TO FIGHT STRIKE. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 17.—David M. Parry, president of the National Manufacturers' Association commenting on the proposed organization of a company to insure employers of labor against strikes, says the company will undoubtedly be formed. He said that it would necessarily be a mutual company and that the membership would be kept secret, only the officers being known. "Organized labor will never know," he said, "when it orders a strike whether it is really fighting combined capital or merely making an onslaught on one individual."

THE DOG DAYS.

Summonses Issued to Dog Tax Defaulters

Were Returnable in Police Court This Forenoon.

Strange though it may appear, none of the suburban residents have noticed a long procession of happy looking dogs with wagging tails and lurching backs hanging from their mouths, baskets containing the Ma'ash Road to any of the summer resorts. Nor does it appear that the harbor master is applying for the Connolly dredge—of unpleasant civic memory—to remove from the pathway of ships the many swollen bodies of drowned pets with which the harbor must be filled.

And yet when it is known how many dogs have either gone to the country for holidays or have come to untimely ends at the different wharves, these things are worthy of note.

This is the first of the dog days, when the fish lar takes a back seat and makes way for the man who does not care to assist in paying the salaries of aldermen by contributing to the dog tax fund.

This week no less than five hundred and seventy-three summonses were issued from the police court to owners of dogs in the city proper and in Carleton, who had neglected the formality of calling at the city hall for living permits for their pets. Of these 573, many have since paid the required $1.50, for although the tax is only one dollar, those who left it too late had to fork over fifty cents for costs. There were many others who did not, and these appeared in court today to explain why their bows-woes were still in existence.

The explanations were of about the usual character and were not at all complimentary to the dogs. Some had been drowned, some had gone to the country, while others which were not worth paying taxes on absolutely refused to leave home. There were instances of old dog Tray being far too faithful, and one instance of this was given by a woman who brought to court a creature which might have been anything but the world but a dog. The woman explained at length how hard she had tried to get clear of the animal, but it seemed to be attached to her. This was more readily believed as she had the brute fastened to her by a strong cord.

All who did not appear and give satisfactory explanation today will be on Tuesday. The North End dogs will also appear next week, but they seem to be imbued with a better public spirit and there are but few of them who have no right to live.

Business at City Hall was rushing today and up till noon 780 licenses had been taken out.

MURDERER KILLED.

An Escaped Prisoner Shot and One of His Companions Hanged.

GLASGOW, Mont., June 19.—William Hardee, the condemned murderer, who with three other prisoners, escaped from the city jail here two weeks ago, after killing one guard and beating two others almost to death, has been shot and killed the Bad Lands, about seventy-five miles from this city, after a desperate battle with the posse under Sheriff Cooner. Charles R. Hill, one of the posse, received wounds from which he died in a short time. Fred McKinney, Hardee's outlaw companion, escaped after the battle, but his capture is believed to be certain. When the posse reached the city late last night, it was quickly informed that the guard at the jail was overpowered and Brown, one of Hardee's companions, who was re-captured, was taken from his cell and hanged from a window in the county court house.

CONFERENCE.

Rev. G. M. Young Elected Secretary vice Rev. Mr. McCully

Quite a Lot of Business Done at this Forenoon's Session.

YESTERDAY'S SESSIONS.

At the opening of the afternoon session Rev. J. C. Berrie, the president of the conference, in a few well chosen and complimentary remarks introduced the Rev. Dr. Carman, superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada.

Rev. Dr. Carman in his opening recently held, which he had been attending. The Presbyterians, he said, were branching out in an energetic manner, and evidently were determined not to be behind in the race for spiritual progress. The rivalry between the Methodists and Presbyterians was a godly one, inspired by right motives.

The general superintendent said that it was most important to be economical in the distribution of men and means. The Northwest was rapidly becoming populated and the Methodist body must be prepared to take charge of their share of this field, for if they did not do so it would reflect on the denomination.

Dr. Carman paid a high compliment to the New Brunswick conference. He felt sure that everything in this conference was in a serene and flourishing condition.

He always stood for the rebuking of iniquity in high places. He thought that the ministry should always stand for a high standard of public morality. Corruption in governments should be most strenuously fought against. He referred to the Gamery and in Ontario, and said that the revelation of such corrupt political practices was degrading to the public morals.

