

would have been installed throughout North America as a most useful instrument in the hands of would-be homicides. There might have been an epidemic of cases of poisoning by this substance. We firmly believe that the evidence and verdict will have the useful effect of preventing anything of the kind. We mention this with relief, as not unfrequently after celebrated murder cases where some little known poison has been brought prominently into public notice, such epidemics have occurred. /