thing (to me) in my house. Every so often I'd spend a quiet, peaceful evening, digging up old manuscripts, stories, articles, poetry (God save the mark) and find something which seems to have improved with age.

I came across the enclosed last night. I thought "well, I meant it when I wrote it, and I still mean it.
Of it might give him pleasure, why not send it? It certainly can't do any harm."

So here it is,

I wish we could meet you often.
Good luck to you.

Very sincerely
G. A. Paulson.
