It is understood that the several farm properties recently bought by Sir William Mulock on Yonge-street north, There is said to be some trouble about nearly 350 acres in all, have been acthe election of D. Lafortune in Mont-quited by a syndicate composed of calm, and so far the returning officer Canadian, Scotch and English capitalists, at a cost altogether of $350,000, and that the latter would immediately proceed to create a high-class residential district. It is said to be the intention of the Melrose Company, the purchasers, to lay out the lland in avenues, cresecents and squares, and by had to fear in fighting war. The prayer the limination of factories entirely, and a careful supervision of all stores and business places, to preserve it entirely for suburban homes.

The properties acquired are all on the west side of Yonge-street, practically within the boundaries of the Town of North Toronto, embrace altogether about 350 acres, and extend from McDougall's sideroad to near the top of Hogg's Hollow, a distance of probably three quarters of a mile The southeast 100 acres bought by the syndicate from Sir William, was formerly owned by Sam Lawrence, is practically all farm land except along Yonge-street, and was secured a short time ago for $400 an acre.

North of this again is the Bedford lots a number of years ago, and on which a number of houses have been of history at Toronto University, gave built. The Bedford Park property com-prises nearly 100 acres. The George night on the subject: "St. Francis of north, with an acreage of about 80 reries of more important events in the acres, is included in the deal, as is also the St. Germain property of the deal as is also the st. CHIMPANZEE DINES AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Knox Post-Graduates.

That all the thirty-three labor members of the British house of commons are God-fearing men and nearly all total abstainers, was the statement of graduate conference at Knox College yesterday on the subject of "Labor's Religion." This said the speaker, was a difficult position, because people were always looking for their bad points and directing attention to them

"We are put upon a pedestal where it is hard to keep our balance.' He had come in contact with many people who professed an unbelief in God, but had found that they only did this publicly. He was once asked to address a body of young men and the chairman introduced him as an example of a successful moral man. Just at that time he was particularly downhearted and felt that everything he had attempted had been a failure, and he told them so. Next day he received a letter which ran: "Why man, don't you know that the world's greatest fallure was its greatest triumph?" After that his motto had been "Go straight, fear not and God will do the rest.' Peace was one of labor's greatest triumphs. Ignorace was what they which God gave us on the mount-"Lead us not into temptation"-meant in proportion to our ability to resist temptation, we should remove temptation from the path of our weaker brothers.

It was our duty in life to tell other people that God cares, and in so doing it was better to fill their bellies first before trying to impress upon them that they wouldn't have been hungry if they hadn't been sinners. "It is simply an abominable thing when a man cuts out evangelism," said Rev. Prof. Kilpatrick at the morning meeting. "Preach with passion and fervor too deep for hysteria, the message of the gospel."
Rev. Prof. Ballantyne spoke on "Old

Prof. Wylie commented that the saint taught a doctrine of socialism which differed from modern teachings in that; it strove for community in the individual and not in land.
