BY REQUEST, NO PRESENTS AT WEDDING

Movement Initiated by Mr. Samuel, Lord Mayor of Norwich.

SAYS IT IS IMPOSITION

Unjustified Tax on Private Resources of Friends of Bride and Groom—A Calculating View of the Business of Gift Giving (London Standard.) Will the "No wedding presents, by request" movement, initiated by the Lord Mayor of Norwich, develop into a fashion? Arthur M. Samuel, the lord mayor in question, whose name, we regret to say, was wrongly given as A. M. Fletcher in yesterday's Standard, is to be married in London today. He has made a firm request to his friends not to send him any presents, on the ground that the custom is an imposition and an unjustified tax on their private resources.

This sentiment will probably find support in many quarters; in various circles also it will be received with the keenest opposition. The rector of a fashionable West end church, discussing the matter with one of our representatives, suggested that the custom of sending wedding gifts was open to serious objections. "To give presents," he said, "must be one of the oldest of all human instincts. It was most likely a custom long before the first fire was kindled, or the first language discovered. In those rude but rather healthy days if one man saw something he desired in the possession of another, he fought him for it. Taking was the rule then, not giving. So that when a man did freely give of his own will present a fellow creature with his favorite flint-axe, or a carving on reindeer horn, you can be sure it was an act of spontaneous friendship and simple sentiment.

SCENES IN PORTUGAL WHERE REVOLUTION THREATENS

Dispatches from points in Europe indicate a dangerous condition of affairs in Portugal, where the republican government is straining every resource to hold the situation in hand.

People give today to avoid some undesired result or to achieve a desired one, just as they did centuries of centuries ago. Civilization has its very foundations in the Gospel of Give and Take, which has nothing to do with the simple gospel of merely giving.

"Having firmly laid down my premises, I can now justify my conclusion that most people give wedding presents as a matter of simple sentiment; the acquaintances are the 99 per cent. who grudgingly sacrifice themselves upon the social altar.

"Why not be frank about it? The average healthy-minded bride and bridegroom get no shock of surprise when they find their friends have supplied them with a complete dynasty of household gods, from the Jacobean dining suite to the brass teasting fork. They expected nothing less. They relied on it; they probably drew up a rough estimate of what they considered each friend to be worth, and they probably sent wedding invitations with a purpose to the most out-of-the-way acquaintances whom they see about once a year. This is no cynical reflection on the average bride and bridegroom; they have probably been victimized often in the past, and will be victimized in the future. It would be foolish to let their own one opportunity slip, and it would be an act of treason against the law of equity. It is not grasping or reproachable; it is just plain business. Everybody is a wily nilly in business as an unlimited liability company to supply wedding gifts on credit. When he can once in a while get a cash return, so to speak, he would not be human if he refused it.

"It is for this reason that I think Mr. Samuel's innovation is extremely sound. It would be a general relief if the practice were discontinued. It is a business from which most people would prefer to retire. It leads to much bad blood and disappointment; it encourages the cynical outlook, and it often causes financial strain. The unwilling giver is one of Convention's worst products; he is a sheer contradiction in terms, an anachronism which puts a cultured civilization to shame.

"Really intimate friends, of course, who are obviously not likely to be victims of custom, should be left free to do as they will. In their case the theory justifies the practice, but on general grounds the addition to all invitation cards of the words 'No presents, by request,' is a reform which seems to have everything in its favor and nothing against it. I dare prophesy that if Mr. Samuel's example were followed in six months' time it would be as much a breath of social etiquette to accept wedding presents as it is now not to give them.

AGAINST TARIFF REVISION IN THE UNITED STATES

Manufacturers in Many Industries Line-up Before Congressional Committee and Express Their Fears.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Fears that foreign producers would invade and injure the American market, were expressed today in the testimony on the metal schedule of the tariff before the house committee on ways and means.

The committee heard arguments from representatives of manufacturing and producing interests, press manufacturers, and zinc interests of the Rocky Mountains and the Joplin fields, the wooden screw manufacturers, of which the American Screw Company controlled forty or forty-five per cent, and the $40,000,000 output of machine tools and numerous other industries, presenting a practically solid front against revision of tariff rates.

"Keep on the tariff as it stands or it will work a hardship to American industry," was a consensus of the opinions of witnesses.

Chairman Underwood pointed out that the committee was legislating for the present and not figuring on what might happen in the future.

"This committee," said Mr. Underwood, "cannot legislate on your fears and on the conditions that you say you expect. The committee ought to legislate to meet conditions when they arise."

5,000 TORONTO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS GIVEN SAGE ADVICE

Toronto, Jan. 10.—In terms mild, yet unmistakable in sincerity, Toronto University, through President Falconer, today spoke out in condemnation of student misconduct. Five thousand undergraduates, ranged tier upon tier about the vast interior of Convocation Hall, listened amid intense silence to the grave admonition and advice which followed.

"Canada has established a fine name for law and order," he declared, "but if it is to be maintained in the country abroad, it also must shine forth in the university. Students must show that they respect law and order, for it is only in constraint and self-control that success in future life will follow. We must show here that we are fit to take our place in civic life."

FIND PORTION OF MONTREAL BANK CLEER'S HIDDEN LOOT

Montreal, Jan. 10.—The sum of between $12,000 and $14,000 of the $35,700 stolen from the Bank of Hochelaga by Henri Legace, the ex-logger keeper of the institution, was recovered early today by Lieut. Savard. The money was found in the room of one of Legace's friends. As a result of his find Savard states that he has a clew which will most likely lead to a recovery of the rest of the money.

MERELY CLIMATE.

The American visitor wandered down into sunny Cornwall. Seeing some particularly large chrysanthemums in a garden, he knocked at the cottage door, and, in New York gutter language, exclaimed to the grower:—

"Fine flowers, these. Guess I'd like to know how you grow 'em."

"Oh, climate," replied the yokel.

"And them great cabbage, what makes them grow?"

"Just climate," declared the Cornwall man, seriously.

"Hut! Away in New York about all we grow is sky-scrapers. Only last year a fifty-story building sprang up like a mushroom. It grew up so quick that it had no stairs or elevator."

And the yokel started against.

"How—how do you get to the top, then?"

"Oh, climate—just climate!"

"President of the Coolidge-McClaino Bank of Silvertown, Or.," is the title now held by Miss Eva Coolidge, who has been elected to that position. Miss Coolidge is a business woman and a daughter of one of the founders of the bank.

WILSON'S INVALIDS' PORT

le Quina du Perou
A BIG BRACING TONIC

Persistent Coughing

not only annoys others and exhausts the cougher but, by constant irritation and effort does real harm to the throat, bronchial tubes, lungs and heart—often lasting injury.

Wilson's Invalids' Port Wine allays the irritation and soothes and heats the fevered membrane, because it goes beyond the surface and reaches the essential cause of cough and expectation—impaired nutrition and lack of constitutional vigour. Doctors know!

Dr. J. Dunfield—"I have pleasure in recommending Wilson's Invalids' Port as a tonic of rare quality for debilitated patients. It gives tone to the stomach by increasing the appetite and very greatly assisting digestion. I believe that it alone would cure many cases of 'run-down' constitutions enabled by any other medicine."
