IN the Modern Review for October, Lady Florence Dixie says that a wealthy gentleman offered her £135,000 to establish a morning one cent newspaper devoted to the interests of women. When, however, he insisted that she was to devote a certain portion of the paper to fashion and dress, Lady Florence rebelled and would have nothing to do with the scheme. She now thinks of starting a dress reform paper on her own account without his aid.

LITTLE more than a decade back, Emerson, Man, then known as the Gateway City, boasted of a couple of daily papers. Now the place has not even a weekly. About a year ago, J. B. Spurr, who had just disposed of his Creemore, Ontario, printing office, went west and, after looking round, purchased the Emerson Times from the company which was then running it. Mr. Spurr carried the business on until some three months ago, when he moved the plant to Edmonton, N. W. T., where he started the Edmonton Times. On his way through, Mr. Spurr made a call at our Winnipeg Branch and left an order for some point system type, which, since his arrival there, has been considerably added to. He is publishing the largest paper in the place, and is well pleased with his prospects.
