Simple Dishes for Sunday Night Suppers

BY HILDA BARKER.

HOUSEKEEPERS and hostesses are always glad of any suggestions for making Sunday night tea an attractive meal without undue cost either in money or labor. So this week I am giving recipes for dishes that are a little unusual, but are sure to be liked, also simple to prepare, and at prices within the means of the average family.

Cheese Pie.
This is a very substantial dish, an excellent substitute for meat. To make it cut thin slices of white bread and thinner slices of cheese, sufficient to fill a deep baking dish. Lay small slices of bread at the bottom of the dish buttered, then slices of cheese, and go on alternately until the dish is full, sprinkling as you fill with a little salt and a pinch of red pepper. Beat two eggs and put into one cup of milk. Pour over the bread and bake until the cheese is soft, which will be in about thirty to forty-five minutes.

Egg Salad.
When a dish not too hearty is desired try egg salad served in this way. Boil the eggs hard, remove the shells and cut in halves lengthwise. Take out the yolks and mash with a silver fork, and season with anything at hand, as chow-chow, olives or mixed pickles, mixing in a little melted butter, and salt and pepper to taste. When well mixed return to the eggs (whites) and arrange on a bed of lettuce or watercress. Pour over a French dressing or mayonnaise as preferred.

Oyster Cake.
Another very nourishing but not heavy dish that will be welcomed at this season of the year is oyster short cake. Make a thick batter with two cups of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Rub in a tablespoonful of butter, then add one beaten egg and mix together with milk. Spread on a buttered tin and bake in a quick oven. While hot, split and spread with butter. Meantime, while the cake is baking, prepare the filling. Scald a quart of oysters in their own liquor, then take them out and keep hot. Strain the liquid and return one cupful of it to the pot. Mix two tablespoonfuls of butter with one of flour and stir into the boiling liquor. Season with salt and pepper. When this comes to a boil put in the oysters. Stir until thoroughly heated through. Then fill the cake and serve at once.

Baked Chocolate Custard.
This is a delicious sweet dish for supper, and as it is served cold can be prepared beforehand. Melt the chocolate in a double boiler, then pour in the milk and watch it till it reaches the scalding point, when it should be poured over two beaten eggs, sugar to taste and a pinch of salt. Strain into a buttered mould or individual cups, set in a pan of hot water and bake in the oven until a knife put through the middle of the custard comes out clean.
