

The Charlotte Town Herald

CHARLOTTETOWN PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 17 1892

VOL XXI NO 19

NEW SERIES

The Charlotte Town Herald
— IS PUBLISHED —
Every Wednesday
— BY —
Jas. McIsaac, Editor & Proprietor
FROM THE "HERALD" OFFICE, DONNOLLY'S BUILDING,
Queen Street, Charlotte Town, P. E. I.

Subscription: One Year, in Advance, $1.00 Advertising Rates—50 cents per inch for 64 insertions, and 20 cents for each continuation. Special notices 10 cents per line for each insertion.

Contracts made for Monthly, Quarterly, Half-yearly, or Yearly advertisements, on application.
Remittances may be made by Draft, P. O. Order, or Registered Letter.

Correspondence should be addressed to
THE EDITOR OR THE "HERALD."

FARM FOR SALE.

THREE undervalued offers for sale his freehold farm of 150 acres situated at Cape Breton, P. E. I. There is a good house and barn on the premises. About 10 acres are cleared and in good state. A road, about 1/2 mile long, being partly covered with hard and soft wood. The land is 6 miles from Canning, 5 miles from Grand River Bridge and 6 miles from St. Peter's Bay. It will be sold at a reasonable price.

PETER SHARKEY,
Canning, Feb. 15, 1892.

SURPRISE
Washday
EVERY WOMAN
WANTS TO USE
IT.
It is the best soap for washing
clothes.
It is the best
soap for
washing
dishes.
It is the best
soap for
washing
the face.
It is the best
soap for
washing
the hands.
It is the best
soap for
washing
the feet.
It is the best
soap for
washing
the hair.
It is the best
soap for
washing
the body.
It is the best
soap for
washing
the soul.

With British and Mercantile INSURANCE COMPANY
— OF —
EDINBURGH AND LONDON.

ESTABLISHED 1809.

Capital Assets, 1880, - $30,576,000.

FRANCHISE every description of Fire and Life Business on the most favorable terms.

This Company has been well and favorably known for its prompt payment of losses in this island during the past twenty-two years.

FRED. W. HYDEMAN,
Agent.
Old Merchants Bank of P. E. I., Water St., Charlotte Town, Jan. 21, 1891.

NOTICE.

ESTATE OF H. BROWN & Co., Stanley Bridge.

ALL persons indebted to the above estate, by note of hand, Book account or otherwise, are required to make immediate payment to HUGH B. MCKAY, Clerk of County Court at Clifton, who is duly authorized to grant receipts for same.
BENJAMIN ROGERS,
Assignee
Nov. 3-17

NERVE BEANS
Cures
Nervous
Debility
Headache
Dizziness
Blindness
Deafness
Stomach
Disorders
Kidney
Disease
Rheumatism
Skin Diseases

BURDOCK BLOOD
Regulates the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, cures
Dyspepsia, Biliousness,
Constipation, Headache,
Blood and removes all impurities from a Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sores.
Cures
Dyspepsia, Biliousness,
Constipation, Headache,
Blood and removes all impurities from a Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sores.
Cures
Dyspepsia, Biliousness,
Constipation, Headache,
Blood and removes all impurities from a Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sores.

CHEAPEST YET!
Local Baking Powder
PERKINS & STERNS
are now showing the contents of over 100 Cases and Sales
— OF —
Fall and Winter Dry Goods,
All of which will be sold at the lowest prices. Everything New, Good and Cheap, and worthy the inspection of every buyer.

CHEAP GROCERIES
If you want to buy cheap Groceries during the Festival Season, the place to buy them is At Kelly & McKenna's,
Their Stock is now complete, consisting of Teas, Sugars, Coffee's, Flour, Meal, Beans, Rice, Raisins, Currants, Figs, Nuts, &c.; and also a fine Selection of choice Fruits, Confectionery, Canned Goods, Spices, and everything to be had in a first-class Grocery. Remember the place.

Connolly's Old Stand,
Queen Street.

Mark Wright & Co
(LIMITED) — ARE GIVING —
GREAT BARGAINS
— IN —
FURNITURE.

Prince Edward Island Railway.
1891-92 WINTER ARRANGEMENT. 1891-92

On and after Tuesday, December 1st, 1891, Trains will run as follows:—

| TRAINS FOR THE WEST. | | | | TRAINS FROM THE WEST. | | | |
|----------------------|-------------|------------|--|-----------------------|------------|--------|--|
| STATIONS. | No. 1. | No. 2. | | STATIONS. | No. 2. | No. 4. | |
| Charlotte Town | A. M. 1.50 | | | Timothy | P. M. 7.00 | | |
| Royal Junction | 7.15 | 2.15 | | Alberton | 8.45 | | |
| North Wilshire | 7.30 | 2.30 | | Bloomfield | 9.00 | | |
| Hunter River | 8.00 | 3.07 | | O'Leary | 9.00 | | |
| Freestone | 8.00 | 4.22 | | Port Hill | 10.00 | | |
| Kingston | 9.20 | 5.30 | | Wellington | 10.00 | | |
| | 10.40 | | | Mission | 10.20 | | |
| Summerside | P. M. 11.30 | A. M. 7.30 | | | | | |
| Wellington | 12.00 | | | Kingston | 12.05 | 7.05 | |
| Mission | 1.00 | | | Freestone | 12.25 | 7.25 | |
| Wellington | 1.27 | | | General Junction | 12.35 | 7.35 | |
| Port Hill | 1.57 | | | Brattonville | 12.45 | 7.45 | |
| O'Leary | 2.30 | | | Hunter River | 1.15 | 8.15 | |
| Bloomfield | 3.35 | | | North Wilshire | 1.25 | 8.45 | |
| Alberton | 4.35 | | | Royal Junction | 1.35 | 9.07 | |
| Timothy | 5.35 | | | Charlotte Town | 2.20 | 10.27 | |

