Memoirs of Anne, Duchesse of Brittany, twice Queen of France. By LOUISA STUART COSTELLO.

"We know of no character during the chivalrous and eventful times in which she lived, so eminently entitled to our sympathy and admiration as that of the youthful daughter of Francis, last Duke of Brittany, who, when almost a child, exhibited an indomitable love of country, a determination to find out the path of patriotism and duty, and a vigour and energy in the employment of the resources of her small state, which kept at bay for a time the whole strength of the kingdom of France."—Morning Herald.

The Minister's Wife and My Own: What I think of her and what others think. A Memorial of Mrs. J. De KEWER WILLIAMS.

"The truth in love."

"This is a deeply affecting memorial of an excellent woman, putting us greatly in mind of the memoir of Mrs. Ewing, one of the most touching tributes ever presented by husband to wife. It consists largely of correspondence of a singularly primitive character, finely illustrating the power and the preciousness of Divine truth, alike in health and in affliction. What we may deem the frame in which the epistolary jewels may be said to be set—the Author's connecting passages—is marked by simplicity, humility, and love, to an extent which will probably subject the worthy writer to ridicule among those who, insensible to the workings of unsophisticated nature, are revolted by its most genuine exhibition."—Christian Weekly News.
