WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, PLEASE MENTION THE GUIDE

animal. Oats may be substituted for bran and barley in part for corn if it can be had at 1½ cents per pound or less.

Ration for swine.—Brood sows should have but little corn. Bran and shorts with small amount of corn will give better results at farrowing time. Oats is a good single grain, but too high in price now. For fattening purposes corn and barley are about equal. At the present price corn should be soaked or ground.

For poultry.—Corn is a fattening feed. It cannot take the place of wheat or oats for egg production. It may be fed in limited quantities along with other grains.

In conclusion it must be borne in mind that corn is a fat and heat producing food; that it is low in protein and ash. It is being brought into the Prairie Provinces to substitute for oats and barley and low grade wheat. If it is mixed with fair amounts of bran, shorts, oats and a little flax seed meal, it will form the basis of a good safe ration. Where barley can be bought for 1½ cents a pound or less, there is no need of buying corn at present prices. Mixed with the same feeds as corn, or if boiled, barley is equal to corn in feeding value.

In beginning the feeding of corn or in substituting corn for oats or bran ration, the change should be made in all cases gradually.

SEASONABLE REMINDERS

Work the heavy in foal mare, but use judgment as to the kind of work you give her to do. Don't get her into heavy ground, where there is any possibility of her getting mired, and don't put her on a heavy load of seed grain which is stuck and expect her to start it up without any danger to herself. Use horse sense, but don't let her stand idle.

Make it a point to see that the collar on every horse you are going to work fits properly. Make sure of this. Then see to it that the harness on every team is fitting right. The hames particularly should fit the collar snugly and it should be noticed that the draft, when the hame-straps are tightened up, comes well up on to the shoulder. A great many young horses have to be laid off each year just because the hames have been set so that the draft has come down on to the point of the shoulder.

A word to the hired man. Let the horses go slow and easy for the first few days. Don't unduly rush them and get them in a lather. They will be soft after doing nothing all winter and need a few days to get hardened up. Each time you stop at the ends, go round quietly to the heads of your team, speaking to them at the same time, and raise the collars off their shoulders. Stop your team each time facing the wind. Don't stop them too long each time; horses will get stiff just as you will with a long rest after harrowing. With the collars constantly raised, shoulders will have a chance to dry off and harden up. Wash the shoulders at noon and night with salt and cold water for a week or two.

"Politeness costs nothing, but it has made many a hired man rich. In many families the title 'hired man' has a ring to it which suggests an idea almost, if not quite, opposite to that of a 'gentleman.' Be the exception, wherever you go. Be a hired man and a gentleman too."

You can't get after the gophers too early. Fix up some poisoned grain and kill them before they commence to breed. A suggestion was received from a reader the other day that gophers might be controlled in the same way as the wolves are in the United States, namely by inoculating some of them with an infectious or contagious disease which might be passed on by the affected ones. C. H. Lee, professor of bacteriology at the Manitoba Agricultural College states that so far no suitable disease germ has yet been isolated which might be used for this purpose. He would be very glad to receive at any time specimens of gophers from any locality which appear to be suffering from some disease so that they may be examined for disease germs which may be made use of to help in controlling this pest.

STALLS and STANCHIONS

The Clean-Cut Simplicity of Louden Stalls and Stanchions in design and construction; their absolute freedom from dirt-gathering cracks, crevices, corners or attachments, make them the only really sanitary barn equipment.

The Superior Flexibility of the Louden Stanchion permits the cow to lie down or rise without the dangerous straining common to the more rigid type. The Louden Stanchion (all steel or wood-lined) is an absolutely safe and comfortable stanchion.

Louden Stalls and Stanchions are built of the finest, high-carbon tubular steel and are exceptionally strong, easily installed and cost no more than wood.

We also manufacture Feed and Litter Cans, Spring-balanced Mangers and Manger Partitions, Bird-proof Barn Door Hangers, Hay Tools, Power Hoists; Calf, Bull, Cow and Pig Pens, Window Ventilators, Etc.

Write us for Free Illustrated Catalogue, or see your dealer. We can be of service to you in planning your new barn. Our barn experts will give you FREE sketches and suggestions that will be of value. Write us.
