson back to her home, and that the funeral, which was expected to take place on Sunday, but arrangements had not been completed.

Mr. Justice White, when told this morning of Dr. Pearson's death, was greatly shocked and paid a warm tribute to him as a physician and as a citizen of Sussex. He said the doctor's intimate friend had known that he was suffering from heart trouble, and felt that he was working too hard. Of his services to the town Judge White said that Dr. Pearson was a member of the school board and took a very active personal interest in school affairs, of which, as a former teacher, he had valuable knowledge.

Mrs. Pearson was taken home to Sussex this afternoon.