He put the pulpit above the platform and the press. The platform and the press were great factions in the expressions of opinion for the public welfare. The pulpit was established of God and therefore upon a higher level.

He would be sorry to take the statements of the press respecting their remarks said that he was glad to see Rev. J. C. Berrie, the president, installed in the chair. No man had ever shown the sunny side of his nature more than the worthy president. He was full of spirit, and he was sure would act with good judgment.

The speaker said he had just come from Winnipeg leaving there on Monday night. He recited some of the unfortunate incidents of the conference side of the political party they supported. Both sides told a different story and the ballot box was not the power in the land that it should be. There was too much political corruption existing today. The electorate was becoming degraded by men who were always ready to use vile means and vile methods. The church must use its influence to lift the electorate to a higher moral plane. They must set before the electorate a higher standard of morals and living. The press should abstain from using terms which were inclined to be vulgar. The legislators of our country had no right to be ruled by party influences, when such great questions as the observance of the Lord's day and prohibition were before the country. Men should waive all minor feelings under such conditions and assert themselves for the right. The church must use every effort to correct this state of affairs. The minister should ever be fearless in denouncing corruption whenever and wherever found.

In conclusion Dr. Carman said he hoped the blessing of God would rest on the confederation, and that their labors would be highly successful in promoting the interests of Christ's kingdom upon the earth.

Communications were read from the N. S. conference, extending greetings from Major Maude, the lieutenant governor of the province, conveying the thanks of Her Majesty, King Edward and Queen Alexandra for the expression of sympathy from the conference last year during His Majesty's illness; and from Mrs. Annie M. Baskin, corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U. in Toronto in reference to the law relating to sale of cigarettes, which was made a criminal offence in several provinces of the dominion, which, she said, was a farce, and asked for the support of the conference in securing some effective legislation to prohibit the importation, sale and manufacture of cigarettes in Canada. The matter was referred to the temperance committee.

A communication regarding the proposed convention of all the young people's societies in this province was referred to the committee of the Epworth League.

A memorial from Sackville in reference to Sunday school work was referred to the Sunday school committee.

On motion it was decided to have a group picture of the members of the conference taken by H. F. Albrecht at 12.30 p. m. today, and that the secretary notify Mr. Albrecht to that effect.

Dr. Crews, the general secretary of the Epworth League then addressed the conference.

Statistical and financial reports were then received.

Rev. C. W. Hamilton presented his report as treasurer of the conference fund. The amount received was $305.25. The report was adopted.

Rev. Mr. Hamilton was reappointed treasurer of the conference fund for the ensuing year.

At the evening session the conference was addressed by Rev. Dr. Carman on the subject of John Wesley and the history of early Methodism. Other speakers were Mrs. Ross, the president of the Woman's Missionary Society, and Rev. Dr. McLean, editor of the Wesleyan. Special music was rendered by the choir of Centenary church.

THE HEART OF THE LAKES.

(By W. W. Campbell.)

W. Wilfred Campbell was born in Berlin, Ont., June 1st, 1867. His education was received at high school and the University of Toronto. He studied to become a clergyman, but retired from the church to enter the civil service and devote his life to literature, and holds a position in the privy council office. He writes verse for American and English periodicals, and has also produced several poetical dramas.

There are crags that loom like spectres
Half under the sun and the mist,
There are beaches that gleam and glisten,
And lips held up to be kissed.

There are miles and miles of waters
That throbb like a woman's breast,
With a glad harmonious motion
Like happiness caught at rest;
As if a heart beat under
In love with its own glad rest,
Beating and beating for ever,
Outward to east and west.

There are forests that kneel for ever,
Robed in the dreamiest haze,
That God sends down in the summer
To mantle the gold of its days,
Kneeling and leaning for ever
In winding and sinuous ways.

There are birds that like smoke-drift
Hover
With a strange and bodiful cry,
Into the dream and the distance
Of the marshes that southward lie,
With their lonely lagoons and rivers,
Far under the reeling sky.

PUNISHMENT FOR TALKING.

The Duke of Argyle tells this story of Winston Churchill, which shows that the talent for talk developed early in the author and member of parliament.

Some years ago he visited Harrow and noting a boy running around the cricket field all by himself asked what he was doing for.

"That's Lord Randolph Churchill's son, and whenever he talks too much we make him run three times round the cricket field."

NOT SUCH A FOOL AS HE LOOKS.
