ABOUT WALL STREET.

REV. DR. TALMAGE ARRAIGNS THE SPIRIT OF WILD SPECULATION.

MONEY ADMIRED BY MANKIND.

spirit of wild speculation and gives some account of the financial ruin of other days; Proverbs xxiii, 5, Riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven."

Money is a golden breasted bird with silver beak. It alights on the office desk or on the parlor centre table. Men and women stand and admire it. They do not notice that it has wings larger, then a rayon's property than a rayon's property propert has wings larger than a raven's, larger than a flamingo's, larger than an eagle's. One wave of the hand of misfortune and it spreads its beautiful plumage and is gone— "as an eagle toward heaven," my text an eagle toward heaven," my text says, though sometimes I think it goes in the other direction.

What a verification we have had of the flying capacity of riches in Wall street! And Wall street is one of the ongest streets in the world. It does not begin at the foot of Trinity church, New York, and end at the East river, as many suppose. 1t reaches through all our American cities and across the sea. Encouraged by the revival of trade and by the fact that Wall street disasters of other years were so far back as to for themselves a line larm and comfortable home. She was about 80 years of age and is survived by her aged husband and a numerous family; also many grandelidren.

other years were so lar back as to be forgotten, speculators ran up the stocks from point to point until innocent people on the outside suppose that the stocks would always contact the stocks would always. Halifax, June 11—The annual meeting of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons was held here today. The follow-of money are taken into Wall street. of money are taken into Wall street and small sums of money. The crash comes, thank God, in time to warn off a great many who were on their off a great many who were on their way thither, for the sadness of the thing is that a great many of the young men of our cities who save a little money for the purpose of starting themselves in business, and who have $500 or $1,000 or $2,000 or $10,000 go into Wall street and lose Salisbury, N. B., June 12—A particularN. Salisbury, N. Salisbur > certain kinds of nefarious enterprises now is the time. Stocks rose and fell, and now they begin to rise again, and they will fall again until thousands of young men will be ruined unless the printing press and the pulpit give emphatic utterance. My counsel is to countrymen, so far as they may hear of this discourse, if they have greatly to invest, invest it in mortgages and in moneyed institutions which, though paying comparatively small interest, are sound and safe beyond dispute, and to stand clear of the Wall street vortex, where so many have been swamped and swallowed. What a compliment it is to the healthy condition of our country that these recent disasters have in nowise pressed trade! I thank God that Wall street's capacity to blast this country has gone forever.

Across the island of New York in 1685 a wall made of stone and earth and cannon mounted was built to keep off the savages. Along by that wall a street was laid out, and as the street followed the line of the wall it was appropriately called Wall tural, and yet its history is unique Excepting Lombard street, London it is the mightiest street an this planet. There the government of the ington held his levees. There Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Knox and other brilliant women of the Revolution displayed their charms. There Witherspoon and Jonathan Edwards and George White-field sometimes preached. There Dr. field sometimes preached. There Dr. Mason chided Alexander Hamilton for writing the constitution of the United States without any God in it. There negroes were sold in the slave mart. There criminals were harnessof burden, compelled to draw or were lashed through the street carts to which they were fastened. There fortunes have come to corona tion or burial since the day when eckless speculators in powdered hair and silver shoe buckles dodged Du-gan, the governor-general of His Majesty, clear down to yesterday at 3 o'clock. The history of Wall street is to a certain extent the financial commercial, agricultural, mining, literary, artistic, moral and religious history of this country. They are the best men in this country and there are the worst. Everything from unswerving integrity to tiptop scoundrelism-everything from heaven born charity to bloodless Shylockism I want to put the plow in at th curbstone at Trinity and drive it clear through to Wall street ferry. And so it shall go if the horses are strong enough to draw the plow. First of all, Wall street stands as a type in this country for tried tegrity and the most outrageous villainy. Farmers who have only a few put on the market have but little to test their character, but put a man into the seven times heated furnace of Wall street excitement and he either comes out a Shadrach, with hair unsinged, or he is burned into a black moral cinder. No half way work about it. If I wanted to find integrity bombproof, I would go among the bankers and merchants of Wall street, yet because there have been such villainies enacted there at different times some men have supposed that it is a great financial de-bauchery, and they hardly dare go near the street or walk up or down it unless they have buttoned up their last pocket and had their lives in-gured or religiously crossed themselves. Yet if you start at either end

With a History—A Dual Type, First of Tried Integrity and Then of Unbounded Swindle.

