DENYING THE GIRL'S STORY.

W. F. JOHNSTON SWEARS THAT EMMA TAYLOR BORE FALSE WITNESS.

He Enters an Emphatic No to All That She Charges Against Him—He Only "Fooled" with Her Occasionally—Defendant Did Not Authorize McBride to Make a "Settlement."

The Court House was crowded all yesterday, when evidence for the defence was given in the case of Taylor v. Johnston, the action for $5000 on account of the alleged seduction of plaintiff's daughter.

Mr. Lount, Q.C., and Mr. James A. Macdonald are plaintiff's counsel, and Mr. G. H. Watson and Mr. C. A. Masten are for the defence.

The plaintiff's case closed by the evidence of James Sturdy, the prosecutor in the Euclid-avenue Church trial of William F. Johnston, when a majority of the court found the charge of seduction proved. Mr. Sturdy's evidence added nothing to that already reported in The World, nor did that of James Edwards, a member of the church court.

Mr. Watson asked for a non-suit on the ground that the agreement entered into by Taylor with Johnston and the acceptance of $800 by the former on condition that proceedings were stayed, put plaintiff out of court.

Justice Street decided that the case should go to the jury.

Then the full force of the defence opened. William F. Johnston took the stand and in the course of a long examination denied the charge in toto. The utmost he admitted was that of being "foolish" with the girl.

The following are important points in the evidence.

Mr. Watson: Emma Taylor charges you with assaulting her on Nov. 3, 1888, after your wife had gone to Whitby. Is that true?—A. There is not a word of truth in it.

Q. Is there any foundation for it?—A. Not one bit of foundation.

Q. Miss Taylor makes a second charge against you; what do you say to that?—A. I don't know anything about any such circumstances.

Q. Is it true?—A. No.

Q. This young woman says you dragged her from her bedroom and used force to suppress any outcries. Is it true?—A. No, nothing of the kind ever occurred.

Q. Is the statement in respect to the alleged occurrence when your wife was attending teachers' meeting true?—A. It is false. I never remained at home when she attended teachers' meeting. If I was home I always went with her. My wife never attended teachers' meeting since a year ago last September. She was in poor health.

Q. Did you ever assault Miss Taylor in the way she has described?—A. Never. Never in the world.

Some of the So-called "Fooling."

Q. Tell us about the occurrence in August?—A. I will tell you as near as I can recollect. It was just before bed time. I had been putting my pipe away on a shelf near the back door. Miss Taylor had just locked the door. When we met I caught her by the arm, and swung her about. My wife came into the kitchen just at that moment. She chided me, saying, "it didn't look well for me to be fooling with the girl," and then turning to Miss Taylor she said: "If you would keep your place this sort of thing would not occur." I took my wife by the hand, and in this way we walked up stairs together. When we reached the bedroom I said to Mrs. Johnston that there was no occasion for the remark she had made, as it might make Miss Taylor feel bad. Not long afterwards I heard Miss Taylor crying and my wife went downstairs and quieted her.

Q. Did you have her on your knee?—A. No, never. It was no unusual thing for me to take the girl by the arm, I have done it often. I like a romp with my children and often play bear like a big boy, I suppose, with one of the children on my back, when Miss Taylor would often run away from us. I never advised her to consult Dr. Ogden. Prior to the time she left my house I did not know of her trouble. The first time I heard anything about it was when I received a letter from a lawyer after my return from the Old Country. Miss Taylor was the first to talk about going to the United States. I never had any private conversation with her on that point. I had no reason to suggest such a course. Not the slightest foundation exists for her statements that I suggested that she should go to the States.

Q. Miss Taylor says you gave her some money?—A. I handed her $10. My wife and niece were present.

Q. Why did you give her the money?—A. Because she had been a very good girl while in my employ; just the same as I would give any other girl in the house.

Q. Have you given any other girl money?—A. Yes. When the girl that was there before her was leaving I gave her $5. She had not been there as long as Miss Taylor. I deny having paid the money to her because she was in trouble.

The Plaintiff's Two Lovers.

