A BRIDEGROOM SOLD.—The Limerick bronicle related that a bridal party was tely assembled at the hymeneal after ready take one another "for better for worse," but the gay Lothario could not screw up hi courage to the sticking point, and when asked was he willing to take the lady as his wedded wife—Vox faucibus hasit! He became absolutely tongue tied. Meanwhile the lady, who before blushed with modesty, now crimwho before blushed with modesty, now crimsoned with indignation, but the would-be Benedict put into her hand a $20 note as a reparation to her wounded feelings. Sensibly enough she took the money, and thinking it a pity that she should be disappointed, and knowing no time was to be lost, as it was the last day of Showarida, and a she was the last day of Showarida, and a she was the last day of Showarida, and a she was the last day of Showarida, and a she was the last day of Showarida, and a she was the last day of Showarida, and a she was the last day of Showarida, and the she was the last day of Showarida, and the she was the last day of Showarida, and the she was the last day of Showarida, and the she was the last day of Showarida, and the she was the last day of Showarida, and the she was the last day of Showarida. last day of Shrove'ide, she turned off from the fickle swain, and asked a young man who the fickle swain, and asked a young man who came to witness the ceremony, and with whom she had been previously acquainted, if he DRY GOODS, she had been previously acquainted, if he would have her? He jumped at the proposal and the necessary forms having been gone through, the marriage rites were completed. On the conclusion of the ceremony the newly made bride took from her pocket £200, and handed it and the £20 to her new lord and master, to the amazement and chagrin of her former suitor, who, it would appear, "founded his proposal" on a report that the lady had money, but backed out of it at the last moment, not seeing it forthcoming before the marriage. To increase his troubles the now bappy fair one exclaimed, "Ah, you lost
