

reopened the centre in February, 1982 following renovations to permit an expansion of its activities, particularly in the audio-visual, plastic and performing arts.

In addition to the programs at Canada House, numerous cultural activities take place on a regular basis at many locations throughout Britain.