Q. Was Miss Taylor in the habit of keeping company with young men?—A. I have seen her in company with two young men named McCoy and McNeil. She has been out as late as 11 o'clock. After Miss Taylor left my employ she often visited my house.

Q. Did you ever call on Miss Taylor at her home?—A. Once, early in June at the request of Miss Taylor, who called at my house to tell my wife that Miss Amelia Taylor desired to see me about my niece, who was learning the dressmaking with Miss Taylor and was not getting along very well. Miss Emma Taylor opened the door and she summoned her sister from upstairs. I stepped into the parlor and sat down on a chair close to the door. Mr. Taylor walked into the room but went away without saying anything. Miss Amelia Taylor made her complaint, and during the time I was there Miss Lizzie Taylor, Miss Ethel Taylor and Miss Emma Taylor came into the room.

Q. Did you ever have any private conversation with Miss Emma Taylor?—A. I never was in the room with her alone and never talked with her. I never heard her say anything about drowning herself, nor anything tending that way. I never heard anything about her trouble until after my return from England.

Q. While your wife was absent in Whitby did anything unusual occur?—A. One night during the first week that Mrs. Johnston was in Whitby, I returned from a meeting pretty late and found Miss Taylor sitting on a couch in the kitchen. She was crying bitterly. As I entered the house I heard the back door shut hurriedly and the next moment I heard footsteps on the plank walk at the side of the house. I demanded to know who left the house. She only cried harder, but after a while she told me Neil McNeil had just left the house. I scolded her for sitting up so late with a young man, and she rose from the couch and rushed upstairs without telling me her reasons for crying. Miss Taylor called at my house the night before I started for Europe to bid me good-bye. She wished me a safe journey.

He Knew of McBride's "Settlement."

In reply to further questions by Mr. Watson, defendant said:

I knew of McBride's intention to see the Taylors. He went there as the result of a conversation that took place between us in the office of the Massey Company. I handed him the release in the office.

Q. Did you give him any money?—A. I did. I gave him $500 on Saturday night at the Rossin House. On Monday I gave him $340 more. Altogether I gave him $840 to give to Mr. Taylor.

Q. For what purpose?—A. To prevent any further talk and scandal, or to prevent my wife and family from undergoing the ordeal I am going through now.

Q. Why did you give him $500?—A. Because he said he thought Taylor would settle for that sum.

Q. Did you admit your guilt?—A. Not to McBride or anybody else. I gave him the extra $300 because McBride asked for it.

Q. What authority did you give McBride?—A. I gave him authority to settle the matter as well as he could, telling him that I would be satisfied with anything that he would do. He induced me to settle and not let the matter come into court. I authorized him to effect the settlement.

Q. Did you give authority to Mr. McBride to admit on your behalf that you were guilty?—A. No, not to McBride or any one else. I am not guilty.

Q. Did you give authority to Mr. McBride to admit on your behalf that you would never deny that you were guilty?—A. No.

Q. Did you ever deny the payment of the money?—A. Never.

He Didn't Do It When His Wife Was Present.

Mr. Lount cross-examined defendant at great length, but did not materially shake his evidence.

"I have, often," he admitted, scuffled with Emma Taylor. Usually I never fooled with her when my wife was present. I had no intention of anything beyond fooling with her. I have been in Emma's bedroom at night when dressed. He admitted having had a slight suspicion that something was wrong with the girl. The investigation at Euclid-avenue Methodist Church I regarded as a church force, not a trial. I never denied payment to Mr. Taylor, nor did I ever deny the authority of McBride as my agent.

The other witnesses examined for the defence were Dr. Herbert, P. H. Galloway, one of the committee of investigation at the church trial, Rev. George Webber, pastor Euclid-avenue Methodist Church, Mr. James McBride and Mrs. Clendennan, sister of Mrs. Johnston. None of these, however, threw much additional light on the cause of action. So far it appears positive incriminatory statements on the part of Emma Taylor and equally positive denials on the part of W. F. Johnston.

To the Court they will each repair again this morning. There are five other witnesses for the defence.

AN AFTERNOON OF DEBATE.

