

IT'S A FAIR QUESTION.

To ask of anybody. Most people have hollow teeth, and they ought to be filled before decay starts. That will stop pain and arrest decay, besides preserving the teeth for the practical purpose of chewing. We are practical dentists of long experience, and perform all work in a high-class manner. What ever you may want in the Dental line be sure we can do it well and reasonably.

The proprietor of the second-hand store was not so tidy as he might have been. One day, while standing in front of the store, a man approached him and said:

"Have you any clean shirts in yer shop?"

"Sure, I have," answered the clothing man, anxious for a sale. "Lots of them; as clean as anything."

"Well," said the man, moving away, "go on and put one of them on."

PERFUMES OF FRANCE.

Important Industry Suffered Greatly During the War.

The rare perfumes of France suffered severely during the war, and only the industry and thrift of the French prevented them from dying out altogether. This would indeed have been a world-wide calamity, as the French perfumes are noted for their delicacy and fragrance. "Chirnes and Grange," says a writer in the Illustrated World, "are the entrées of the French perfume industry, which is situated in southern France along the Mediterranean. In what flower garden of the world there is only one formula used in making perfumes. It is very simple: Essence of rose, in the Riviera, raw material market, is often quoted as high as $750 for two and one-half pounds."

"The attar, or the essential oil, of flower is obtained by crushing the leaves or petals and boiling them in copper cauldron. The residue from the boiled leaves and petals is mixed with clarified pork fat, and the mass stirred with wooden paddles. Boiling the extract with fat concentrates the perfume. After boiling, the grease is churned with refined alcohol until the latter absorbs nearly all the odor. The residue of fat is made into fine soap that have a high commercial value. The old method, which is still practical, consists in saturating a coarse linen cloth with olive oil and stretching it over a frame; this layer of flower petals are then placed on the cloth until it has absorbed the essence of the flower. The cloth is then treated to an alcohol bath that in turn absorbs the perfume. In this process the flower petals must be changed frequently."

"Grasse still uses the endemurage method, by which the delicate essence of the rarest flowers slowly filters through a quarter-inch layer of fat in shallow pans. The process takes from twelve to seventy-two hours, depending on the variety of the flowers and the season of the year."

Easter Island Treasure.
Easter Island was discovered by the Dutch on Easter Day in 1722, and visited, along with the Laysan Islands in 1770, and Captain Cook four years later, and now belongs to Chile. Its outstanding problem is the presence of hundreds of grotesque statues, ancestor-worship and a cult which included the practice of cannibalism in a cave have their connection with these statues, for on the backs of many of them are rude carvings of the "bird-man." This can be seen on the one that stands in the bright portico of the British Museum, brought here in 1868 by the Topaka. Who carved them, and when, and why? There was a cessation probably through an enemy's incursion. And here in savage Easter Island, as in civilized Crete, there is an undeciphered, perhaps undecipherable, script—only here the remains of the pictograms are but few. There are also wood carvings and rock incisions, and the weapons of race. White and black have met and mingled here, Polynesian and Melanesian, and the show high development. Dr. Keith reports that the Easter Islanders are the largest brained people yet discovered in the islands or shores of the Pacific, and that their cranial capacity exceeds that of the inhabitants of Whitechapel.

Historic Tablets.
A group of valuable historic tablets from excavations of the city of Babylon, bearing dates as far back as three and one-half centuries before the Christian era, was recently secured by Stanford University. Several of the pieces carry the distinct prints of the fingers which moulded them over 4,000 years ago. One ancient contract bears the name of Darius, Persian King of Babylon, and is dated in the second year of his reign. The system of characters on the tablets is in cuneiform, and was first adopted by the Babylonians after its invention by a people called Sumerians, and was used by them about 4,000 B.C. It passed from them to the Assyrians, who used it with some changes, notably in recording the life and deeds of the kings on the surface of terra cotta bricks.

An Extinct Monster.
The Curators of the Launceston and Tasmanian Museums have presented to the Royal Society of Tasmania the preliminary account of a nearly complete skeleton of a gigantic extinct monster, recently discovered in the pleistocene beds of Tasmania. The animal was as large as the largest existing rhinoceros. The new discovery shows clearly that it was a rhinoceros-like animal, with a skull built for aggressive warfare, and at least one powerful horn on the snout. Evidence of the gigantic battles in which this animal engaged is to be found in the complete smashing and partial mending of the collar-bone, and in the crushing and subsequent repair of the bones of the nose and snout.

