

VOL. 31.

Professional Cards.

J. M. OWEN, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, AND NOTARY PUBLIC.

Office in Annapolis opposite garison gate... OFFICE IN MIDDLETON.

O. T. DANIELS, BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, ETC.

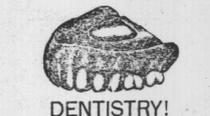

O. S. MILLER, Barrister, & C.

Head of Queen St., Bridgetown.

Money to Loan on First-Class Real Estate.

Real Estate Agent, etc. SHAFNER BUILDING, BRIDGETOWN, N. S.

Prompt and satisfactory attention given to the collection of claims, and all other professional business.

DR. F. S. ANDERSON, Graduate of the University of Maryland.

Primrose, D. D. S., Office in Drug Store, corner Queen and Gloucester streets.

J. B. WHITMAN, Land Surveyor, ROUND HILL, N. S.

Ls lie R. Fairn, ARCHITECT, WOLFVILLE, N. S.

UNION BANK OF HALIFAX, Capital Authorized, $3,000,000.

Head Office: Halifax, N. S.

E. L. THORNE, General Manager, C. N. S. STRICKLAND, Supt. of Branches.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT, Interest computed half-yearly at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

BRANCHES: NOVA SCOTIA—Annapolis, Bridgetown, Pictou, etc.

CORRESPONDENTS: London and Westminster Bank, London, England.

TRADE MARKS, PATENTS, Scientific Appliances.

WANTED—SEVERAL INDUSTRIOUS PERSONS in each state to travel for house and land.

Fine Job Printing.

Good Stock, Neat Workmanship, Up-to-Date Styles, Prompt Execution, Reasonable Prices, Satisfaction to Patrons.

We Print BILLHEADS, LETTERHEADS, NOTEHEDS, MEMO FORMS, STATEMENTS, ENVELOPES, BUSINESS CARDS, FOLDERS, BLOTTERS, RECEIPT FORMS, Trustees' Blanks, Church Envelopes, S. S. Library Cards, LABELS, POSTERS, CIRCULARS, BOOKLETS, PAMPHLETS, APPEAL CASES, LEGAL FORMS, SPECIAL ORDERS.

inest Lines Wedding Stationery Satisfaction Guaranteed

Monitor Job Printing Department.

Bug Death Pays

Kills the Bug, Feeds the Plan. SO SAY the Government Experimental Farms at Ottawa, Ont., Nappan, N.S., Compton, Que., and Guelph, Ont.

Poetry. Why? Why? Why? Why chide the little child that elicits...

Why throw a dry-picked bone to those who hunger for your cheer? Why send the cruel taunt to force the ready tear? Why not call in the starving ones, to share your garnered stores? And spare the clinging tendrils, till your foolish rage is o'er?

Why strive to wreck a neighbor, who has forged his bark ahead? Why denigrate the living, saying good words for the dead?

Why not hurrah for comrades, on the pillows of success and ease? And give a passing credit, 'till the rising brother bleeds?

Why cast a stone before a friend, who stumbles with his load? Why pierce the cruel, aching eye, who seeks again the road?

Why not extend the helping hand, to some who are in need of light? And aid the sick-sighing stranger, in the effort for the right?

Why make this world a wilderness, when flowers bloom at will? Why scatter the light shadows, when there's light on every hill?

Why not the fair sports cultivate, the labor always true? And on the brightest hill-top, seek the sunshine's cheering rays?

Why thus perverse, unkind and cruel, our brothers trample o'er? Why hear Lovell's portals, when the stricken knock at every door?

Unbar, fling wide the iron gates, and make this heart a shrine of refuge in a world of strife.

—T. Brunwick Henata, Select Literature. A Non-union Town.

(By I. K. Friedman, in Saturday Evening Post.)

"Wall, gentlemen, what is it you want of me?"

"I've got it right here," answered the canny Parker, drawing one roll of foolscap after the other out of his capacious pockets.

