Ald. Phil Casey of Brooklyn, champion hand-ball player, offers to play any man in the world for $1000 or $10,000 a side. The San Francisco police are closing down on glove-fights, and the probability is that Sullivan and Ryan will meet some where else, if they meet at all.

The Harvard gymnasium directors favor the placing of looking-glasses at each pulley-weight, so that one can see just what muscles are being exercised. Callicon Depot, Sullivan county, N.Y., has had a guessing match as to the number of seeds in a big sun-flower. The seeds when counted were found to number 4150. The prize was taken on a guess of 4300. John Keen, who lately refurned to England, informed the Sporting Life that "Hendee of Springfield was a wonderfully good rider, and that next year it will take a flyer, such as probably England does not possess, to beat him."

Henry N. Tyler, who was indicted for stealing pool tickets on the Brighton Beach race track last summer, was discharged by Justice Moore of Brooklyn, on the ground that pool tickets have no value in law, and that it is no crime to steal them.

Geo. W. Lee and Cotsford of British Columbia have signed articles of agreement for a scullers' race to take place at Victoria, B.C., on Jan. 14. Lee will start for Victoria on Tuesday next, and Hanlain will accompany him. Lee is allowed $100 for expenses, and the match is three miles for $300 a side.

Notwithstanding the outcry often raise by the followers of the turf, who recklessly drop their money, and the sage ideas of the turf cynic or censor, who thinks nearly every race is a matter of bargain and sale I believe the drivers are as scarce as black The believe the drivers are as scarce as olack foxes that will deceive an owner by discobeying his order to win. I have frequently heard persons, who are not intimately acquainted with Dan Mace, admit he is the Napoleon of the turf, but say: "You can't tell which way he is going." Dan enjoys giving color to their surmises by shrr.gging his shoulders, nodding and winking, as if to say: "You're right;" but in his sober moments, surrounded by Griends who know him best he talks differently. Not long ago he earnestly and ab. ently. Not long ago he carnestly and abruptly said to me: "If you outlive me, which is very likely, I want you to write of me these two things, that I always lived up to my agreements, and I never pulled a horse on an owner or wronged a friend in my life." This I firmly believe, and can tell an interesting story in point. In the palmy days of the Tweed ring Mr. H. W. Genet, then dubbed "Prince Hal," matched his team of mares, a black and a bay, against Jim Irving's pair of trotters for $1000 a side. The race came off at the tell an interesting story in point. In the palmy days of the Tweed ring Mr. H. W. Genet, then dubbed 'Prince Hal,' matched his team of mares, a black and a bay, against Jim Irving's pair of trotters for $1000 a side. The race came off at the Fashion track; Mace drove the mares and the latter Pair, with instructions to win at all hazards, but he could not reach Dan, who won the first heat easily, and as there was considerable betting on it, Mace was offered $1000 to let Irving's team win, which he refused. There was a rough gang in attendance, who were ready to do almost anything; and Joe Coburn, hearing that the plan was to disable Mace so that he could not drive, came to him, saying: 'Pan, I'll lose considerable betting on it, Machand Mach able money if Irving's team gets beat, but I wouldn't do to you as some of the gang want me to for any money, so be on your guard." Shortly afterward a tough customer called Figgzy and his pals approached. The ringleader tried to decoy Dan among them, but he resolutely replied: "Keep your distance, for if one of you attempts to lay a hand on me I'll drop him." He was not molested, but won the race with a brace of pistols in his pockets, and Jim Irving took McLaughlin's place after the first heat."

Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 13th inst. to hand. It seems almost too good to be true that I am cured of Catarrh, but I know that I am. I have had no return of the disease and never felt better in my life. I have tried so many things for eatarrh, suffered so much and for so many years, that it is hard for me to realise that I am really better.

I consider that mine was a very bad case. It was aggravated and chronic, involving the throat as well as the nasal passages, and I thought I would require the three treatments, but feel fully cured by the two sent me, and I am thankful that I was ever induced to send to you.

You are at liberty to use this letter, stating that I have been cured at two treatments, and I shall gladly recommend your remedy to some of my friends who are sufferers.

Helene is the handsomest girl of her race,
She's an elegant form and an exquisite face,
And she dresses with perfectly consummate grace,
But she doesn't know chicken from turkey;
She knows many languages, living and dead;
In science and fiction is very well read,
But she cannot cook meat, and she cannot make bread,
And she doesn't know chicken from turkey.

She can play a "Fantasia or "Nocturne" with skill;
Can sing up to "B"—has a wonderful trill;
Can write a good story or sonnet, but still
She doesn't know chicken from turkey.
She's been up the Tiber, the Rhine and the Nile,
She's a painter in every popular style—
Can decorate china, a plaque or a tile,
But she doesn't know chicken from turkey.

She's always self-satisfied, graceful and cool;
A critic, both just and correct as a rule;
And knows every stitch of the Kensington school,
But she doesn't know chicken from turkey.
She can work a design by Lansing or Burt;
But she cannot cut out for her children a skirt,
Or make for her husband a well-fitting shirt—
She doesn't know chicken from turkey.

I'm willing a girl should read Latin and Greek; Should German and French and Italian speak; And be "up" in the latest esthetical freak,
 If she only knows chicken from turkey.
I'd like her in music and song to take part;
Read poetry, science and cultivate art,
If husband and children were first to her heart,
 And if she knew chicken from turkey.

Knew barley from rice, knew a tart from a pie;
A boil from a stew, a broil from a from a fry;
And if she went into the market to buy,
Knew very well chicken from turkey.
For, to make a home happy, all knowledge must blend,
Art, science and service their benefits lend;
Then, ladies so clever and wise, condescend
To know about chicken or turkey.
