Some Armenian Proverbs.

Here are some good proverbs and sayings which are in common use amongst the Armenians to-day:

"If my heart be narrow, what avail is it to me that the world is large?"

"Birds are caught with grains, and men with money."

"That which costs nothing is good for nothing," has a familiar sound, but the following is new:

"Tears are a language; he only who weeps understands them."

"He who looks for a friend without a defect will never find one."

"As great and resplendent as the sun is the little passing cloud which hides it from our eyes."

The First Pneumatic Postal Message.

The first trial in the United States of the pneumatic tube for postal messages was made at Philadelphia in 1893, and the first message ever sent was a Bible. The Postmaster-General wrapped it in an American flag, and sent it whizzing through the tube with a slip of paper, on which was written:

"The first use of the first pneumatic postal tube in the United States is to send through it a copy of the Holy Scriptures, the greatest message ever given to the world."

The main thing with children is to have them well started with good principles, which they will carry through life. Obedience, truth, unselfishness, purity are essentials, and these can all be lovingly cultivated, and will flourish in the right home atmosphere.
