

bought the land.

Q. And he bought it from Rat? A. Yes. Mrs. Rat.

Q. Do you know how much he bought from Mrs. Rat?

A. The whole lot, the whole claim, she got some animals and I was one of them who helped fetching the animals, which were the price of this lot. That is the reason I remember so well.

Claim No. 47, Lot 195--the most southerly three chains and the most northerly nine chains.

Claimant; W. J. Porter estate, under a registered deed from George Irvine.

WILLIAM HENRY PRINCE: Recalled;

Mr. Heap-

I ask that the evidence given as to the previous Hyman claim shall apply to this claim. And I would ask that the declaration on file, of Henry Cochran, be considered File No. 140,128.

Q. I produce you the statutory declaration of Henry Cochran in this file No. 140128? A. Yes.

Q. And show you the signature. A. Yes.

Q. Do you recognise it? A. Yes.

Q. Did you know the man Henry Cochran who made that declaration? A. Yes.

Q. Is he alive or dead? A. No, he is dead.

Commissioner- at the time of the transfer was there a house on this property? A. Yes, Rat's house.

Q. On which piece was it, on the piece that was sold to Porter or on the piece that was sold to McPherson?

A. Which part is McPherson's?

Q. The most northerly?

A. I think the house was just on the centre. I can point where the house was, yet.

Q. Can you tell whether it was on McPherson's piece or on Porters?
