

of men familiar with the subject. Inspection was certainly needed, and his proposal would provide that inspection.

Mr. LANGEVIN said that, under the old Government, when any charge was made against an agent, an officer of the Government was sent up to examine into it. He did not think the appointment necessary.

Mr. CARTWRIGHT said he agreed with this to a certain extent, but the rule could not very well apply to the distant North-West.

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD said the appointment seemed only to be for the benefit of some political friend, and he would take the sense of the House upon it.

Resolution read the second time and agreed to.

On Resolution 242, expenses of Committees, extra Sessional clerks, &c., House of Commons, $4,500,

Mr. MILLS.

Mr. ROBITAILLE asked, as to the mode of distributing reports, which he observed were being packed up and dispatched in large numbers, while some members could not obtain copies.

Mr. BOWELL said he had seen bushels being packed.

Mr. PLUMB said the reports appeared to consist of large pamphlets published by Mr. Spence and Mr. Trow.

Mr. FARROW said the hon. member for Perth (Mr. Trow) deserved great credit for the way in which he had acted on the Immigration Committee. It was the unanimous wish of the Immigration Committee that those pamphlets should be printed.

Mr. BOWELL said hon. gentlemen seemed to have lost sight of the question. What he wanted to know was why some hon. members could get bushels of those pamphlets and others did not know where to get them.

Mr. MILLS said the pamphlets could be got at the Immigration Office.

Resolution read the second time and agreed to.

On Resolution 214, to provide for expenditure likely to be incurred in connection with the Exhibition to be held at Paris, $25,000,

In reply to Mr. LANGEVIN,

Mr. MACKENZIE said the Government had not yet matured their plans in regard to the manner in which the exhibition of Canadian goods at the Paris Exposition should be conducted. It was the intention of the Government to make it as creditable as possible.

Resolution read the second time and agreed to.

On Resolution 245, Prince Edward Island Railway, including stores, $42,000,

Mr. MACKENZIE said the amount was altogether for stores. They required to keep a quantity of coal, iron, wheels, &c., on hand.

Mr. LANGEVIN said he thought this should not be charged to capital.
