All were animated by an eagerness not to let a single item of the whole show pass them. They crowded and jostled their elders or any other obstacle which blocked their way to the front rank wherever a crowd of sightseers assembled. They besieged the good-natured exhibitors in the Main Building and other departments for "cards." Some of the more fortunate ones rode donkeys and enjoyed it, and those who hadn't as good luck enjoyed themselves twice as much in guying the riders and pound ing the patient beasts of burden. The "Merry Go Round" swarmed with children of all shapes, sizes and conditions, and the peanut, candy and fruit vendors drove a roaring trade. classes and descriptions, long boys and

The Performance on the stage.

Towards 1 o'clock there was a steady stream in the direction of the Grand Stand, and within a few minutes of the opening of the gates the lower flat was well filled and the overflow about half filled the upper storey. Unfortunately the rain commenced to fall and threw a damper upon the proceedings, compelling the management to considerably curtail the performances on the stage. But nothing could restrain the ardor of Young Canada out for a holiday. They applauded every-

Mr. Mason of Mason & Risch congratulated the president upon the success of the Exhibition, which he could safely state had made marvelous strides during the 18 years of its existence. He had found much pleasure in going through the Main and Music Buildings, and was gratified to see the evidences of the advance in all lines of manufacture in the various exhibits.

Mr. Wychard of Montreal said it was his first visit to Toronto Exhibition and he had been more than surprised at the standard of excellence which he observed in the exhibits. He was very much gratified at the fine display, which reflected great credit on the growers.
Mr. Gagen thought the fine art de-

Yesterday was Children's Day at the Fair and the management, visitors and the exhibitors were soon made aware of the fact. From an early hour in the morning, they commenced to arrive. The rising generation realized that it was their day out and they took possession of it from the time they left home. The fun started on the cars. They kept the conductors busy and in a mortal state of anxiety until they were deposited at their journey's end, and then the weary car men breathed

The Performance on the stage.

Mr. Batonyi of New York had judg-ed at horse shows and exhibitions since 17 years of age, but he had never been at any show where greater system and regularity was observed than in Toronto. He was glad to be able to tell them that three Canadian horses had swept nearly everything before them in the United States this year. The successful horses were "Great Scott" in the carriage, "Terrebonne" in the saddle, and "Kensington" in the hunters clesses. This announcement was received with ap-body and everything and betrayed the keenest interest in the trotting races, cheering the winner of each heat lustily.

The attractions on the stage were of unusual merit. The Powers Bros., as skatorial artists, and later on in their comic bicycle acts, were very clever; Sie Hassan Ben All and his troupe of Arabs performed some very fine tumbling and pyramid work. The acrobatic work of the Eddy trio was new, clever and highly entertaining. Perhaps the most amusing to the children was the performance of the Norris educated ponies. Miss Ellien Vetter's spiral ascension act, in which, while enclosed in a perforated sphere, she makes it travel up and down a spiral incline, was greeted with applause. On the track an exhibition of the unicycle was given by Mr. Kay, and Mr. Aurel Batonyl of New York drove a spanking four-in hand team around the ring on the run, handling the ribbons with ease, grace and dexterity. Messrs, Harmon and Tustin did some risky diving from high elevations.

Owing to the wet weather the "Grand Festival of All Nations" and several other numbers on the program could not be given.

The directors entertained the exhibitors in the Main Euilding and Annex at luncheon in the afternoon. Hon, G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, was also invited, but could not attend. After luncheon there were the usual patriotic and other toasts.

It might not be amiss to warn the public, especially those attending the Exhibition from a distance, that when they have been through the Music Pavilion, they have not, by any means, seen all the musical instruments on exhibition. The Dominion Organ and Piano Company have their private pavilion a few steps to the east. This company holds the best of recommends, the highest prize gold medal at the Columbia Exposition of 1893 at Chicago in competition with the world. This triumph is indeed a magnificent one, but since that time the firm has been adding improvements continually, so adding improvements continually, so that the new and attractive designs of 1896 are superior in a marked degree to those of 1893.