Emerson and the Young Poet.
A good story told of the late W. D. Howells, the famous American critic and man of letters, is of the time when, as a young man, his ambition was to be a poet. He saw all the great Americans—Longfellow, Lowell, Emerson, Hawthorne, and Holmes. When he saw Emerson and mentioned his ambition to him, the distinguished essayist observed: "One may pass an hour or two very pleasantly over poetry." But this did not discourage Howells, and he had the satisfaction of seeing some of his poems published by Lowell in the Sequently became sub-editor and editor.

HE WAS ALARMED

ABOUT HIS WIFE

Says She Was Only a Shadow of Her Former Self Before She Began Taking Tanlac.

"My wife and I will praise Tanlac as long as we live, for it is nothing less than wonderful the way it has restored her to good health again," said A. J. Johnson, of 49 Cornwallis street, Halifax, N. S.

"For about a year before she started taking Tanlac she was in such a run-down condition that she could hardly drag around. She had no appetite and in fact she was afraid to eat very much because of what she suffered afterwards. Whatever she ate would sour and ferment and blast her up something awful. She was also troubled with terrible headaches and dizzy spells. Her nerves were in such a bad state, she lost weight and became weak and couldn't remain up long each day. I was very worried about her, for although she had tried just about everything in the way of medicines, none of them seemed to do her any good."

"We heard of so many people being helped by Tanlac that my wife decided to give it a trial. The first bottle did her so much good that she kept on with it until now she is well, as she ever was in her life. She has a fine appetite and can eat anything without having the least trouble afterwards. She has gained ten pounds in weight and is stronger in every way. She is never bothered with headaches or dizzy spells now and her nerves are so steady she sleeps all night and gets up in the morning feeling fine and able to do the day's work." Tanlac is sold in Campbellton by THOMAS WILSON, Druggist; and by leading druggists everywhere.

N. B. TEMPERANCE

ALLIANCE CAMPAIGN

Work of Organizing Province Is Being Planned—Election October 10th.

Fredericton, Aug. 31.—At this afternoon's session of the Council of the N. B. Temperance Alliance plans were formulated for an intensive and extensive campaign for the election October 10 during the next four weeks.

County conventions will be held at St. Andrews, Thursday, September 8, and at Woodstock, September 9, Rev. T. D. Bell was appointed organizer for West Queens, W. B. Evans for East Queens, Rev. J. E. Gossline for Sunbury. These will be assistants to Rev. W. D. Wilson. Plans have been laid for an extensive campaign of advertising.

The treasurer, W. G. Clark, of Fredericton, submitted a report which showed that the membership of the alliance was about 2,500.

The Executive Committee presented a report, from which these extracts are made:

"That some endeavor be made to reach every clergyman of every church in every community asking for their leadership and support in the most important temperance campaign ever held in this province. And, further, that they be asked to make frequent reference to the date of the campaign and preach and refer to this matter repeatedly."

Every community should be reached and an organization perfected for bringing out the vote on the 10th of October and attending to the naming of the poll by agents, who are sympathetic to the temperance cause. This is to our opinion of the greatest importance.

Your executive would have the people of this province reminded of the fact that this is the opportunity long delayed of preventing the importation of liquors into the province, which in the past has done so much to annul the working of the prohibitory act. It is of the utmost importance at this crisis in the temperance situation that everyone interested in the welfare of this fair province should not only cast an affirmative vote on October 10, but use his or her influence to bring out the largest possible vote that the result may be most emphatic.

ANTHRACITE COAL—1921

To those who are hoping for lower prices:

We are in the coal business. We believe we know conditions. We cannot predict future prices. We do not think further reductions are likely. Present mine wage agreements don't expire until March 31, 1922.

There isn't much hope of general reduction in freight rates.

If the proposed Pennsylvania State Tax on anthracite becomes a law, this will mean an additional 15.35 or even 25 cents after next July 1st.

Coal is far cheaper today than it will be next winter if you hold off buying! That is absolutely certain.

You received the same advice in 1919—those who took it suffered no hardship of consequence during the big bituminous coal strike.

We are simply appealing to your common-sense.

Mrs. Britton Tells How She Was Restored

Suffering for More Than A Year

Another Triumph for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Disordered influences, sweet and sour, had been at work on this woman for some time. Every day she was in pain. She was so nervous and irritable that she could not do her work. She was so weak and exhausted that she could not get up in the morning. She was so miserable that she thought of nothing but death.

Compounded has relieved me of these nervous feelings and better to every way. I don't know just how many bottles I took it for nearly a year and it has done me a world of good. I am now as healthy as a horse and I can do my work as usual.

Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she can do her work, and be a happy mother, and the life of the she suffers again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a sure remedy for all these troubles.
