

to retire to a
vigable waters.
credit this re-
of two gentle-
vigilance of the
the royal army

1st October.

the Chesapeak.
a accompanying
friends on board
vice of Mr. C—at as our troops
at on the west-
I could not ren-
to myself, or thither." But bly operates to situation—the ce to obtain intelligence

telligence relative to the welfare of my dearest wife and son.

8th October.

On Saturday last arrived the packet.
Your letters, which informed me that you were well and happy, relieved my mind from a most painful and tedious state of disquietude.

On the same day an expedition took place under the command of Sir Henry Clinton, and commodore Hotham. Their destination was up the North River; and this instant we have received the particulars of their operations. Fort Montgomery, and Fort Clinton, have been taken by storm; and in the capture of these places, it was doubtful whether bravery or humanity was most predominant.

Count Gabrouski, a young Polish nobleman, who arrived in the late fleet from

F f 4

Eng-