BEAUTIFUL THOUGHTS FOR TO DAY

There is sadness and longing on the unturned faces of the apostles as they ratch their beloved Master drifting from sight in the folding of the heavenward bound cloud. It would seem that for mankind the triumphaat return of Jesus to this heavenly kingdom sounds a note of mingled meaning. Joy there certainly is that their Saviour should return to the angelic courts where worthy love and adoration would surround Him whose purest ministration earth had treated they think how, over human puny opmised Consoler, 'left orphans.' OLD AGE A BLESSING.

Old age in the home of youth may be far more of a blessing than a bur-den; in fact, may be a blessing even in what some would call a burden. Many a Timothy would have been lost to the world had it not been for Grandmother Lois. Many a happy hour of childhood has been pleasant and blessed because of the tales of grandfather. Gladstone's finest photograph, in my opinion, is the one in which the grand old man's features are lighted up by the smile of his four-year-old grandson, who appears in the portrait with him. > Among the many arts which whould be sedulously taught and earnestly studied, the art of thinking well should stand pre-eminent. Everybody thinks; it is an involuntary mental process that comes with the first dawn of intelligence, and continues through life. But to think well is a rare art. Most of our thinking is desultory, wandering and confused—a sort of litter of things good and bad, useful and useless, without arrangement, plan or purpose. Good it is thinking always has an aim; a straight path to truth. It longs or great spiritual things and chooses the nearest way.
