offer the prescribed salute to commissioned officers as laid down in the "Field Exercise," Part I. When a private speaks to an officer, he is to stand at attention, having saluted the officer on approaching him. When he appears before an officer in a room, he is to do the same and not take off his cap. A private without his cap is not to salute but is to stand at attention until the officer passes. The latter rule is to be observed by a private who is carrying any thing that prevents him from saluting properly. When individual men meet a column of troops on the march, they are to halt, front towards the column, and stand at attention until the column passes, saluting the commanding officer, and the Colours, if there are any.

22. A Commanding officer should impress upon the men under his command, by every means in his power, the propriety of civility and courtesy in their intercourse with all ranks and classes of society, and should particularly caution them to pay proper deference and respect to Magistrates and all Civil Authorities. A militia-man under arms, but not on duty, is to take off his cap in the presence of a Magistrate in a Civil Court.

23. It is the duty of non-commissioned officers and men of the Active Militia, at all times and in all situations, to pay the proper compliments to their own officers, Departmental as well as Regimental, as are prescribed for the Regular Army, and
