Poetry.

COMFORT.

Hast thou o'er the clear heaven of thy soul
Seen tempests roll?
Hast thou watch'd all the hopes thou would'st have
Fade, one by one? [won
Wait till the clouds are past, then raise thine eyes
To bluer skies!

Hast thou gone sadly through a dreary night,
And found no light;
No guide, no star, to cheer thee through the plain—
No friend, save pain?
Wait, and thy soul shall see, when most forlorn,
Rise a new morn.

Hast thou beneath another's stern control
Bent thy soul meek,
And wasted nature's hopes and precious years?
Yet calm thy fears,
For thou canst gain even from the bitterest part,
A stronger heart!

Has fate o'erwhelm'd thee with some sudden blow
Let thy tears flow;
But know, when storms are past, the heavens
Must pure, more clear; [appear
And hope, when farthest from their shining rays,
For brighter days.

Hast thou found life a chest, and worn in vain
Its iron chain?
Has thy soul bent beneath earth's heavy bond?
Look thou beyond;
If life is bitter, there for ever shine
Hopes more divine!

Art thou alone, and does thy soul complain
It lives in vain?
Not vainly does he live who can endure,
O, be thou sure,
That he who hopes and suffer here can earn
A sure return.

Hast thou found nought within thy troubled life
Save inward strife?
Hast thou found all she promised thee deceit,
And Hope a cheat?
Endure, and there shall dawn within thy breast
Eternal rest!
—Household Words.

WINTER.

Dreary old winter! weary old winter!
Snow blanched carl, all dripping and chill;
Ice chains have bound thee, winds whistle round thee,
Heavily, gloomily, plodding on still,
Yet when we meet thee, kindly we greet thee—
Sit by the hearth blaze, and melt all thy snow;
With wassail and gladness we'll charm all thy sadness,
Make thy eye brighten, thy icy blood glow,
Dreary old winter! weary old winter!
We'll make thy eye brighten, thy icy blood glow.

Cheery old winter! merry old winter!
Long while with yule wreath thy temples are bound,
Drain the spice bowl now, cheer thy old soul now;
"Christmas wees hail!" pledge the holy toast round.
Broach butt and barrel, with dance and with carol
Crown we old winter of revels the king;
And when he weary of living so merry,
He'll lie down and die on the green lap of spring.
Cheery old winter! merry old winter!
He'll lie down and die on the green lap of spring.

VARIETY.

The Nobility of Life.—I shall be governed by circumstances. I do not intend or wish Anthon to crowd my boys into the learned professions.—If any among them have particular talent or taste for them, they may follow them. They must decide for themselves in a matter more important to them than any one else. But my boys know that I should be mortified if they selected those profession from the vulgar notion that they were more genteel—a vulgar word that ought to be banished from the American vocabulary—more genteel than Agriculture or the mechanical arts. I have labored hard to convice my boys there is nothing vulgar in the mechanic's profession; no particular reason for envying the doctor or the lawyer. They, as much as the farmer or the mechanic, are working men. And I should like to know what there is particular elevating in sitting over a table and writing prescribed forms, or inquiring into the particulars of disease and dealing out physic.

It is certainly a false notion in a demorratic republic, that a lawyer has any higher claim to respectability—gentility, if you please—than a tanner, a blacksmith or a builder. It is the fault of the mechanic, if he takes the place not assigned to him by the government and institutions of his country. He is of the lower order only when he is self graded by the ignorant coarse manners which are associated with the manual labors in countries where society is divided into orders and have therefore, come to be considered inseparable from it. Rely upon it, it is not so. The old barriers are down. The time has come when being mechanics we may appear on laboring days, as well as holidays, with the sign of our profession. Talent and worth are the only eternal grounds of distinction. To these the Almighty has affixed his everlasting patent nobility, and these it is which make bright the immortal name to which our children may aspire as well as others. It will be our own fault. Anthon, if in our land, society as well as government is not organized upon a new foundation, by we must secured by our own efforts, [illegible] that are now accessible to all.

How to Break up a Cold.—Dr. Hall in his Medical Journal, gives the following directions for breaking up a cold: "A bad cold, like measles and mumps, or other similar ailments, will run its course about ten days in spite of what may be done for it, unless remedial means are employed within forty eight hours of its inception. Many a useful life may be spared to be increasingly useful, by cutting a cold short off, in the following safe and simple manner. On the first day of taking cold, there is a very unpleasant sensation of chilliness. The moment you observe this go to your room and stay there; keep it at such a temperature as will entirely prevent this chilly feeling, even if it requires a hundred degrees Fah. In addition, put your feet in water half leg deep, as hot as you can bear it, adding hotter water from time to time, for a quarter of an hour, so that the water shall be hotter when you take your feet out than when you put them in, then dry them thoroughly, and put on warm, thick, woollen stockings, even if it be summer, (when colds are the most dangerous,) and for twenty four hours eat not an atom of food, but drink as largely, as you desire of any kind of teas, and at the end of that time, if not sooner, the cold will be effectually broken, without any medicine whatever." This theory is, no doubt, good for weak constitution, but for a hale hearty person, we could recommend the substitute of cold water drinks in place of hot tea.

