On Friday evening next local Masons will journey to the Sound upon the invi-tation of St. John's Lodge, No. 9, A. F. &A.M., of Seattle. Some time ago the members of this lodge paid a visit to Victoria-Columbia Lodge, No. 1, in this city, and were entertained in that royal manner for which the Masonic order all the world over is celebrated. A feature of the neturn visit will be the conferring of the grand master's degree by the worshipful master and officers of Victoria Columbia Lodge, with the English ritual. This is certainly a signal act of courtes, on the part of the Sound City lodge, one requiring the authority of the Washington grand lodge. Interchanges such as these go a great way towards streng hening the ties that exist between members of the craft in the two countries.

Movements-Things Which Capt. McLean Must Explain

(From Thursday's Daily.) Should Capt. McLean, of the notorious schooner Carmencita, attempt to navigate his vessel from the West Coast port, where she is now taking shelter, he may find more smoke than haunted him during his whole cruise in Behring Sea. American cruisers are believed to be lying in wait somewhere off the coast between Clayoquot and Victoria, and Capt. McLean's only chance of escape in this event will lay in his skill in keeping close to the shore. Should be go outside the three-mile limit there is every possibility, it is said, of his vessel being nabbed. This is what is expected by many here, for it is well known that Rear-Admiral Goodrich, whose ships are at Port Angeles, is keeping in close touch with the movements of McLean.

If the Carmencita is seized by American can ships she will, it is expected, be taken to the Sound and her crew held for a full inquiry into the whole circumstances surrounding the expedition. On Victoria, he will abandon her here. There are several matters which he will customs, not the least of which will be why the sealer should have headed for Behring Sea instead of proceeding to Acapulco, and why, while the schooner's owner. Mr. Woodside, was making mn pledges about wanting to secure Mexican register in order that he and hers associated with him might sell e schooner and get their money out of er, Capt. McLean was busy signing nen on the ship's papers for a sealing byage. One of the hunters who appeared before Mr. Newbury yesferday to see what steps he might take to secure his wages admitted that he had contracted with Mr. Woodside for the voyage in San Francisco. He understood that the expedition, would mean the ordinary sealing voyage, but acknowledged that on his arrival in Victoria he signed on the ship's papers as a Mxican subject, this as Capt. McLean who was standing by Shearwater came to pass the Carmencita after her officers examined the ship's papers. These, if they happened to have been the right documents, would show at once the destination of the schooner, and would furthermore indicate that she was not on a sealing cruise, but destined or Acapulco. There is, however, the ossibility that Capt, McLean exhibited papers brought up to date, for the schooner was authorized to fly the Mexican flag last year. Mexico is not party to the sealing treaty, which provides how seals should be killed in Behring Sea. Therefore, officers of the man-of-war thinking perhaps that the craft was duly qualified to fiy the flag of that country did not detain

VICTORIANS ENTER MATRIMONIAL STATE

Keeping in Touch With Schooner's A Number of Pretty Weddings Were Solemnized in This City Wednesday Evening.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

A very pretty wedding last evening narked the union in matrimony of Miss Alice Maude, daughter of Mr. A. B. Fraser, sr., and Mr. Alfred Hood, of the ands and works department of the provace. The ceremony was performed at 'Causbrooke," Alfred street, the home of the bride's father.

The ceremony was a private one, only elatives and a few of the most intimate friends of the bride and groom being present. At 8 o'clock the bride in a beautiful gown of white crepe de chine over taffeta with a yoke of tucked chiffon and trimings of silk accordeon leated chiffon and lace, entered the liawing room on the arm of her father. The bridal march from Lohengrin being endered by Mr. Jesse Longfield. was attended by her sisters, Misses Amy Caroline and Berthan Evelyn, who were attired in dresses of white silk, shirred and trimmed with lace.

The groom was supported by Mr. A B. Fraser, jr. The marriage was performed by Rev.

W. Leslie Clay, B. A. Under the charge of Mrs. David Miller and Miss Leitch the drawing room, supper room and library had been very tastefully adorned with floral decorations. In addition to the other arrangements a beautiful bell of sweet peas was arranged by Mr. James Bland.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold watch and chain, while the bridesmaids received chaste pearl and amethyst brooches.

A reception was held at 8.30, when about 170 friends gathered to extend their congratulations and good wishes. In the supper room Misses Maud Munsle, Nellie Lovell and Laura Elford assisted during the evening. The bride's going-away gown was green colienne over taffeta trimmed with heavy ecru lace and velvet ribbon. She wore a black chiffon hat with ostrich feather. The popularity of the bride and groom was well shown by the valuable presents received, which included a number of at the time explained being just a formal matter to facilitate the work of clearing bank cheques.
