Good Advice to Boys, Old and Young.

Whatever you are, be brave, boys!
The liar's a coward and slave, boys:
Though clever at ruses
And sharp at excuses,
He's a sneaking and pitiful knave, boys!

Whatever you are, be frank, boys!
'Tis better than money and rank, boys;
Still cleave to the right,
Be lovers of light,
Be open, above board, and frank, boys!

Whatever you are, be kind, boys!
Be gently in manners and mind, boys;
The man gentle in mien,
Words and temper, I ween,
Is the gentleman truly refined, boys!

But whatever you are, be true, boys!
Be visible through and through, boys;
Leave to others the shamming,
The "greening" and "cramming";
In fun and in earnest, be true, boys!

The Farmer's Corner.

Farmers As Veterinary Surgeons.

With very few exceptions, farmers are poor veterinary surgeons. In fact, in the majority of cases they do more harm than good in their attempt to combat disease. Their treatment not being according to any system, there being an almost complete ignorance of disease and drugs, in any and every disease, they try every remedy they or their neighbors can procure, in hopes of at last getting the right one. So we see that usually the animal has a more severe trial to survive the remedies than to survive the disease. Usually, they will first say the animal has horn-ail; no matter what the disease, horn-ail is thought of first. For horn-ail their treatment is to take a gimlet and bore a hole in the horn, near the head; then take a wire and push it into the cavity of the horn and poke it around, not minding the struggles of the tortured animal. Perhaps, after this operation, they don't feel satisfied that it is horn-ail (by the way there is no such disease), but feel sure that it is connected with the head. Well—they argue that the tail is connected with the head, and any operation on the tail is as good as a similar one on the head, so the next thing is to take a knife and split the tail from one to three inches. This is a cruel piece of business, from which no good can result, at any rate, not enough to compensate for the harm done. If it is necessary to bleed, there are much better ways, and no one who is not a veterinary surgeon should attempt it. In fact, it is almost never desirable to bleed in any disease. Without a doubt, it would be well to bleed in a few rare cases, but usually the desired effect can be brought about by some milder treatment. Doubtless there is too much prejudice against bleeding at the present day, and probably physicians will (in a measure) gradually resume this method of treatment in a few years; yet my advice to farmers is—"never bleed, in the treatment of your cattle." Another remedy, much used, should be done away with. It is the practise of injecting with a syringe large quantities of a mixture of water, salt, vinegar, and strong pepper, into the nose to "start the nose." This could not be so severely censured if it was only used where it might possibly do good, but the trouble is, they will do it in almost every case of sickness. Then, how often, when everything else has been tried, the whip-handle is thrust into the mouth to push imaginary obstacles down the "gullet." It rarely goes where it is intended—fully as likely to go down the windpipe. Thus we see in the majority of cases the animal is much better off with no treatment, for the usual reckless, haphazard course would tend to produce death more quickly than most diseases. Remember that most diseases will cure themselves if let alone—or more properly, nature in most cases will throw off the disease. If you wish to do anything, give a laxative which can do no harm, and in most cases will do good. If there is indigestion, charcoal, salt, etc., are good. By the way, charcoal will cure almost all the slight sicknesses which hogs have. Powder it and put it in their swill. With educated physicians, hygiene and diet are taking the place, in a great measure, of large quantities of disagreeable drugs.—By Flavel S. Thomas, M. D., F. M. M. S., in Rural New Yorker.

Scientific Farming.

No farmer can prosecute his business successfully on poor land, and there is no necessity for doing it for any great length of time. It is a waste of time and money, of energy, and of life itself. It brings neither money to the pocket nor joy to the heart. Farming is a very hard life unless it brings pleasure, aside from profit. It is as necessary for the farmer's enjoyment, as it is for his pocket, that his land should produce what it is capable of when well fed and cultivated. And he can no more afford to raise less than that he can afford to pay his hired man full wages and require him to labor but a part of the time. The interest on the cost of his land is running, whether the land yields much or nothing, and the tax-gatherer must be satisfied though the garners be empty. Cultivating a farm without getting from it as large a result as the land is reasonably capable of producing involves a useless loss. The difference between a crop of 80 and 20 bushels of corn to the acre is the difference between success and failure. The expense of cultivating the larger crop is but little more than that of the other, while the cost of production of the smaller crop, compared with the result is very much greater. Here, then, is the secret of the farmer's success or failure. Large crops within a small area should be his aim, and all his energies should be given to its accomplishment. If he has not sufficient manure to enrich twenty acres, let him put what he has upon ten. If the supply is insufficient for ten, then reduce the area to five. At all events, whatever space he cultivates let him enrich it and raise a maximum crop. I venture to lay down this proposition as indisputable, that there are farmers who entertain the idea that they cannot afford to buy fertilizers, who waste enough each year in unwise tillage to supply themselves with them. I have seen such cultivate a large area of poor land at an expense which would have enabled them to fertilize and cultivate one-half of such area so as to make it produce as much as did the whole. And this diminished area could not only have been made to produce as much as twice its extent in acres, but it would be left, after the crop was removed, in a condition which, with a proper rotation, would cause it to increase and not to diminish in its fertility. The amount annually lost from too large farms, and the cultivation of too great a surface without remunerative returns, and the sale of whatever is so produced from the farms, without any return to the soil of the elements removed by the crops, is something alarming to contemplate. Such a reckless system would improverish any land, however productive in it its natural condition. And when I recommend the purchase of natural fertilizers, in order to insure large crops, it is not with a view of encouraging that system of tillage which removes everything from the farm which is produced upon it. Nothing but a truck farm, where vegetables are raised for city consumption, could warrant the expense of such husbandry.—William Fullerton, in "Our American Farmers."

TO THE

FARMERS OF MIRAMICHI.

We have been Manufacturing

IRON FRAME MOWERS

For the last four years, and are now offering to the farming community this, the

BEST MOWER,

Combining a greater excellence of mechanical simplicity together with greater durability and entire reliability for all the requirements of the field, than any other Mower extant.—In construction they are similar to the celebrated Walter A. Wood's Iron Frame Mower, and the Richardson Buckeye, both American machines. Of the former there are over 200,000 in use, and the extraordinary number of 20,000 were manufactured and sold last season, by the Wood Company of United States. We have over 500 of our manufacture now in use, every one of which (no exceptions) stands as a monument of the great, and unprecedented success of home manufacture and our enterprise. A list of our Agents in this section of the Province will be found appended, and farmers are requested to ask information of them relative to our Mowers in use in their respective localities, which will establish beyond doubt their unquestionable superiority over any other mower to be had in our market.

The facility of procuring all parts or pieces within a nominal length of time must show beyond the shadow of a doubt the claims such an enterprise has upon the farmers of the Maritime Provinces.

For the coming Harvest of 1877 we will manufacture LARGELY in excess of our numbers of last Season, and trust that our growing enterprise may find such inducements held out to it as will be commensurate with its merits.

Let it be remembered we have no hesitation at all times, in entering in a friendly competition in the field with any other machine in our market. WE GUARANTEE OUR MOWERS TO BE INFERIOR TO NONE. Farmers would do well to enquire prices and terms before purchasing elsewhere.
