

scale, Customs regulations, a temperature chart, a full article on development, and directions for toning, intensification, reduction and similar photographic operations by the simplest and most satisfactory methods available.

Bound up with these printed pages of condensed photographic information, is a complete diary for 1908, together with ruled pages for systematically recording the details of over 300 exposures; also pages for memoranda, and for recording the exposures when printing on bromide, platotype, carbon and other printing papers.

The book is enclosed in a neat wallet cover, lettered in gold, and fitted with a pencil and a pocket for storing proofs, etc. A new and important feature of the 1908 edition is, that it entitles purchasers to a hanging card for the dark room, giving the relative exposures required when using any one of 84 varieties of bromide paper or lantern slides.

The addition of a handy table for calculating exposures in photography at night is another new and useful feature.

This Record and Diary is published by Burroughs, Wellcome & Co., London and Montreal, and the price at Montreal is 30 cents.