Washington, June 9.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage arraigns the Surger of Wall street is a type of Unbounded Swindle on the Other. There are the spiders that crocodiles that crawl up through the slime to catch the calf. There are the anacondas, with lifted lass. anacondas, with lifted loop, ready to crush the unwary. There are financial wreckers, who stand could be says. From morning until evening 'Change alley was full to overflowing with one dense, moving mass of living beings.

Let me say it is no place for a man to go into business unless his moral principle is thoroughly settled.

That is no place for a man to go their high stations to enter upon this That is no place for a man to go their into business who does not know great when he is overpaid $5 by mistake whether he had better take it back or not. That is no place for a man to go who has large funds in trust and who is all the time tempted to and who is all the time tempted to speculate with them. That is no place for a man to go who does not quite know whether the laws of the within an hour of their creation. quite know whether the laws of the state forbid usury or patronize it. stramboats and whose opera houses could not atone for his adulterous rides through Central Panh. could not atone for his adulterous rides through Central Park in the face of decent New York and whose behavior on Wall street by its example has blasted tens of thousands of young men of this generation. I hold up the polluted memeory to warn young men whose moral prit ciples are not thoroughly settled to keep out of Wall street. It is no place in Christian principle. You are in a great commercial battlefield. Be courageous. There is such a thing as a hero of the lank and a hero of the Stock Exchange. You be that hero. I have not so much admiration for the French empress who stood in her balcony in Paris and addressed admiration for that venerable banker on the steps of his moneyed institution and quieted the fears of depos fors and bade peace to the angry wave of commercial excitement. iel, and he will not allow the 'tears' to hurt you. Remember, my friend, that all these scenes of business will soon have passed away, and by the law of Cod's eternal right all the affairs of your business life will be adjudicated. Honesty pays best for both worlds. Again, I have to remark that

Wall street is a type throughout the country of legitimate speculation on the one hand and of ruinous gam bling on the other, Almost every merchant is to some extent a specu difference between the wholesale price but also upon the fluctuation of the markets. If the markets greatly rise he greatly gains. If the markets greatly rise he greatly gains. If the markets greatly sink, he greatly loses. It is as honest to deal in stocks as to deal in iron or coal or hardware or dry goods. He who condemns all stock dealings as though they were iniquitous simply chare his own ignor quitous simply shows his own ignorance. Stop all legitimate speculation in this country and you stop all banks, you stop all factories, you stop all storehouses, you stop all the great financial prosperities of one style of goods. The dollar that he makes is just as bright and fair and honest a dollar as the dollar earned by the day laborer. But here we must draw the line between legitimate speculation and ruinous gam bling. You, a stock operator, with-out any property behind you, finanthing and get paid for it. You sell 100 shares at $10,000 at 30 days. If at the end of 30 days you can get the scrip for $9,000, you have made a thousand. If at the end of 30 days you have to pay $11,000, then you have lost a thousand. Now that is trafficking in fiction; that is betting on chances; that involves the spirit of gambling as much as anything-that ever goes on in the lowest gamperous merchant wakes up, and he says: "Now, I have been successful in my line of trade and I have a tolin my line of trade and I have a tol-erable income. I think I shall 'go down to Wall street and treble it in three weeks. There's my neighbor. He three weeks. There's my neighbor. He was in the same line of business. He has his $300,000 or $400,000 from the simple fact that he went into Wall street. I think I shall go too."

Here they come, retired merchants who want to get a little excitement in their lethargic veins. Here they come, men celebrated for prudence, to trifle with the livelihoods of widows and orphans. Do you wonder that sometimes they become insane? It is insanity. Do you know there are hundreds of young men who are per-ishing under the passion for stock gambling? Do you know that in all Christian lands this is one of the greatest curses? Excitement following excitement numerous that they are invading until all kinds of gambling projects came forth. There was a large com-