Nnuno Wit.—There is a tradition that one of the old squires in Malden, Massachusetts, had a slave who had been in the family, until he was about 70 years of age. Perceiving there was not much more work left in the old man, the esquire took him one day, and made him a somewhat pompous address, to the following effect:—"You have been a faithful servant to me and my father before me. I have long been thinking what I should do to reward you for your service. I give you your freedom! You are your own man." Upon this the old negro shook his grizzly head, and with a sly glance, showing that he saw through the master's intentions, quietly replied, "No, no, massa; you eat de meat, and now you must pick de bone.

"I'll call Around and Pay."—What a world we live in contained in these few words to the poor artisan and tradesman. "I'll call around and pay," says the rich man, to avoid the trouble of going the door to get the necessary funds, and the poor mechanic is obliged to go home to disappoint his workmen, and all who depend on him for their dues. It is an easy matter to work—the only real misery in this life is an independent idea of being cheated, to ascertain yourself by the labor of your own hands, even if it may be hardly sufficient what crushing misery it is to "I'll call around and pay," to the tradesman who depends upon that pay for subsistence. Reader, if you would only pay it down, it would place hundreds and thousands in comfort to do likewise and prevent much misery and distress.

JAMES SCRYMGEOUR,

beg leave to state to the Public of New-Brunswick that he has commenced Business on his own account next to the Golden Ball corner where he is prepared to execute all work in his line in a scientific and approved system.

MR. SCRYMGEOUR having served under the celebrated Professor Dick, and been taught the business of SHOEING in the most scientific manner and with all the modern improvements, he conceives himself fully master of his trade, and above making any attempt to imitate or adopt any other persons' system. The method pursued by Mr. Scrymgeour is calculated when horses have been injured in their feet by bad shoeing, to remedy the evil, and restore them again to perfect usefulness.

The subscriber respectfully solicit a call from the public, as he feels assured of giving ample satisfaction.

The Subscriber having been appointed Agent to the above Company for New-Brunswick, begs to announce that he is prepared to effect Insurance for FIRE AND LIFE ASSURANCE. The large Capital of the Company, and the security and influence of its Proprietors, enable it to rank with the most eligible Offices, either in America or Europe, with respect to the advantages offered to the Public.

FIRE BRANCH.

Persons Insured by this Company are not subject to any assessments or calls to make good losses which may happen to themselves or others, nor do they depend on any uncertain fund or contribution; the Capital Stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the Assured in case of Loss or Damage by Fire.

LIFE BRANCH.

In addition to the more customary methods of Insurance, the Company likewise Assures Lives on any of the following contingencies:—

For the terms of One Year, Seven Years, or any other definite period.

For the whole continuance of Life.—The Premiums to cease, after a limited number of Annual Payments.

For Two Joint Lives.—The sum assured to be paid on the death of either.

On the longest of Two or Three Lives.—The sum assured to be payable at the death of the last survivor; or,

The Survivorship.—To secure the payment of the sum assured, if A or B die before another life B, or A.

For a sum to be payable at age 60, or at death.

Premiums on Credit.—A portion of the Premiums on Credit. Assurances may be effected in various ways, not enumerated, to meet the convenience of parties.

The important advantages afforded by the Company in the Life Branch will include the following:—

The Guarantee of an ample Capital, and Exemption of the Assured from liability of Partnership.

Moderate Premiums.

Large Participations of Profits by the Assured amounting to Two-thirds of its net amount, which may be divided at the option of the party effecting the Assurance:—1st. By the immediate payment of the sum so apportioned.—2nd. By an equivalent increase of the sum assured.

Small Charge for Management.—The expenses of the Office being borne in due proportion by the two Branches.

Prompt Settlement of Claims.

Policies lapsed by non-payment of the Premium may be renewed within three months, by paying the premium, with a fine of 10s. per cent., on the production of evidence to the satisfaction of the Directors of the good health of the life assured.

The Company will always be prepared to Purchase the Policies of this Office at their equitable value or will grant a New Policy in lieu thereof without any to that payment of Premium, for a sum to be agreed on.

Extra Premiums, suitable to special circumstances, will be accepted to one to a party possessing a Policy on the life of another, or granted against the possibility of its being obtained by the life departing beyond limits, or by any other cause.

Thirty Days are allowed for the Payment of Premiums after the day on which they respectively fall due.

Additional Advantages offered to Lives Assured with this Company at St. John, N. B.

I.—RESIDENCE.—Persons insured for the whole term of life will have permission, without the payment of extra Premium, to reside in any part of Europe, or in any place in North America to the north of 38 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

II. VOYAGES.—They will also, if not following profession, be allowed, without any extra charge—

To cross and re-cross the Atlantic Ocean, in steamers of first class sailing-vessels;

To pass from any part of Europe to any other, or from any part of North America to another, within the limits above specified; also,

To pass to and from, but not to reside in any place which shall not be further south than 25 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.