| TRAINS FOR THE EAST. | | | | TRAINS FROM THE EAST. | | | |
|----------------------|------------|------------|--|-----------------------|------------|---------|--|
| STATIONS. | No. 7. | No. 11. | | STATIONS. | No. 8. | No. 10. | |
| Charlotte Town | P. M. 4.45 | A. M. 7.10 | | Georgetown | A. M. 7.10 | | |
| Royal Junction | 5.20 | 8.20 | | Cardigan | 7.30 | | |
| Bedford | 5.50 | 8.50 | | Mount Stewart June | 8.00 | | |
| Mount Stewart June | 6.10 | 9.10 | | | | | |
| Cardigan | 6.40 | | | Bedford | 9.00 | 10.17 | |
| Georgetown | 6.55 | | | Royal Junction | 10.10 | 10.30 | |
| | | | | Charlotte Town | 10.30 | 11.10 | |

Trains are run by Eastern Standard Time.
Trains No. 11 & 12 will be discontinued after December 31st, 1891.
J. UNSWORTH,
L113 Office, Charlotte Town, Dec. 4, 1891.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.
TRADE MARK THE STORIES ABOUT ILL HEALTH.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has been written about the health of the Pope lately. I have just had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in hot haste," said the doctor. "After he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse, but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade the servants disturbing him until he awoke of his own accord. We then went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with him until about half-past nine. At ten o'clock we went home, but the Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously ill, which was far from being the fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his taking bonbons, caramels, eating chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely simple, as is his diet. He rises about six, says Mass and then takes a cup of coffee. At two he takes a walk in the garden, or at other intervals. At ten o'clock he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks wine, but is very abstemious in its use."
"When the weather is fine he walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort or any medicinal bath, except the usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a young man. He does most of his writing himself, rarely employing a secretary. He has no chronic illness, and he is reported to be being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has
been written about the health of
the Pope lately. I have just
had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has
been written about the health of
the Pope lately. I have just
had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has
been written about the health of
the Pope lately. I have just
had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has
been written about the health of
the Pope lately. I have just
had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has
been written about the health of
the Pope lately. I have just
had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Local and Special News.
They Followed Copy.
THAT IS, THEY DID AS BEST THEY
COULD UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.
(Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)
"Horror, what an obscenity has
been written about the health of
the Pope lately. I have just
had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Pope Leo's Daily Life.
HIS PHYSICIAN EMPHATICALLY CON-TRADICTS THE STORIES ABOUT ILL
HEALTH.
ROME, Jan. 25, 1892.—Much noise has been written about the health of the Pope lately. I have just had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Pope Leo's Daily Life.
HIS PHYSICIAN EMPHATICALLY CON-
TRADICTS THE STORIES ABOUT ILL
HEALTH.
ROME, Jan. 25, 1892.—Much noise
has been written about the health of the Pope lately. I have just had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Pope Leo's Daily Life.
HIS PHYSICIAN EMPHATICALLY CON-
TRADICTS THE STORIES ABOUT ILL
HEALTH.
ROME, Jan. 25, 1892.—Much noise
has been written about the health of the Pope lately. I have just had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Pope Leo's Daily Life.
HIS PHYSICIAN EMPHATICALLY CON-
TRADICTS THE STORIES ABOUT ILL
HEALTH.
ROME, Jan. 25, 1892.—Much noise
has been written about the health of the Pope lately. I have just had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and
that causes him neither pain nor
trouble."—Special to N. Y. Herald.

Pope Leo's Daily Life.
HIS PHYSICIAN EMPHATICALLY CON-
TRADICTS THE STORIES ABOUT ILL
HEALTH.
ROME, Jan. 25, 1892.—Much noise
has been written about the health of the Pope lately. I have just had an interview with Professor Ceccarelli, the famous surgeon,
who said, as regards the newspaper
stories about the health of the Pope
that they are absolutely falsehoods.
There was no sending for me in
hot haste," said the doctor. "After
he had read Duke Charles of Mecklenburg, and when I called at the Vatican on Monday,
I found His Holiness a little hoarse,
but in the habit of calling at the Vatican once a week, usually on Monday, and we go there at five in
the afternoon."
"On Thursday last we found him
taking a little sleep, and forbade
the servants disturbing him until
he awoke of his own accord. We then
went into his apartment and remained conversing quietly with
him until about half-past nine. At
ten o'clock we went home, but the
Pope in the habit of calling at the Vatican for such an unusual
length of time made a report. Accordingly it was at once inferred
that His Holiness must be seriously
ill, which was far from being the
fact. His general health is good,
and all that you read about his
taking bonbons, caramels, eating
chicken wings and so on is pure
nonsense."
"His daily life is extremely
simple, as is his diet. He rises
about six, says Mass and then takes
a cup of coffee. At two he takes
a walk in the garden, or at
other intervals. At ten o'clock
he has his meals, and at twelve
he never touches meat. He drinks
wine, but is very abstemious in its
use."
"When the weather is fine he
walks in the gardens of the Vatican
a half to three quarters of an
hour in the shade, not in the sun.
He takes no medicine of any sort
or any medicinal bath, except the
usual bath at certain times—that is
his only medicine."
"As for work, he works like a
young man. He does most of his
writing himself, rarely employ-
ing a secretary. He has no chronic
illness, and he is reported to be
being eighty-two years of age, and that