Yonkers Races.
Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The first Grand Circuit trotting meeting seen here in five years opened today at Empire City Park here. Continued rains made the track heavy and tiring to the horses and public form was completely upset.

In the $5,000 race for 208 trotters, which was the feature of the programme, Lee Asworthy, 2:08½, hitherto unbeaten this season, was defeated in a crushing style by Peter Scott. In the heavy going the colt that won the fastest three-mile race on record at Cleveland 4:40 last night ago, could do no better than "take third money when the heats were in 2:06½, 2:10 and 2:09½. There was no betting at the meeting. Owing to the heavy track condition 1 did not start to beat his record of 1:58. He will start on Thursday.

Charter Oak Free-for-Alls Off.
Hartford, Conn., Aug. 31.—The free-for-all and free-for-all trot, announced for the Grand Circuit meeting at Charter Oak Park, Sept. 6 to 11, did not fall and were declared off yesterday. The other late closing events, the 208 pace, 2:10 trot and 2:15 trot, filled satisfactorily and were added to the programme.

News of the Boxers.
Packer McFarland is to meet Mike Gibbons at Brighton Beach, N. J., Sept. 11, was only seven pounds over the required 147-pound limit on Monday. He figures he can make the weight easily.
Ad Wolgast has been offered $8,000 to box Johnny Griffiths in Columbus, O., next month.

There has been a lot of adverse comment about boxers changing their names. There is a boxer now in New York who figured he was doing the best thing when he made a change from Lemon Kegg to Roger O'Malley. He said that his real name would make him a joke in the opinion of the promoters.

The art of punching is lost to many of the boxers today. That it can be acquired by practice and study is verified by the success of the late, Ray, who said: "When I broke in the game as an amateur I couldn't break an egg with my punches. I asked a trainer to show me the art. My punches were so light that Rob thought there was something the matter. Hold your elbows close to your sides, he yelled at me. I tried it and surprised myself when I almost topped him with one punch."

Boot Tonight.
Tom Cowler vs. Jack Hample, New York.
Who Is Champion?
Who is the middleweight champion? That is a question that is puzzling the fight fans. An Australia they think that Les Darcy is the best ever. From what he did recently by knocking out Eddie McGovery in the sixth round, who has his claim as just about as good as any one else's. McGovery was right at the top of the United States. No one has ever considered "Al" McCoy a real champion, in spite of the fact that he gives him his title. Darcy, who knows about ring things feels McCoy is a false alarm. Gibbons may be the equal of any middleweight, but it remains to be seen what he can do over a long career.

Well Known Athlete Killed.
London, Aug. 28.—Lieutenant Cecil Croley, Royal Fusiliers, who was reported killed in the Dardanelles, was found yesterday by the British army. He was instrumental in introducing and organizing Rugby rules for the university of the Dardanelles. He was also well known in Canada as an expert boxer.

Speed Demon Sunk.
Chicago, Aug. 30.—The $25,000 hydroplane Disturber Y. owned by James A. Pugh, commodore of the Chicago Yacht Club, which was launched on Saturday, took a short turn on her trip in the lake off a down-town street, careened and plunged to the bottom in less than two minutes. The crew were saved.

BASKETBALL.
Standard Rules This Year
New York, Aug. 31.—A committee appointed by the Amateur Athletic Union to confer with the college athletic authorities regarding basketball announced Tuesday that for the first time in the history of that game the amateur and college rules this year will be alike. This result was attained through a number of open meetings held during the winter and a male vote.

Hereafter the amateur rules did not permit the scoring of a goal after a dribble, but the amateur authorities have conceded this point to the collegemen and in the future amateur teams will permit this style of play.

Chess.
A Unique Challenge
Newell W. Banks, the American checker champion, who is also recognized as an expert at chess, having heard of a proposition put forth by Frank L. Marshall, United States chess champion, to play anyone a blindfold match consisting of four games of chess and four games of checkers, all eight to be carried on simultaneously, for a sum of $10,000, says that he is prepared to begin negotiations with such an end in view. The draughts champion, however goes Marshall one better and declares to meet him in a manner that will appeal to the followers of both games, as more practical. In other words he suggests that two matches over the board one of ten games of checkers for $500 a game in addition to a stake of $200, the disposition of which will depend upon the final total score. Such a match would be the first of the sort ever arranged between really noted exponents of the two games. Banks plans to make a comprehensive tour of the country shortly, playing both checkers and chess and next year will make an open bid for the world's championship at checkers, now held by Jordan of England.

The biggest stable thus far entered is that of Driver Tommy Raymond, of this city, who has given an entry for each of the six classes and will thus be one of the busiest drivers of the week. He is to ship his stable to Halifax on Saturday, and will come back here from Nova Scotia's fair and then ship to Chatham.
St. John will supply a much larger number of horses for the Frederickton meeting than have been sent here in the winter. Port city for many years. Already several entries have been received from St. John and a good many others are declared to be on the way here today. Everything now points to snappy, well contested races.

A good deal of local interest centers this week in the races at the Houlton, Me. Fair. The first of the races will take place this afternoon.