"If I look it over as soon as I can possibly spare the time," said Hugh T. McCurtin, Esq., drawing himself up with dignity.

"I've got it right here," answered the canny Parker, drawing one roll of foolscap after the other out of his capacious pockets.

"If I look it over as soon as I can possibly spare the time," said Hugh T. McCurtin, Esq., drawing himself up with dignity.

"I've got it right here," answered the canny Parker, drawing one roll of foolscap after the other out of his capacious pockets.

"If I look it over as soon as I can possibly spare the time," said Hugh T. McCurtin, Esq., drawing himself up with dignity.

"I've got it right here," answered the canny Parker, drawing one roll of foolscap after the other out of his capacious pockets.

"If I look it over as soon as I can possibly spare the time," said Hugh T. McCurtin, Esq., drawing himself up with dignity.

all shacked 'of politics and campaign... "Then—why—don't—you—stay?" she sobbed out.

"But why don't you get me?" he pleaded. "My father wouldn't allow it," she burst out.

"If marry you to-night, Paulina, you father will have nothing to say about it in the morning."

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

tolerate the indignity of giving way to tears. "Then—why—don't—you—stay?" she sobbed out.

"But why don't you get me?" he pleaded. "My father wouldn't allow it," she burst out.

"If marry you to-night, Paulina, you father will have nothing to say about it in the morning."

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

"It would be better, according to my way of thinking," he answered, "to get married first and ask for permission afterward."

The attorney smiled, as Paulina's intuition told her it would, by a visit to the parson, in a few minutes thereafter.

The cigar-maker was jubilant. The delighted girl had expected an upbraiding. Instead she received a most rousing welcome.

"It would be his permission first," she pleaded timidly and with only half a heart.

No Birds on Women's Hats. One of the most important steps in advance that has ever been taken in the protection of this country, is the agreement which has recently been made between the Millinery Merchants' protective association of New York, and the Audubon society of that state.

The members of the Millinery Merchants' protective association have pledged themselves to abstain from the importation, manufacture, purchase or sale of gulls, terns, grebes, humming birds and song birds, and that no means will be spared to convict and punish all persons who continue to deal in the said prohibited birds; to notify the millinery trade by printed notices as to what plumes can be legally used, and to mail printed notices to all dealers in raw materials, importers and manufacturers of fancy feathers, and to the millinery trade in general that all violations of the law will be reported to the proper authorities.

It was further agreed on the part of the Millinery Merchants' protective association that on and after Jan. 1, 1904, the importation, manufacture, purchase or sale of plumes of egrets, herons and American pelicans of any species should cease, and that the said birds should be added to the list of prohibited species above mentioned. It was also understood and agreed that the restrictions referred to in regard to gulls, terns, grebes, herons and humming birds should apply to the birds irrespective of the country in which they might have been killed or captured.

The Audubon society of New York on its part agreed to endeavor to prevent all illegal interference on the part of any person with the millinery trade; to refrain from aiding the passage of any legislation that has for its object restrictions against the importation, manufacture and sale of fancy feathers obtained from domestic birds, and to abstain from the use of foreign birds other than those specifically mentioned above. Both parties agreed that the contract, when made, shall remain in force for a period of three years from the date of its execution.

Consistent relations have thereby been established with the very best and highest class of wholesale and retail bird lovers that they would do all they could to prevent the use of plumes by small dealers, especially in the case of those who have in the past been flagrant violators of the law.

Dear Sirs—In connection with the above, I have to advise you that I have received a quantity of the very best and highest class of wholesale and retail bird lovers that they would do all they could to prevent the use of plumes by small dealers, especially in the case of those who have in the past been flagrant violators of the law.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea. "About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea, says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment, without a result. Finally we moved to Bosque County, our present home, and on the day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with the testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The cure was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly believe that what was so often said of this medicine was true. After having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me."

