South American Diplomats believe Bolivia is Making text for War With Peru Are On Guard

BOLIVIA AIMS AT TERRITORIAL CONQU

Successful War With Would Give Bolivia Outlet Sea Through Moque Province

Washington, Aug. 9.—Is B making a pretext to bring on a war with Peru? This question is being asked daily by South American diplomats who are watching every development in the situation in which Argentina and Peru are directly interested and Chile and Brazil indirectly. Some of the diplomats profess to think that the excitement in Bolivia over the Argentine award, which is favorable to Peru is really a preliminary adjustment of the boundary dispute to secure a more satisfactory adjustment of the boundary dispute tract but actually a territorial conquest. Bolivia has no coast. A successful war with Peru might give an outlet to the sea by demanding an indemnity Moquegua, the southernmost in Peru and adjoining the Chilean frontier. In the harbor of this province is the harbor of Puno. It is said to be an excellent harbor and its acquisition by Bolivia would be of great advantage to her. It depends upon the attitude to be assumed by the Bolivian congress opened its sessions Saturday. Argentina award is accepted and should prevent further trouble. On the other hand, Bolivia refuses to abide by that decision and proceeds to occupy the disputed territory. Serious trouble is ahead. (Continued on Page 3)