Churchmen and dissenters left their fierce disputes and forget their wranglings upon church gov-ernment in the deep and hazardous quite know whether the laws of the state forbid usury or patronize it. Oh, how many men have risked themselves in the vortex and gene down for the simple reason their integrity had not been thoroughly established. Remember poor Ketcham. How soon the flying heofs of his iron grays when fortune frowned upon them. the flying hoofs of his iron grays clattered with him to his destruction! Remember poor Gay, at 30 years of age astonishing the world with his fortunes and his forgeries. Remember that famous man whose the state of the state o extensively and, like those by whom they were surrounded, rose from poverty to wealth and from that were thrown down to beggary and want, and all in one short week, and perhaps before the evening which ter-minated the first day of their specuto those who are doing a legitimate business on that or similar streets of which that is a type of which that is a type of the control of the business on that or similar streets and blinded by the prevailing infat-of which that is a type to stand firm met their stockbrokers, whom they

O men of Wall street and of all streets, stand back from nefarious enterprises, join that great company of Christian men who are maintaining their integrity, notwithstanding all the pressure of temptation. In the morning, when you open business in the broker's office or in the banking house, ask God's blessing, and when you close it pronounce a beneficion upon it. A kind of business that men cannot engage in without prayer is no business for you. I wish that the words of George Peabody, uttered in the hearing of the people of his native town—Danvers, Mass.—I wish that the words of God's blessing of all the young men throughout the land. He said:

"Though Providence has granted me unvaried and universal success in the pursuit of fortune in other lands I interes we are to be wondered at pursuit of fortune in other lands I into which learning and taking their delight.

Though Providence has granted me unvaried and universal success in the pursuit of fortune in other lands I light and fragrance, and peopled with multitudes of joyful souls all young and the pursuit of fortune in other lands I light and fragrance, and peopled with multitudes of joyful souls all young and taking their delight.

Though Providence has granted me previous providence has granted me pursuit of fortune in other lands I light and fragrance, and peopled with multitudes of joyful souls all young and the pursuit of fortune in other lands I light and fragrance, and peopled with multi citement all distinctions of party light and fragrance, and peopled with multitudes of joyful souls all young and merry, singing and taking their delight. And beyond this paradise another, ordained for perfect souls, and into which the dreamer was not allowed to enter, but which he saw to be brighter and altogether lovelier than the first. Right loth was brother Drithelm—as he was henceforth to be called, for after his vision he adopted the monastic life—to quit this scene of beauty and return to carth. But the vision vanished, and he suddenam still in heart the humble boy who left yonder unpretending dwelling. There is not a youth within the sound of my voice whose early opportunities and advantages are not very much greater than were my own, and I have since achieved no-thing that is impossible to the most humble boy among you." George Peabody's success in business was not more remarkable than his integrity and his great hearted beprotecting and prospering blessing. I hope you may all make fortunes for time and fortunes for eternity Some day when you come out the clearing house or the place o in the tower and see by the move-ment of the hands how your life is rapidly going away and be reminded of the fact that before God's throne of inexorable judgment you must yet give account for what you have done since the day you sold the first yard of cloth or the first pound of sugar. I pray for you all prosperity. Stand close to Christ, and Christ will stand tation the more magnificent the re-ward. But, alas, for the stock gam-bler-what will he do in the judg-ment? That day will settle everything. That to the stock gambler will be a "break" at the "first call." No snuggling into heaven. No "collaterals" on which to trade your way in. Go in through Christ the Lord or you will forever stay done your last day's work on earth appropriate text for your funeral oration should be, "As a partridge sitteth on eggs and hatcheth them not, so he that getteth riches, and midst of his days, and at the end ho shall be a fool," or that appropriate funeral psalm should be

DREAMS AND VISIONS OF HEAVEN.

Apart from poetry, the more or less | ham," which dates from the close of consciously created images of Dante, Mil- twelfth century. The monk himse on, Giles, Fletcher, and others, apart also how, longing with a great desire dreamer, Bunyan, and those of Swedenborg, to whom they were a matter of daily occurrence, there shine forth in literature stray visions of the celestial regions, which have come to bless the lonely musings of seers and mystics, and not of them only, here and there throughout the world. Long before Dante had conjured up on the dark background of mediaeval superstition his glorious vision of Paradise, to the imagination of many another, hermit, monk or layman, whether sleeping or waking, the heavens were opened and sights of wonder and delight revealed.

Bede, whose pages are full of things celestial, relates the vision of one Drithelm, a Northumbrian of the seventh cenfrom the heavenly visions of that arch- glimpse of the world to come, eim, a Northumbrian of the seventh century, who, having seemed to die—"having died," says Bede—was led forth out of the body, as he afterwards recounted, by one of "a shining countenance and bright garment." . .
