A strange custom among the Bayanzi, who live along the Upper Congo, has been described by explorers. Brass rings, sometimes weighing 30 pounds, are welded around the necks of the wives. At first the neck becomes raw by the chafing of the ring, but after a while it becomes calloused, although a woman has to hold the ring up frequently to get relief from the weight. The ring is never put around a woman's neck until she has attained her full development. The women are proud of the ornament, believing that it enhances their importance and beauty.

The chief feature of the performance of last evening was undoubtedly the magnificent treatment of the bass solos by Mr. Barrington Foote. The triumph achieved by this artist over all the inequalities of the text, and over the pecularities of the composer's style was signal. It was certainly instructive, showing as it did how, when so a artist has thoroughly mastered the effect aimed at by a composer, he can overcome all obstructions of style, and stir a modern audience as the audience of a bymodern audience as the audience of a bygone period must have been stirred by the music of a great master. "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave" rang out last evening with irresistible force when sung by Mr. Barrington Foote, and when followed by the stirring chorus, "We Come, We Come," made the scene a magnificent one. It was the same artist's incomparable treatment of the air, "The Lord Worketh Wonders," that imparted the truest spirit to a scene preceding a victory. It called forth a storm of applause from the audience. Indeed, every time that the bass sang a fresh spirit modern audience as the audience of a by

WHY THE ARC LIGHT HISSES. Also Why It Goes Out Occasionally—The Intensity of its Heat.

Did you ever see an electric lamp upside down? Now and then a careless or ignorant lineman manages to invert one, and the effect is curious. An inverted arc lamp looks like any other until it is lighted, then it gives forth a singular sickly gleam that proclaims its inversion. Arc lamps are ordinarily so arranged that the current enters by the way of the upper carbon, skips to the lower, and so escapes. As everybody knows, the step from the upper to the lower carbon produces the spark, or arc. The effect of the current passing from the upper to the lower carbon is to produce a little cavity in the end of the upper carbon. When the current moves in this fashion the rays of light are thrown downward, and thus the region below the lamp is illuminated. When the wires are so coupled that the entrept runs from the lower to the upper carbon, the cavity is formed in the lower carbon, and the rays of light are thrown upward into the air instead of downward to the ground. The davelopment of the parlons stick for arc lamps has been a matter of years, and the ideal thing has not yet ocen reached. The sticks now in use are undo of yulverized coke mixed with one or another glutinous substances, in some instances molasses. The reddish color of the surface comes from a thin electroplating of copper. This gives the stick conductivity. The upper stick as now made lasts about eight hours; the lower stick nearly twice as long. Many lamps are supplied with two upper sticks, and when one is exhausted an automatic contrivance brings the other into play. The matter of "teeding" the upper stick has not yet been brought to perfection, and the most annoying pecularities of the arc light come from defects in the action of the feeding apparatus. That augry, spluttering hiss often comes from the fact that the upper carbon has slid so far down as to rest upon the end of the lower carbon. The hissing goes on until enough of the upper carbon is burned away to leave space for the arc.

Occasionally, however, disturbances arise from other causes

J. C. are as severe tests as a remedy can be subjected to. It is for these longstanding cases that Boschee's German Syrup is made a specialty. Many others afflicted as this lad was, will do well to make a note of this.

J. F. Arnold, Montevideo, Minn., writes: I always use German Syrup for a Cold on the Lungs. I have never found an equal to it-far less a superior.

of applause from the audience. Indeed, every time that the bass sang a fresh spirit was imparted to the somewhat flagging effects of a work which should convey to the audience the clang of the battle in every bar. No more artistic work has been done by a basso in the same building for many years. Plan open at Halle & Co.'s music store, Monday, Nov. 30. Reserved seats, only 25 and 35 cents.

Ladies, before purchasing do not fail to examine our stock. See our east window.