ADOPTING THE ADDRESS IN THE ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Mr. Mackenzie of West Lambton, Dr. Gilmour, Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith Have the Floor—A Variety of Subjects Handled in a Somewhat Lively Fashion.

The debate on the address, although somewhat of a routine proceeding, is generally looked upon as the first day of talk in the Ontario Assembly. It generally brings to the front the oratorical ability of any members who have been elected during the recess and gives the leader of the Opposition an opportunity to get in his first onslaught on the Government and their policy. It also enables the Premier to make the best defence of his party he may see fit and their prospective action during the session.

This program was carried out to the letter yesterday afternoon when the House was treated to a 2½ hours' talk on the address of His Honor.

Mr. Charles Mackenzie, the new member for West Lambton, and the brother of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, is the only new comer in the Assembly since last session. He is the successor of the lamented Hon. T. B. Pardee, who at the time of his death was one of the two remaining charter members of the Assembly, Mr. Speaker Baxter of Haldimand being the other. Mr. MacKenzie, in his speech yesterday, did not display any great or marked ability as an orator, but he is credited with possessing considerable "horse sense." At all events he seemed to entertain the members of his party and was frequently applauded during his remarks. His references to the late Commissioner of Crown Lands were as touching as they were deserved. No man who ever sat in the Ontario House was more respected than the late Commissioner.

Dr. J. T. Gilmour of West York was the seconder, and he acquitted himself quite favorably. Mr. Meredith and Mr. Mowat wound up the debate, both displaying considerable vigor in their lines of argument. Nearly all the members were in their places, in fact it was a very full house.

The only other business besides adopting the address was the presenting of a few petitions. The Provincial Secretary laid on the table the annual reports of the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Belleville and of the Blind Asylum at Brantford.

A Warm Tribute to Mr. Pardee's Memory.

Mr. Mackenzie in moving the adoption of the address paid a touching tribute to the memory of the late Hon. T. B. Pardee. In the county of Lambton, which he represented, he was widely known, a resident from his early manhood to the day of his death; "and," continued the speaker, "we recognized in him a man of broad sympathies and of warm heart. He was in very truth a friend of all, although at all times firm in his adherence to his political party and creed. Yet he was always willing and able to defend the principles of his party, always, however, doing so in a tolerant spirit and courteous manner." Reference was also made to Mr. Pardee's long and reliable political career, he having for 22 years been returned for the county of Lambton. As a member of the Cabinet he had administered the Department of Crown Lands efficiently, with skill and ability. His stand on the timber limit question was also eulogized. Nor was his private life less commendable. He was a warm and true friend and a kind father.

In dealing with the address the member for Lambton first considered the great question of agriculture. The depression in this industry mentioned in the address was, of course, greatly to be regretted. The reasons leading to that depression were manifold, but the great and paramount cause was the competition in cereals induced by the foreign market supply. Now, the question was not one of distance; distance in fact had well-nigh been annihilated by electricity and railways, and now it was not a question of miles, but of so many cents per bushel. To compete with this new foreign field seemed almost an impossibility. Yet was there something upon which to congratulate ourselves—our farmers were now turning their attention to the raising of cattle, the products of the dairy, and thereby creating for themselves an ample compensation for the loss they may sustain through the competition in cereals.

The Burden of Taxation.

The question of onerous taxation heaped upon the farmer was also dealt with. He could scarce build a house or a barn but he must be subject to an almost unnecessary taxation.

A fruitful source of eulogy for the Mowat administration was of course the victory, after a long dispute, of securing possession of the disputed territory, its wealth of minerals and timber. He sincerely trusted and would urge upon the Government to give all possible assistance to the railways through this territory. Great importance was attached to the principle laid down by the Government of obtaining the full value of the timber limits and by active public competition.

Mr. Mackenzie was glad that the Government had undertaken to assist county houses of refuge. This aid extended by the Government would be a means of establishing houses of refuge in almost all the counties of the province.

Touching Up the Separate Schools.

