TWO DEOWNING ACCIDENTS.

A Young Englishman Takes Cramps in Yesterday morning between 12 and half past, a distressing fatality occurred on the Humber river about half a mile from Hicks' boat house. Two young men, not long out from England, came up the river, and one of them stripped and plunged into the water, After swimming across, and, on his return, he was suddenly seized with cramps. His companion on the bank, not being able to swim, gave the alarm. Several people hastened to the scene, one young lad succeeding was making a desperate fight for life, but unfortunately it was of no avail as he sank immediately after. The moment he had cone down two boats, each manned by four gentlemen, arrived on the scene One of the crew from the first boat stripped at once and gallantly plunged in at the spot indicated by the excited spectators on shore. Owing to the great depth at this spot—some 20 feet—he was unable to reach the body. Much credit is nevertheless due to him for his praiseworthy effort. The news was at once carried to Charlie Nurse that a man was in the river. Nurse immediately rowed to the place with a grappling hook and the usual appliances necessary on these occasions. After an hour's search the corpse was grappled, but, on reaching the surface, slipped from the hook, and the work had to be recommenced.

of a shoemaker on Queen street west named Apgood. The father arrived on the scene about 5 o'clock and took the remains home in an express waggon, Another accident quite as pathetic resulted in the death of a bright little child of two years old, the son of Mr. T. Eaton, the dry goods merchant of this city. The groom had filled a tub with water for the rses, and while some of the members of the family were engaged in croquet on the lawn the little fellow was sailing a toy boat. When the groom returned the child was drowned, lying face downward in the tub. Much sympathy was expressed throughout the city yesterday for the bereaved parents.

The duo improvisata by Miss Berry and Belle Lampinau showed the great breadth and power of the instruments on which they were playing to their futlest advantage. The tinale is especially imposing and majestic. The feature of the performance, however, was the cautata "Little Snow White" by Franz Abbt. its first performance on any stage, says:—
"It is an extravaganza of the extreme kind, replete with side-splitting situations. There is little of plot or even coherence to it, unless it be in the uninterrupted flow of fun. As a whole 'In Camp' affords an evening of genuine, unmitigated hilarity, and is well calculated to amuse an audience at the present time of the year. Mr. Vokes has surrounded himself with a talented company, especially strong in vocal accomplishments. Prominent among them is Miss Helen Dingeon, who possesses a charming soprano voice of pure and bird-like quality, which has evidently received good training. She sang several solos, among them the Jewel song from Faust, with excellent effect, and her efforts elicited enthusiastic recognition. Miss Pauline Hall and Miss Emma Schultz also met the requirements of their respec-tive parts in haudsome style. Fred. Vokes was a host in himself—as usual—and his Fitzallerton Scroggs was positively irresist-ible. The role is one not easily analyz d and must be seen to be enjoyed. The first scene in the first act comprised some novel effects, while the setting of the second act of a stage with its accessories and contrivances was decidedly clever and quite a give away of theatrical affairs out of sight of the
