

INDEX

- ACHAÏAN League, i. 20, 33, 67, 253
 Adams, John (President), i. 39, 41
 Adams, J. Q. (President), i. 43, 78
 "Administrative law" of France, i. 240 Alaska, i. 552
 Aldermen, i. 596; ii. 60, 351
 Aliens, allowed to vote, i. 319
 Ambassadors, appointment of, i. 49 Amendments to the Federal Constitution,
 i. 24, 51, 96, 122, 232, 322, 355-362, 703, 705-708; to State Constitutions, 452, 743
 American, meaning of the term, i. 17 American and European systems compared: in the proportion of first-rate ability engaged in politics, i. 74, 75; position of the President, 86; Congress, 94, 144, 181, 194, 198, 271 sqq.; contrast with the Cabinet system, 271-290; ii. 187; defects of the frame of government, i. 300; fear of foreign aggression, 303; the foundations of party, 648; types of statesmen, ii.
 195; general interest in politics, 231; proportion of urban to rural population, 240; faith in the people, 245; education, 246; classes, 255 sqq.;
 aversion to constructive legislation, 316; laissez faire, 405; stability, 461; religious equality, 554; influence of religion, 578 sqq.; position of women, 588 sqq.; intellectual productivity, 622; charm of life, 661 sqq.; its uniformity, 675
 American experience applied to European problems, i. 182, 483; ii. 459-479, 492-494, 567
 American Government. See Federal System
 American Life, its pleasantness, ii. 660; causes of this, 666; its uniformity, seen in Nature, 668; in the cities, 670; exceptions to this, 671; want of history, 672; uniformity of institutions, 673; of persons, 674; causes of this, 677; promise of the future, 678
 Americans: their national characteristics, ii. 243; good-nature, 243; humour, 244, 666; hopefulness, 244;
 faith in the people, 245, 329, 469; education, 246; morality, 247; religion, 248; want of reverence, 248; business, 249; want of sustained thought, 250; shrewdness, 251, 267; impressionability, 251; unsettledness, 251; sympathy, 252; changefulness, 252; conservatism, 253; characteristics of different classes, 255-267; their individualism, 408; speculative character, 523; salient intellectual features, 614, 622; recent developments of thought, 631; want of brilliant personalities, 633; intellectual relation to Europe, 634; opinion of themselves, 634; intellectual promise for the future, 642; their oratory, 651; reserve of audiences, 657; charm of their character, 664; character of the Western States, 678; future of their political institutions, 691; growing modesty, 699; social and economic future, 703; influence of immigrants upon them, 709; their place in the history of the world's progress, 716 Annapolis, Convention at, 1786, i. 18
 Annual letter of Secretary of the Treasury,
 i. 173