Then the burning although much-discussed question of separate schools was touched upon. The speaker made a somewhat committal statement by saying: "My own conviction with reference to the separate schools is that the children of our country should be educated together in the common schools of our country." However, he considered that the opponents of the Government had in a great measure been begging the question because they always assumed that the average Catholic ratepayer and parent is not in accord with his pastor and priest, but was patiently waiting to be released by their Protestant brethren. This he did not believe; if the question were brought before the people the Roman Catholics of Ontario would be found to be entirely in accord with their teachers. They did not ask aid, they never had asked aid, and therefore the agitation was an unwise one and merely a race and creed cry. Mr. Mackenzie expressed gratification in the temperance and religious sentiment of the Ontario rural population during late years.

Seconded by the Dark Doctor.

Dr. Gilmour of West York seconded the resolution for the adoption of the address. He gracefully complimented the mover upon his oratorical effort, and then referring to the agricultural question, spoke of the great importance of dairy industry as some compensation for the loss sustained in the cultivation of cereals. The farming vocation was a highly honorable one. "If you take history," said Dr. Gilmour, "you will find that the first man God ever created was a farmer." The farmers of Ontario had also listened to the allurements of a tempter who had not his best interest at heart, but unlike Adam he had the power to rectify his mistake. The mining interest was also touched upon, the rich possessions of the Port Arthur country and of the whole territory extending from Sudbury to the western limit of Ontario.

Another great advantage we possess was the easy and convenient railway transit all through that country. The work of the mining commission recently appointed was commended and confidence expressed that the Government would give all possible encouragement to opening up these rich regions. The attack upon the "Ross Bible" was briefly referred to, likewise the much discussed question of French in the schools. With regard to this latter question a commission had been appointed which did its work thoroughly and well. Their report went to show that the majority of the allegations made by the Opposition were without foundation.

It was a matter for congratulation that the temperance movement had so progressed during the past five years, not, however, through the efforts of the Ottawa Government. If any little temperance legislation was shoved through the House it was killed in the Senate. The proposed legislation for closing the saloons on public holidays was approved.

The Premier came in for a great deal of praise when Dr. Gilmour referred, somewhat pathetically it seemed, to this the last session of the present Assembly. Mr. Mowat, he believed, occupied the same position in the hearts of the people of Ontario as was held by Mr. Gladstone in the hearts of the people of England.

Always Looking Towards Ottawa.

The Leader of the Opposition now arose and was greeted with tumultuous applause by his supporters. He was of opinion that matters had been introduced into the House which should not have been mentioned, notably the evident effort of the gentlemen opposite to drag into the discussion the policy and action of the Government members at Ottawa. "I do not propose to be drawn into such a discussion." With regard to the much vaunted victory of the Government in securing the disputed territory he believed the Province would long since have possessed it had it not been for the misrepresentation of the leader of that party which claimed the victory. So far as the labors of the mining commission were concerned Mr. Meredith believed the contents of that report had never been properly placed before the country.

Dr. Gilmour, in speaking of the temperance sentiment of the country, had gone back to ancient or sacred history and had made reference to modern and profane history. Even the Ross Bible was mentioned, "which, perhaps," said Mr. Meredith, "is profane history." [Laughter.] Yet the member from West York had not always so zealously advocated the cause of temperance.

With regard to Government assistance to county houses of refuge, Mr. Meredith did not approve of a scheme which would tend to create a class always looking for assistance from the public.

Touching upon the question of assessment Mr. Meredith said: "The people will not be satisfied with any tinkering with the assessment law." If the gentlemen on the opposite side of the House were prepared to bring down any radical measure Mr. Meredith would promise them the support of the Opposition.

Referring to the Third Party he said: "The efforts of Mr. Mowat to deal with that party are enough to sicken a horse."

Mr. Fraser: "What horse?"

A member: "The Protestant horse." [Laughter.]

Not a "No Popery" Shouter.

In speaking of the separate and French school agitation the speaker remarked emphatically: "When the Attorney-General makes against me the charge that I am endeavoring to raise a race and religious cry, or a 'no-Popery' cry, in this Province he makes a false and unfounded charge against me." The Globe had laughed at the idea of English being the language of instruction and the Minister of Education in his own regulation said that English should be the language of instruction.

Mr. G. W. Ross: "The honorable gentleman is misstating the case."

