

*Business of the HouseBUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Nowlan: May I inquire of the acting leader of the house what business we shall be dealing with tomorrow and the rest of the week?

Mr. MacNaught: Tomorrow we shall continue with the committee stage of the boundaries bill and, if it is finished, we shall proceed then to the third reading of that bill. Last night I announced we would take up the resolution preceding the Post Office Act amendment. If that is finished tomorrow, on Friday we would proceed with the second reading stage of that measure and then to the budget resolutions, and on Monday a motion to go into supply.

At six o'clock the house adjourned, without question put, pursuant to standing order.