THE PASSING OF NANCY HANKS

Career of Famous Mare Ends at Age of 29 Years—World's Record in 1892

Nancy Hanks, 2:04, once the champion of the world, died at the age of twenty-nine years, a few days ago at Hamburg Place, Lexington, Ky., where she has been owned for several years, and was buried in the lot provided for a last resting place for the noted horses owned by the master of the great breeding establishment.
The daughter of Happy Medium and Nancy Lee, by Diastor, was bred by Hart Moswell, of Fayette county, Kentucky, and in her two-year-old form was turned over to Ben Kenney, then a young trainer of considerable fame and began her education over the track on what is now the superb estate in Kentucky of the late James B. Haggin, and known as Green Hill. At first fully, afterward destined to become the most noted trotter the world has ever seen, was most unimpressive, and it was not until the autumn of her first season of active training that Kenney was able to show her owner the proof of her real capacity. Late in the summer of 1888, the mare trotted a quarter faster than any other two-year-old horse ever gone, and then it was that Ben Kenney knew that, if all went well with his pupil, a new star had been discovered.

During the following season Nancy Hanks raced in the Blue Grass Circuit without meeting defeat and with only one losing heat charged against her. The next to gain distinction as the only horse to finish in front of the future champion was Bonnie Wilmore, 2:14½. How well she was an empty one, as the mare was taken back when the word was given and the colt allowed to win on a surferance. As a three-year-old Nancy, as she was called by the Kentuckians, repeated her two-year-old performance by making a clean sweep of her engagements, and at the end of the season was heralded throughout the country as the greatest trotter ever foaled in Kentucky.

That had been made for her is known to all admirers of the trotter, and that she should become the champion of the harness horses was in keeping with her early promise, her breeding, and her way of going.
After her successful career as a four-year-old, Nancy immediately became the reigning sensation of the trotting world, and so great was her capacity that her owner concluded to accept the proposition made him by Budd Doble to train her and race on a percentage plan. As a five-year-old the mare continued her all-conquering career, and at the end of the season had gained a record of 2:09, a mark within a fraction of a second of the time made by Susan, 2:08½, in her memorable mile over the famous Kittery track in California.

In 1892, came the change in the style of sulkes, and, with the advantage of vast line of the little mare eclipsed all former records, and closed her campaign by placing the mark at 2:04. During the meeting at Lexington in 1891, J. Malcolm Forbes, who was on a visit to Kentucky, purchased Nancy Hanks from her breeder for a sum said to have been $35,000, but which was never divulged even by a check and where she paid for her with a check and here to investigate, was admitted yesterday by President J. J. Lammie of the Red Sox. At the same time Mr. Lammie stated that the mare was far less betting in Boston than in other American league cities and that as no money is passed it is difficult to eradicate the evil.

"Setting on different phases of the game has been in vogue in the trotting world and grand stand in every league city for many years," he said. "Some arrests were made some years ago, but they were detected passing money. But you cannot arrest two men when one says 'I'll bet you a dollar that Speaker scores' and the other nods his head, any more than you can arrest a man for betting a red apple that tomorrow will be a peach. I shall not engage any extra police-men just because President Johnson is coming here."

FOUGHT IN THE CIVIL WAR

Amherst News.—In the ninety first year of his age, Benjamin Gross, for many years a resident of Westmorland Point, passed away Sunday. Old Amherst boys scattered abroad throughout the world will read with regret of the death of "old Ben Gross." For many years he was a familiar and lovable character on our streets. A kindly hearted colored man, with a heart that remained young despite increasing years. He was born in the Annapolis Valley. At the time of the great Civil War, in the United States he went south and joined a northern regiment to fight for the freedom of his colored brethren. After the war he joined a minstrel troupe and toured the northern and southern states and Canada. Finally he settled at Westmorland Point, but for many years his hands and bones were called into requisition at entertainments given in the town and "old Ben Gross," certainly could rattle the bones in the old days. He is survived by his wife who is eighty-seven years of age.

Good Form-Natural Not Self-Conscious

The charm of good dress is attained when a man never seems to be dressed up.
An atmosphere of naturalness is the first step towards making the untutored people and both pattern of cloth and style design must be in accord.
Friends who wear well may be likened to clothes that wear well. A flashy suit may catch the passing fancy for the moment, but if one has to live with the loud pattern for a few months one grows bored—and blames the tailor.
This marks an advantage of the new method of tailoring clothes. One may try on a semi-ready suit, wear it about and see just how it will look from every view point—then they buy or reject it.
Semi-ready tailoring in the true physical type system has been brought to scientific perfection in fitting. There is never any danger of a misfit.
In the best cities in London and New York, the everyday clothes "as worn by him" are now bought in this way, except where it is more convenient to "charge them" than to pay at the moment.
Stimulated by the example of the semi-ready system first brought to perfection in Canada, many New York and London tailors now take orders and have the clothes tailored in specialized workshops—a shop with a multiple patronage of tailors. The alterations and finishing work are done just as in our own semi-ready stores—by tailors experienced in fitting and finishing.

So many are the variations worked on the semi-ready system that the wisdom of the original founders in copyrighting their name and protecting their legitimate method by the "price in the pocket" always grows more apparent.
Perhaps the best work the semi-ready Company ever did is that now shown in the shops this year for the autumn and winter. Early last fall they were pressing the British mills, and they have succeeded in getting a good variety of patterns as ever—despite the way shortage in woollens. With a few exceptions the prices are as reasonable, and we can reckon on saving from $10 to $20 on a good suit.
In the Special Order department, where the regular custom tailoring system as now followed in London (Eng.) is long developed, good semi-ready suits can be selected from the cloth, pattern, styles chosen, and the garment will be finished to measure in four days. Each suit goes through the hands of team specialized tailors on a time schedule.
John P. Condon, at 34 King street, has all the new models in semi-ready tailoring. New patterns are coming in every week for the autumn and winter in both suits and fall overcoats.