Mr. Meredith: "Order."

Mr. Ross: "I shall attend to the matter when the proper time comes."

Mr. Meredith then proceeded to read the regulation that English shall be the language of instruction "so far as practicable," when he reached the last word his voice was drowned by the clamor of the Government supporters.

Proceeding he said: "What I desire to insist upon is that the English language should be the language of the public schools." With regard to separate schools he believed that every citizen should be rated and considered a public school supporter unless by his voluntary act he chose to become a supporter of a separate school. With respect to the granting of the ballot to separate schools a universal sentiment existed that a change should be made in this direction, and with that end in view he purposed moving an amendment to the law during the present session.

The Premier Takes the Floor.

The Premier replied at some length, first, however, complimenting the mover and seconder of the address. He also paid a tribute to the memory of Mr. Pardee. With regard to introducing matters of Dominion policy into the Ontario House the Premier said: "My honorable friend opposite does not want to defend the policy of the Dominion party; it would be a difficult task for any man to undertake. [Laughter.] Everybody knows that without the assistance of that party the party with which he is connected could have no chance whatever of removing the present Government." [Laughter.] He believed it quite proper that such matters should be discussed. Mr. Meredith had disapproved of adopting a doleful tone with regard to the agricultural depression, but that depression should not be concealed. We had of late cultivated other branches of the industry, notably the production of cheese, which took a first place in the markets of the world. "When we can honestly say anything in favor of our country," said the Premier, "we say it; when we cannot we don't say it."

With regard to the liquor license laws they were undoubtedly in great measure due to the sentiment of the community. "But," said Mr. Mowat, "all our laws rest upon the sentiment of the community. It is because we consult that sentiment that our laws are as good as they are." Speaking of the Third Party he said: "I am against this Third Party because I see it is a branch and ally practically of the Conservative party." The question of the French and Separate Schools was also gone into at length. When speaking of the teaching of French in the schools Mr. Meredith asked: "Do you intend to teach French and English together all the time?"

Mr. Mowat: "I don't say all the time, but it is a great advantage that the children should know both languages."

At the conclusion of the Premier's speech the address was adopted and a resolution passed that it be engrossed and presented to the Governor.

At 5.34 the House adjourned till Monday.

Citizens of No Mean City.

There are 90 members of the Ontario Legislative Assembly and twelve of them are citizens of Toronto. The Premier always takes delight in describing himself as a Toronto man, "a citizen of no mean city." The list includes only those who have actual residences in Toronto and not those members who live at hotels while in town and have their homes in their constituencies:

Hon. Oliver Mowat, Premier, North Oxford.
Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, West Middlesex.
Hon. Charles Drury, Minister of Agriculture, East Simcoe.
W. R. Meredith, Leader of the Oppisition, London.
David Creighton, North Grey.
G. B. Smith, East York.
G. F. Marter, Muskoka.
G. W. Monk, Carleton.
J. A. McAndrew, South Renfrew.
John Leys, H. E. Clarke, E. F. Clarke, } Toronto.

Mr. T. Dixon Craig of East Durham, it is understood, is about to remove to Toronto, and if James Conmee, of West Algoma, is not a citizen of this town, The World would like to know what particular spot he claims as his abiding place. Hon. A. S. Hardy sleeps in the Parliament Buildings and "eats out," but he has his home at Brantford. Treasurer Ross and Mr. Fraser, while in the city, live at the Rossin. The Provincial Secretary, except when weighty affairs of state are engrossing his attention, goes to Hamilton nearly every night. If he has to remain over he puts up at the Rossin.

Dr. J. T. Gilmore of West York, so to speak, is a suburban resident; he lives at the Junction.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. Dose, one of each after eating. 246

Fur Auction.

Attention is called to the great auction sale of furs that takes place this afternoon at 2½ and evening at 7½ at the store of Messrs. G. & J. Rogers, No. 79 Yonge-street, near King-street. This is positively the last day of the sale, and we have no doubt it will be taken advantage of by those wishing bargains. The sale will be conducted by Mr. Chas. M. Henderson.

