CANADA'S PRODUCTION.

Figures for Past Year Show Strength of Dominion.

Canadians ought to consider themselves fortunate that, despite the big crop shortage of 1916, the farm output has a higher value than in 1915. The yield of wheat alone was about 220,000,000 bushels short of 1915, or about 45 per cent. less. Other grains were short. Pastureage was burned up by the dry, hot weather. Dairying was hampered. Feed became oppressively high. In fact, almost every drawback that could be expected heaped up trouble for the farmer, and yet the total of our output has a higher money value than in the abundant year preceding.

The cause of the extraordinary showing is to be found in the high prices brought about by a world crop shortage. Had Canada's crop losses been local, the blow would indeed have been heavy, but they coincided with shortages in the United States, in Argentina, and in Europe. Our field crops had a total value of about $850,000,000, and the products of the mine, forest, and fisheries brought up the total to about $1,250,000,000. If we add to that a manufacturing production estimated at about $2,000,000,000, it will be seen that the few millions of people in this country, deprived of 400,000 men in the army and navy, and of a large part of our usual foreign population, have been not unhelpful of the call from Ottawa for "production, more, production." Indeed, if the crop output had been normal, we would have had a greater production per capita, probably, than any other nation in the world.

This matter of producing wealth from our rich natural resources is the life-blood of Canadian vitality, the foundation of Canadian ability to finance a fairly large part in the great war, and of our rapidly-altering world position. It is unfortunate that fear of conscription, needlessly arising out of the National Service card census, should be frightening United States citizens out of the West. They would not be liable for service even if it were decided, as a last resort, to compel military duty of certain classes. Canada wants them, as it wants all other producers, to stick to their work, for their own sake and that of the country. The splendid productive effort of Canadians ought to bear fullest fruit through thrift, and increased energy in enlarging output on permanent lines. If we keep persistently at it we shall build up resources and power that will see us through any post-bellum period of economic disturbance.

Captured Sixteen Huns.

For taking prisoners fifteen German soldiers and one German officer, Lieut. Godfrey Alan Johnson, Sc. 12, former well-known McGill athlete and prominent student leader, has just been awarded the Military Cross, according to advices which reached McGill University.

Lieut. Johnson accomplished the capture of the Germans by making use of the same presence of mind which used to stand him in good stead when he captained the McGill football team on the gridiron back in 1913. It was in the course of the recent operations on the Somme front after the Canadians had captured a German trench. Lieut. Johnson was called up with his Field Company, Canadian Engineers, to assist in consolidating the position, and in erecting the necessary defences, those erected by the Germans having been demolished by the Canadian artillery fire. While his men were engaged in this work, he, unarmed and totally unprepared for any hostile attack, proceeded to take a stroll through the former German works. Arrived in front of a former German bunker, he was surprised to see the head of a German officer appear at the door. Although he was without a weapon of any kind, Johnson readily took in the situation, and making a motion towards his hip pocket, ordered the German officer to throw up his hands in true "Kamerad" fashion. With the officer there surrendered fifteen soldiers who had hidden in the dugout to escape the bombardment. His work, he overlooked by the British soldiers in their cleaning-up process.

Lieut. Johnson, besides playing football with the McGill team, was connected with various other undergraduate organizations, including the Students' Union, of which he was vice-president. He was president of the Football Club. Lieut. Johnson's home is in Ottawa, and he went overseas a year ago, and since going to France has been attached to the 11th Field Company, Canadian Engineers.

A Romantic Reunion.

John A. Campbell, a wealthy manufacturer, of Vancouver, B.C., staying with his family at the St. Mark hotel, San Francisco, noticed the name of Charles Campbell, of New York, on the hotel register and inquired about him.

"He is that elderly man seated over there," said the clerk. John A. Campbell looked him over and approached him.

"Where were you born, stranger?" the Vancouver man asked.

"In Ontario,"

"What became of your father and mother?"

"They were lost at sea when I was a small lad."

"Well, then you're my brother Charles, all right."

And the two aged men embraced, not having seen each other for more than fifty years. Before they were 20 they drifted away from the old homestead in Ontario, lost trace of each other, and while John A. was making a fortune and raising a family in Vancouver Charles was doing likewise in New York.

Both were on pleasure tours with their families when they met, and now the families are enjoying a happy reunion.
