Turf First Day At Hamilton

ANOTHER LEAGUE RECORD FOR URBAN

Shocker Pitches Fifty-Four Innings of Scoreless Ball —Game Was Draw.

Shocker held Montreal runless for seven innings yesterday, and this made his mark fifty-four innings of consecutive scoreless ball. This is an International League record, but not a world's record, as many people thought at the island yesterday. Wilhelm of the Birmingham, Ala., team, in 1909, shut out opposing teams fifty-nine innings, without a run. This is the recognized record of baseball.

Shocker has two International League records to his credit within a week. On Saturday at Rochester he pitched eleven innings without a hit being registered off him, and then he ran his scoreless innings up to fifty-four yesterday.

The Leafs and the Royals are where they started, Toronto won on Monday and the Royals grabbed Tuesday's game. Yesterday the two teams battled for twelve innings, and each scored two runs. The umpire called the game at the end of the twelfth innings.

While Shocker was compiling his league record, the Leafs were not having much luck with Colwell, and his bafflers had the locals breaking their backs. It was a tidy pitching duel for seven innings. Hard work and the heat got to Shocker, and he weakened a trifle in the eighth. Montreal rushed over their two runs here. Fred Herbert finished the game and held Montreal scoreless.

While McTigue did not do any hurling, he made himself solid for many a day. With the Leafs one run down in the eighth, Mac was sent in to hit for Shocker, McTigue walloped the second ball pitched for a home run into the right-field bleachers, and put us back in the battle. It was an honest home run.

The Leafs were away in front in the third. Trout opened with a double, and Shocker sacrificed. Truesdale rolled out, but Smith got a hit to deep short and Trout scored. It was a merry pitching battle until the eighth. The local fielders worked their heads off behind Shocker. The good Toronto pitcher got himself out of a tight corner in the fifth. With one down, Wagner got the second hit for Montreal, stole second, and went to third on a passed ball. Slattery fell a victim to strikes, but Madden walked and stole. Shocker made Colwell whiff for the third out.

The sixth was another round of heart trouble. Smyth beat out a bunt. Moran raised a pop foul to Blackburne. Leach dropped Maisel's pop fly, but recovered in time to throw out Moran at second. Maisel stole and Smith walked. Thompson had a race to pull down Damrau's high one on the right-field foul line to end it.

Shocker got thru the seventh nicely, but trouble blew up in the eighth again, and the scoreless innings record was broken. After Colwell had fanned, Smyth hit and stole. Moran walked, but Maisel forced Smyth at third. Smith also got on free, and then Damrau hit the old apple to deep left for two bases to count two baserunners. Wagner went free, but Thompson pulled down Slattery's fly.

Shocker had worked his head off getting this far, and it was only human that he should be allowed to retire. McTigue was sent up to bat for him in our half of the eighth, and replied by banging the second ball into the bleachers for a homer and the tying run.

Colwell kept right on pitching for the Royals, and went the full twelve innings. Herbert was invincible for the rest of the game.

The Leafs leave for Buffalo this morning, and will stay in the leaders' town until Saturday night.
