Certain improvements to the city's property at Port Stanley will be made St. Thomas council last night while Yesterday a number of the members of the London and Port Stanley Railway board visited the Port and looked over the ground, and it is more than likely that some long-needed conveniences will be placed there. Several lavatories will be located on the beach. Excursionists have complained of the lack of these for a long A number of willow trees on the heights will also be removed. The late Parks Commissioner Pearce ob- years, and they had been the best of jected to the willows. There are many fine young maples growing on the hill, and if some of the other trees are removed it will help the others to grow, and will add considerably to the beauty of the hill. One of the last acts of Mr. Pearce as a city official was to mark the trees that should be removed, and on the inspection yesterday it was decided to have the trees cut down immediately. The steps on the hill and the swings are also in bad repair, and it is quite possible that considerable money be spent to make them safe for use. The steps are somewhat dangerous at the present time. The City's Property.

The city property is in very good shape. In fact, it is increasing in extent. There is about ten feet more a.m. in a tailor's shop, and was under of beach this year than last. Bathing poles that were submerged last year are now high and dry. This GRAND TRUNK MEN is due to the new breakwater, and experienced men say that still more beach will be added. This adds greatly to the room on the beach and gives space for many more Will Hold Conference With Mry cottages. Lots are being staked out in many places, and prospects for a big building season are many.