The charming resort of our fashionable citizens. The Arlington Hotel, Toronto, has just opened its new east wing for inspection. The arrangements and furnishings of the roome are exquisite. 246

Next Week's Engagements.

On Tuesday next an excellent quantity of household effects, upright pianoforte and some very fine Turkish rugs, the property of a private party on St. George-street, are to be sold at Lydon's Mart, 81 Yonge-street. On Wednesday and Thursday a consignment of high class Sheffield goods at same mart.

Miniatures.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

Attractions at the Theatres Next Week—Minnie Maddern and "On the Frontier"—Amusement Notes.

Miss Minnie Maddern is booked for the whole of next week at the Grand Opera House in her famous plays "Featherbrain" and "In Spite of All." Speaking of this little lady The New York Mirror gives this flowery description of her powers: "Miss Maddern is unique among all contemporary actresses. There is no rival in the realm where she is queen and sways above our willing heads a gentle sceptre. It is a little kingdom that she rules, but the allegiance of her subjects is as strong and stable as her supremacy. The spring that bubbles from the earth is not purer, more translucent or spontaneous than Miss Maddern's art. Both have their birth in nature, and both are delightful and refreshing. The smile, the frown, the tear of this dainty little woman are irresistible. We can echo her merry laughter, and we weep with her when it pleases her to make us. She has not the genius that dazzles nor the power that thrills; but she takes our hearts in her little hands and makes them beat responsive to her touch. She commands our entire sympathies, and we are content to give them to her without question. It is not by studied effort, by superficial trick or theatric device that these results can be achieved. Miss Maddern, it is true, has learned about all that can be learned from experience; but the secret of her success in playing upon our feelings lies deeper."

"On the Frontier."

Mr. James M. Hardie and Miss Sara Von Leer are booked at Jacob & Sparrow's all next week, with matinees Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, in their picturesque melodrama, "On the Frontier." The Boston Herald has this to say of their engagement at the Hub: "The play was new to Boston, but not so the leading members of the cast, James M. Hardie and Sara Von Leer, and others who are well known here. Mr. Hardie impersonates the role of Jack Osborne, a mountain hero, and succeeded in winning from the beginning to the close of the piece the sympathy and plaudits of the audience. Von Leer as Blueflower came in for much of the applause. She always appeared on the scene when the hero was in danger, and her acting was justly applauded. The other members of the company gave creditable support."

Nellie McHenry at the Academy.

Nellie McHenry, always bright and vivacious, will play at the Academy the last half of next week, with a matinee on Saturday. She will present Bronson Howard's newest musical comedy, "Green Room Fun." "The pro uction," says The Chicago Herald, "is simply a quick succession of ridiculous situations afforded by the rehearsals and performances of amateurs, for the benefit of infant cannibals. The dialogue and the songs are as ridiculous as the situations, and if all these are not as "pure as violets," they certainly seemed "as welcome." If there is anything dull in the play and the performance, there is no time to discover it between laughs.

The Toronto Bicycle Club's Concert.

The concert to be given by this club next Tuesday evening is to be the musical event of the season. Mr. Whitney Mockridge, America's great tenor, is to sing the celebrated "Salve Dimora," from "Faust," and by special request will render "Come into the Garden Maud." Miss Barnes, the popular mezzo soprano of Buffalo, is to appear, as is also Toronto's favorite, Mr. H. L. Clarke, cornet virtuoso. The tableaux, under the direction of J. M. Bell-Smith and J. Fraser Bryce, will eclipse anything of the kind ever seen here, and the Glee Club is in a state of high efficiency under Mr. E. T. Coates' able directions. Seats at Nordheimer's.

Other Amusement Matters.

The plans for the Max O'Rell lecture in the Pavilion on Feb. 10 and 11 open at Suckling's on Monday morning. The lectures are "Yankee and Yankeedom" and "John Bull and Sandie Macdonald."

At the theatres to-day: Grand, matinee and evening, "His Natural Life"; Academy, matinee and evening, Herrmann's Vaudevilles; Jacobs & Sparrow's, afternoon and evening, "Held by the Enemy."

