A YOUNG GRL'S LIFE IN COREA; PATHETIC AND INTERESTING STORY OF A QUEEN OF A DAY

This is a pathetic and interesting story, told with grace and charm, of a girl's life in Korea. The author, Annie Le Baird, had a long experience in missionary work in that country, and striking daily occurrences that have come under her observation she has incorporated in this story, which is realistic to a degree, and has all the merits of a human document. A better idea can be gained of the actual life of the Koreans, and particularly of Korean girlhood and womanhood in this little volume than in half a dozen ponderous volumes of the many that have been written about that interesting country.

The heroine, Pobal, is the daughter of comparatively well-to-do people, and her parents are not tyrannical or hardhearted. The Koreans understand such things; but according to the customs of the country, it is desirable that Pobal should be married at the age of twelve. A desirable husband has been found for her, a boy of ten, whose parents have paid down the necessary sum to secure the alliance. The little girl has no desire to be married, but there is no way of escape. The author describes with realistic skill the pre-nuptial arrangements, and then the great day itself. "Pobal sat as motionless as Buddha in the centre of the floor on dusky rose of her cheeks covered with thick white and red paint, her head adorned with masses of false hair, which was strung full of heavy brass, silver and coral ornaments, the whole surmounted by a crown of red and gold paper. Her choker, a short jacket reaching a little below the amplex, was of bright green silk, and her skirt of red gauze silk over the blue. From her girdle hung a heavy bunch of ornaments of wrought silver, coral and jade; conspicuous among them a mounted tiger's claw.

By, after long waiting, the bridegroom appeared, attended by several friends and relatives. He was a little fellow about ten years old, gorgeously attired in a long coat of purple and green brocade, with a winged horsehair cap on his head, and a square of beautifully embroidered Chinese character on his chest. He was a little fellow about ten SHOT HER FATHER TO AVENGE

THE DEATH OF HER BROTHER

New York, May 1.—A tragedy of a particularly shocking character was enacted the other day in Brooklyn, when a woman of about thirty-five years shot her own father on the street, to avenge the death of her younger brother, who, she said, was killed by her father five years ago.
She had been brooding over the sad ending of her brother until she became possessed by the irresistible desire to avenge her brother's death.
She had left her father years ago because, as she stated to the police, he had treated her with unbearable cruelty.

An Unusual Story.

Two cases which came to public notice the other day would make excellent plots for Sunday serial stories.
They are full of human interest and unusual enough to satisfy the craving for sensations of the most emotional reader. A few days ago two detectives arrested a man, whom they had followed from a washroom to a public place, where he had tried to sell some stupidities, which, it is alleged, had been stolen from a drug store on Third avenue. At the hearing in the Jefferson Market Court it was ascertained that the prisoner had once been one of the most distinguished and most eloquent ministers of the Southern Methodist Conference. He was in charge of one of the richest churches of New Orleans and for ten or twelve years was considered one of the most powerful evangelists of the South. But his health gave way under the strain of his work. He began to drink, returned from the ministry and became a tramp.

Two months ago he turned up intoxicated one night at the old Jerry Mc-Auley Mission in Water street. He was urged to tell his experience. The conductor of the Mission did not know him, believing him to be one of the usual Bowery bachelors. The ex-minister arose and began speaking. Soon he became sober under the excitement of the moment and his words took on some of their old fire. The drunkards who heard him fell on their knees in contrition, while the fashionable visitors to the Mission mar-velled at the eloquence of the shab-bily dressed man. When he had finished he prevailed upon him to write out his exhortation, and he did so, and for the last two months the Mission has been handing out tracts containing the address of the former evangelist.

