Can't Always Tell.

It is mighty hard to tell what a colt will develop into; he may be likely looking and still never possess more speed than a cow; or he may look like a "skate," and still blossom out into a record breaker. The horse that wouldn't bring a century to-day may be worth thousands before he is two years older. Look at the case of Robert J., the whirlwind of the turf. He made his debut as a winner at Fleetwood two years ago, and before he won his race was offered for sale for $1,500 without a taker. "Pa" Hamlin, of Buffalo, knows a good thing when he sees it. As soon as Robert J. beat his own horse in a race at the spring meeting at Fleetwood he immediately bought him and his dam for $4,500. Like all the fast pacers of the present time he is purely trotting bred, being by Hartford—son of Harold (sire of Maud S., 2.08 3-4), dam Geraldine, by that grand stallion Jay Gould, who died recently.

All Alike.

"I've let my play reader go," said a manager. "I paid him $4,000 a year to read plays, and all I got out of it was the knowledge that he had gained enough information to write a play for himself. I suppose that with the points he has picked up his efforts will be a howling success; but no more play readers for me, if you please. They do not pay. I have had several play readers, and I know whereof I speak. One of them would come down to the office at ten o'clock, read a play in an hour or so and go out and get drunk. Then he would come back with renewed vigor and convert comedy into tragedy and smiles into tears. He would tear passion to tatters and throw literary physic to the dogs. Oh, they are all alike and this is why I've got the door locked."

WONDERFUL!

Now that garden parties and picnics are pleasures of the past, and socials, dances, balls, etc., are present, it would be well for those entertaining to keep on hand a few dozen of SAVORY'S splendid Champagne Cider. It is a delicious beverage for the supper table. Use champagne glasses and ice for those who are in need of a cool refreshing drink. SAVORY'S CHAMPAGNE CIDER, being strictly the pure, highly refined juice extracted from home grown apples, is a healthy and temperate substitute at all times for champagne, claret, etc., and is superior to all cheap concoctions sold under the name of champagne.