The New Russian Opera at Nice.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—A performance of the Russian opera, "A Life for the Czar," was given at Nice last night. The audience became enthusiastic and rose en masse and loudly cheered France and Russia.

The Best Snake Story of All.

A man who kept a garden near the River Euphrates had an adventure with a snake many years ago, has involved himself and family in trouble ever since. One result of this adventure was the sentence pronounced against the woman that "in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children." No doubt this sentence included the many ailments consequent on child-bearing, such as weak back, female weakness, tumors, irritations, irregularities and the like. Divine wisdom after this sentence came to the rescue of woman and provided remedies for her cure. Best of all is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a woman savior—a soothing, sovereign remedy for all such troubles. Millions are using it and blessing its author. It is the only remedy for these ailments sold by druggists under a positive guarantee of giving satisfaction in every case or money promptly refunded.

The People's Furniture Warerooms, 161 Yonge-street,

Are selling their immense stock of furniture, upholstered goods, and mixed and woven wire mattresses at lower prices than retailers have ever been able to buy the goods for. The building they occupy is to be pulled down March 1, and they have to sell over ten thousand dollars worth of goods before then. Parties requiring anything in the furniture line will do well to call and examine their goods. The stock is new, well selected and made by first-class manufacturers.

Mr. Boon had a negative taken very recently at Mr. Dufresne's, Yonge-street Arcade. Friends could obtain beautifully life-sized finished pictures, framed complete for $12.00, also smaller size down to cabinets.

BRAIN WEAR.

Valuable Advice About Digestion, from the British Medical Journal, that Applies Equally Well to Body Wear.

From a recent number of the British Medical Journal, in an article about Brain Wear, we taking the following:

"Food digestion is essential to continued work with good lasting power. Late rising and a hurried breakfast, a still more hurried luncheon and rush back to work, followed at the conclusion of the day by a heavy meal when the man is wearied, often tends to exhaustion as much as the unavoidable pressure of business."

"Good digestion is essential," is the pith of the whole article. If the stomach is out of order, and there is belching of wind, loss of appetite, disgust for food, or changeable appetite, neither your brain nor body can do good work. And that is the least of the troubles that follow indigestion. If not cured it will soon become chronic and end in serious sickness.

The pain or weight in the stomach, sinking sensation, headache, languor, low spirits, sallow complexion, bad dreams, noise in the ears, and many other symptoms, are sure signs of dyspepsia. The delicate nerves of the stomach have been abused and weakened and this suffering is the result.

There are few who do not have dyspepsia. Mr. D. S. Davidson, a well-known resident of Montreal, suffered with it for years. If he ate solid food it caused him great distress. Doctors could not help him, but Paine's Celery Compound cured him. There is nothing like this wonderful medicine, which was providentially revealed to an eminent physician. It strengthens the nerves and restores sound digestion, rosy cheeks, strong muscles, and vigorous health to the user.

FROM CATARRH TO CONSUMPTION.

The Number of Persons Who Died in Toronto Last Year of Consumption Simply Astonishing.

In most cases it was the result of neglected Catarrh, which is the certain forerunner not only of Consumption but Asthma, Bronchitis and Deafness. The disease steals so gradually into the lungs that the patient scarcely believes them affected, and before he is aware of his true condition the disease has asserted its dominion and he becomes an unwilling slave to its ruinous consequences. The thousands of douches, snuffs, inhalations and patent medicines have proven time and again to be perfectly worthless, and the unfortunate patient after trying them all often believes the disease is incurable, and applies to his family physician for treatment; although skilful as he may be he, too, generally fails. And why? The answer is very easy. His mission is to treat every ailment with which mankind is afflicted, which are numbered by thousands, and the many varieties of Catarrh require just as many kinds of treatment to suit the special requirements of each individual case. Such a treatment can only be given by physicians who make this disease a special and exhaustive study. The physicians of the Medical Institute at 198 King-street west have for years devoted their whole time and attention to the treatment and cure of this disease, and would refer any one wishing to be cured to hundreds whom they have cured as positive proof of their success. Call on us, and if your case is curable we will so inform you; if incurable we will tell you that. Office hours 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Sundays 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Medical Institute, 198 King-street west