When the Magistrate heard this story he was deeply moved and consented to release the prisoner under $100 bail, the lowest amount permissible under the law. The prisoner stated he had no influential friends who would go on his bond and that he was about to order the man taken to a cell, when a prominent official of the New York post office, who had read of the arrest and had come to the hearing, interposed. He explained to the court that when he was a rather wild young man many years ago he had happened one day into a Bible class conducted by the prisoner in Galveston. An address which the eloquent minister delivered before that class made so deep an

ENCOURAGING
THE BEAUTIFUL

(Montreal "Witness")

Enthusiasm and success are stamped all over the scheme for making the stations of the Canadian Pacific Railway the links in a flower chain, extending across the continent. Mr. N. S.
Dunlop, the chief of the C. P. R. claims department, twelve years ago insured the free distribution of flower seeds to station agents and others, and the beautiful flower gardens by which so many of the company's stations are surrounded in the summer months are the direct result.
In this direction the company has certainly given an impulse to civic pride all over the Dominion, the full effects of which can never be adequately estimated. It has been noticed wherever the station agent or section men establish a garden with the seeds supplied free from the company's floral department, the enthusiasm for flowers invariably extends to the whole community and fosters pride in the beautifying of the homes of the people.

Mr. Dunlop is now sending out the annual packages of seeds. No fewer than 50,000 packages, representing 32 varieties, are being shipped out, to be distributed in 1,500 gardens across the continent.

"The flower fever," said Mr. Dunlop this morning, "has spread over 12,000 miles of railway, and the desire for flowers extends to the company's hotels, dining cars, Atlantic and Pacific steamers, as well as the steamers on the Great Lakes, inland waters of British Columbia and the B. C. coast service."

"Agents, sectionmen and employees, together with their wives, vie with each other and make a flowery chain across Canada, and now wherever there is a C. P. R. station, section house, or office building, there you will find flowers."

"Last thousands of plants and shrubs will be sent out, while last fall we distributed 200,000 tulips, hyacintus, lilies, crocuses, iris bulbs. This means that with those sent out in former years there will soon be millions of early spring bulbs in bloom."
"For months I have been receiving hundreds of letters of encouragement and inquiry regarding the flower scheme for the present year, and the indications are that the work will be made greater and broader by the hundreds of amateurs who now vie with each other to brighten their surroundings by the cultivation of flowers during their spare time."

Mr. Dunlop's office is a regular bureau of information on all subjects concerning the flower scheme, and the employees write to him for pointers.
This morning the office was gaily decorated with flowers in honor of the occasion.

Habitual criminals, who have the misfortune of falling into the hands of the authorities have little clemency to expect from the courts in this city.

A man who recently pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary was sentenced to imprisonment for a period of forty-two years at Sing Sing. It appeared that the prisoner had served several terms for burglary and had committed nearly one hundred burglaries since he had been released from prison the last time. His method had been to steeply his intended victims by illuminating gas before he robbed their apartments and several persons had narrow escapes from death as the result of breathing the gas.

marked. "Then you must be twins!"
"No," said the boy. The teacher let a few minutes' thought, said:
"Well, if you are brothers, and both the same age, I'll admit you are more clever than I am if you can prove that you are not twins." "We're triplets, but the fiver yin deed."

Quite Sufficient.

A child-loving man was on his way to Denver to transact some important business. During the afternoon he noticed in the opposite section of the Pullman, a sweet-faced, tired-appearing woman, travelling with four small children. Feeling sorry for the mother, he soon made friends with the little ones.

Early the next morning he heard their eager questions behind the curtains of the berth, and the patient, "Yes, dear," of the mother as she tried to dress them, and looking out he saw a small white foot projecting beyond the opposite curtain. Reaching across the aisle he took hold of the large toe and began to rectify:

"This little pig went to market, This little pig stayed at home;
This little pig had a piece of roast beef,
This little pig had none; This little pig cried 'wee-wee' all the way home."

"How is that?" enquired the eager man.

"Then the foot was suddenly withdrawn, and a cold, quiet voice said: "I should think it was quite sufficient."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Not Twins

Two new scholars came to a school the other day. "Are you brothers?" asked the teacher. "Yes," answered one of the boys, and as their ages were both the same the teacher re-
