

"The louder his storm blew---the louder our mirth;
 "He shall hear all our jokes, while we sit round the hearth;
 "Thus we'll welcome dark Winter as long as he stays,
 "Till his old frosty face shall look bright at the blaze."

By degrees he grew merry, but still he kept sober,
 Until we had quaff'd our twelfth jug of October,
 Then reeling he roars---"My hearties well done!"
 "Be my season henceforward the season for fun."
