UNSUSPECTED LOADS.

A little lad,
A pistol bad,
A bang! Egad!
The upshot's sad,
A ma half mad,
A weeping dad—
He didn't know it was loaded.

A man; the same
I will not name,
Of dice a game,
With gold for aim,
Dead broke! a shame!
He was to blame—
He didn't know they were loaded.

A man out west,
Who doth invest
In mine of gold,
But thinks he's sold;
He sells the mine,
It turns out fine—
He didn't know it was loaded.

Maud (outside): "Is papa in there with you, George?"
George: "Yes, Miss Maud; would you like to see him?"
Maud: "Please ask him for me—"
George: "I was on the point of doing so when you interrupted—"
Papa: "Bless you, my children."—Tidbits.

Three weeks ago an Indian man taught his dog, a very finely bred, well behaved setter, to chew tobacco. Now the dog comes into the house by the back door, never scrapes his feet on the mat, never goes to church, is careless at his meals, gets burrs in his tail, goes with a lower grade of dogs, and it is feared is beginning to take an interest in politics.

The deacon's wife wanted to jot down the text, and leaning over to her scape-grace nephew she whispered,—“Have you a card about you?”—“You can't play in church,” was his solemn, reproving answer; and the good woman was so flustered that she forgot all about the text.