Capt. Bloomfield Douglas had a Narrow Escape. Capt. Bloomfield Douglas and a United States gentleman who went to Ingonish on a fishing trip had a narrow escape from drowning on Friday, says the Chronicle. Capt. Douglas and his companion were crossing Fresh Water Lake in a canoe boat, and when some distance from the shore the camp stool upon which he was sitting, slipped and the boat upset, throwing both gentlemen in the water. By a six o'clock start the United States gentleman managed to right the boat and secured two life preservers which fortunately had been placed on board before leaving shore, one of which he placed about Capt. Douglas's shoulders and the other about himself. The boat was then pulled up to the shore by a young man on the opposite side of the lake, but no boat being near, he had to run to Collector of Customs Shea's, where he secured one and returned to the rescue of the two men. The American gentleman was rescued first and assisted the young man in getting Capt. Douglas in the boat. The Capt. Douglas was exhausted from being in the water for over half an hour, and was taken to the post office where he was cared for until the arrival of a doctor from Neil's Harbor, a few hours later, on the steamer Boynton. Captain Douglas and his companion lost all their fishing gear as a result of the accident. The young man who rescued them will be suitably rewarded.

Stomach and Bowel Troubles. A promptly satisfactory cure for Cramps, Colic, Indigestion, Heartburn, Bilelessness, Sick Stomach and Summer Complaint, is a few drops of Nervine in sweetened water. Nervine is the best general pyrexia remedy for internal pains known; it sets so quickly that no household should be without it. Buy a 25c. bottle of Nervine to-day, it's all right.

Death Dealing Parlor Match. A fatal accident by fire occurred the other day in Chicago by which two women were burned to death, and which revives attention to the death dealing "parlor match." An old lady touched off a match with her shoe, and a flare of burning brimstone caught on her dress. Instantly she was ablaze, and her daughter, coming to the rescue, was soon in the same dreadful predicament. Both were burned to death. This parlor match has claimed two more victims to date, its toll of horror. In New York and other states the manufacture and sale of the parlor match is forbidden by law. In Canada common sense has reverted to the old-fashioned "hand" match or "the 15 minute flame" on the grounds of safety. Although this match is dangerous to property, it is not dangerous to the foodness of mice and rats for brimstone. Many a life would be saved and many a dollar's worth of property saved if handling matches were exercised in handling matches of any kind.

Hamilton's Pills cure constipation. About eighteen months ago Mr. W. S. Manning, of Albany, N. Y., widely known in trade circles as the representative of the Albany Chemical Co., was suffering from a protracted attack of diarrhoea. "I tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," he says, "and obtained immediate relief. I cheerfully recommend this medicine to those similarly afflicted." Sold by S. N. Weare.

Whole Crew in Jail. The crew of the bark Edna at Hantsport, Maine, on Tuesday and as a result Captain Langille is in the hospital at Halifax with a broken leg and a badly cut face. The vessel arrived on Monday and the crew, obtaining leave, left for Windsor and got drunk. They returned to the vessel the same night and next morning when ordered to work, refused duty. The captain endeavored to compel them to turn to, but the whole crew, consisting of five men, all Spaniards, turned on him, beating him badly and causing him in his efforts to get away, to fall, thus breaking his leg. The whole crew were placed under arrest and are now in jail at Windsor.

Cholera Infantum. This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases that afflict infants. It is caused by the use of impure water, and is characterized by vomiting, diarrhoea, and a sunken face. It is necessary to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by S. N. Weare.

Valuable Time Saved. Slight injuries often disable a man and cause several days' loss of time, and when blood poison develops, sometimes result in the loss of a hand or limb. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment. When applied to cuts, bruises and burns, it causes them to heal quickly and without inflammation, and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. For sale by S. N. Weare.

"Would you oblige me," said the reporter who gets novel interviews, "by telling me what book has helped you most in life?"

And after a thoughtful pause the great man answered, "My bank book."