IS A MODEL DAIRY FARM

McGeachy and Sons, Milk Dealers Have Excellent Establishment

Their City Milk Depot is Surrounded With Cleanliness and Purity

Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. A. McGeachy, of McGeachy & Sons, city dairy, took a Planet reporter on a trip of inspection over their dairy farm and their city milk depot.

The reporter was first driven out to Mr. McGeachy's farm and shown the cows, the barns and the processes through which milk and Jersey cream go before they reach the customer. The one feature which strikes one on a visit to the McGeachy dairy farm, is the neatness and cleanliness everywhere so apparent. Even the stables where the cows are kept at night, and where they are milked, are in a condition which would do credit to the fabled Spillless Town. Every modern mode of promoting cleanliness and sanitation is put into use, and the firm say they intend to keep on improving matters.

Great care is taken even to see that the water which the cows drink is absolutely pure. The cattle never drink from the creek which runs through the farm, but are brought to a trough situated near a windmill, which forces pure, crystal, ice-cold water up from the rocks below.

The McGeachy farm is truly a beautiful spot. It is a vision of rolling green hillsides, and on the pasture lands, peaceful, well-kept cows, who every morning are cleaned and hurried much the same as prize horses, may be seen roaming about and browsing on the rich vegetation which bounds the creek. The Messrs. McGeachy state that they intend to improve the stabling, to erect a fine, new residence, on the mound to the fore of their present abode. Space would hardly permit of the description which the McGeachy farm truly merits.

Mention should here be made of the process through which cream and milk passes before it reaches the customer. Directly after the milk is taken from the cows, it is poured into the hopper of a novel invention known as the aerator. In this apparatus, the fluid passes in thin streams over a corrugated, cone-like affair, the interior of which is packed with ice, chilling it to forty degrees above freezing. In this way all the animal taint is taken off the product, and it is further stated that this process will make the milk keep for several days. The aerator is a very small affair, but it does its work thoroughly and well. After the milk has all been aerated, it is conveyed to large well-cleaned cans and taken to the city dairy.

In order to proceed further with this article, it will be necessary to here give a short description of the city dairy. The building in which it is situated, and which was recently purchased by the Messrs. McGeachy, is on the corner of King and Queen streets—the most central spot which could be obtained—the object being to facilitate despatch in complying with customers' orders. The building has for weeks been in the hands of the renovators, and is now all but completed. It will be painted pure white in color, inside and out. Here again, everything which meets the eye of the visitor is spotlessly clean. When the milk reaches this depot it is immediately bottled by machinery. Every bottle is thoroughly scalded and washed. This work is done with the latest improved machinery.

While awaiting the bottling process, the cans containing the milk are placed in a tank of ice water, and the bottled product is later put in large refrigerators. In this way the city dairy is always in a position to supply special orders on a moment's notice. As an instance of the sanitary precautions taken, it might be mentioned that the stoppers of the bottles, after being used once, are discarded. Later this system will even extend to the milk tins, which will be destroyed after being used once. The Messrs. McGeachy invite customers and others to inspect their dairy and its equipment. A visit will certainly convince the most critical, that their motto, "Purity, Cleanliness and Quality," is indeed an appropriate one. They point with exuberant pride to the fact that the product which they handle is produced by their own cows, and their herd is not only inspected regularly by the City Health Inspector, but they also employ a competent veterinary surgeon to look over the herd for their own and their customers' benefit. They cater to the best trade in Chatham, and the indications are that they will shortly double their present number of patrons.

THE LOCAL SPEEDERS.

The race course at the Agricultural Park is the scene of much activity these days. Local horsemen have already begun to train their speeders, and the results of the various workouts being held daily are watched with much interest by the local lovers of the track, especially the friends of the horse owners.

Art Bedford is having an interesting time with Irene D. and a good looking trotter. They are both receiving excellent attention and are coming along in great shape.

Joe Brady is getting Mac Wilkes in good shape. This fine horse which was a favorite on many tracks last year, promises to make good this year.

Bert Miller is giving workouts to a three-year-old, and Annie Hal. This last is sired by Al Patching and dam by Old Wild Brino. It looks like the stuff, and those who claim to know say that she looks better than Peter Miller did at the same age.

Ernie Crummer, who drove for McLachlan last year, also has six or eight this year. They are all doing well.

The old reliable Black Ghost, who is in the hands of James Banks, is doing some great stunts. This horse looks like a winner this year, and the boys all hope that Banks will not be disappointed.

James Mitchell has been seen several mornings with Roadmaster. This animal is looking pretty fair, and good things are expected.

Workouts are held nearly every morning, and they are attended not only by the horsemen, but also by many who have a liking for the track, and who are interested in fast horses.

FIRE IN CAMDEN DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Thamesville, May 14.—The residence of Mr. David Everitt was burned to the ground yesterday. Mr. Everitt is a farmer, who lives in Camden, a few miles from Thamesville. He had erected a new house but a short time ago. Yesterday morning, after lighting the fire, he went out to the barn to feed his stock. While there he happened to look toward the house, and to his horror it was all in flames. He hastened to awaken his wife and family, who all succeeded in getting out. Part of the furniture was also saved.

GREAT DIFFERENCE IN PRICE OF FISH

A member of the Game and Fish Association met a boy on the street with two fine mullets that he had just caught in the river.

"What are you going to do with them?" said the O. F. & G. Association man.

"Have them for dinner," said the boy.

The sight of the fish made the F. & G. man think he would also like to have fish for dinner, so he hied himself to the market, where he found Murphy, the fish man, from the lake.

"What do you want for that fish?" said the F. & G. man.

"One dollar," said Murphy.

"The fish and game man is trying to figure out the exact difference in price between his fish dinner and that of the household whose boy caught the fish in the river."
