Cuban Commander Said to Be Starting a Big Campaign.

New York, March 24.-Word has been received here of the movement of troops westward in Cuba by Gen. Gomez. It is the largest campaign ever undertaken by the Cuban commander, who had made his plans to attack from the rear the fortified towns of the western provinces while Uncle Sam's ships throw shot from the bays. The plans call for a march of more than 300 miles from some of the far eastern stations and the withdrawing of 20,000 men from Santiago de Cuba, Michigan Didn't Suit Canadians as Well as the Dominion.

Sarnia Observer: D. L. Caven, colonization agent, was here Saturday and Sunday with five families who are moving back to Canada, after trying to make a living in the State of Michigan for some time past. Following are those whom Mr. Caven has been instrumental in getting to locate in the Canadian Northwest:

J. A. Johnson and family, of Buel, Mich.; Henry Ecylin and family, of Crosswell, Mich.; Nelson Hagel and family, Sandlac Center, Mich.; J. W. Cullen and family, Sheveniston, Mich.; J. W. Taylor and family, of Brown

The above parties, with three cars of settlers' effects, left here today for the Canadian Northwest. They went Via Erie and Huron Railway to Chat- on preparing himself for a life of useham, thence on the C. P. R. The company arrived here Saturday and put up at the Exchange Hotel over Sunday. Mr. Caven left Sunday night for Detroit, where he expects twelve families more and six carloads of settlers' effects for Manitoba and Alberta, all for the excursion leaving Toronto on Tuesday, March 22.

Mr. Caven, the Canadian Government agent, is located at Bad Axe, Mich. Reports from Richmond, Ind., Dayton, Ohio, Pittsburg, and Carbon, Pa., and other points, indicate great damage

Touching Tributes Of Affection.

Eloquent Divines Extor the Goodness and Greatness of the Late Dr. Sanderson.

Impressive Funeral Service at the First Methodist Church

Among Those Who Took Part Were Chancellor Burwash, Dr. Burns, Dr. Griffin, Dean Innes and Rev. Robt. Johnston-Beautiful Music By the Church Quartet.

Eloquent tributes were paid to the memory of the late Rev. George R. Sanderson, D.D., at the funeral services yesterday afternoon, by Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria University; Rev. Dr. Burns, of Hamilton; Rev. Dr. Griffin, Toronto, and others. The funeral was a most impressive one. Among the sorrowing friends who almost filled the First Methodist Church, where the public service was held, were many ministers of various denominations. And some were agedlooking men, but they could remember Dr. Sanderson since their boyhood days, and they had come a considerable distance to pay their last tribute to the dead. A short service was held at the house at 2 p.m., which was conducted by Rev. Geo. Jackson, chairman of the London district. Rev. Mr. Learovd, of St. Marys, read the scriptures; Rev. Dr. Henderson, of Berlin, offered prayer, and Dr. Smith, of Hamilton, pronounced the benediction. The pall-bearers were: Lay-Messrs. George Robinson, R. J. C. Dawson, John Green, S. McBride, T. McCor-mick and S. W. Abbott. Ministerial— Dr. Griffin, Toronto; Dr. Hannon, Stratford; Dr. Burwash and Dr. Parker, Toronto; Dr. Henderson, Berlin, and Rev. Mr. Holmes, Mitchell. On the arrival of the cortege at the church, the ministers, of whom there were about 75 present, lined up while the remains were being conveyed into the edifice. As the casket was being borne up the aisle all present arose and stood with bowed heads, while Mr. Wolcott, organist, played a solemn march appropriate to the occasion.

The church quartet, Messrs. George
Hayes and W. T. Stenberg, Mrs. Harvey and Miss Inez Smith, then sang sweetly and with much expression "Gathering Home, One by One." The pulpit was draped in heavy black, and the edifice was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends who wished to a million. Speaking of his work as a widow. pay their last tribute to the deceased.

"Oh, God, our help in ages past, Our hope in years to come; Our shelter from the stormy blast And our eternal home," was then sung by the congregation. Dr. Parker, of Toronto, read the scriptures from the Gospel of St.John, xiv., 1-"Ye believe in God, believe also Rev. Stephen Bond, of Seaforth (president of the London conference), presided over the ceremonies at the REV. DEAN INNES.

Dean Innes was first called ipon as the representative of the Western Ontario Bible Society. read the resolution of deep regret passed by the society on Tuesday, and him everyone with whom he came in spoke a few words, paying a feeling tribute to the memory of the departed minister. He stated that the Bishop of Huron was to have been present, but on account of important engagements elsewhere he could not attend. He was therefore called upon to fill the bishop's place. REV. ROBT. JOHNSTON.

Rev. Robt. Johnston, of St. Andrew's Church, then spoke, as another representative of the Western Ontario Bible Society. "I knew him," the speaker who weep, for our dearly beloved brosaid, "as one who loved his God and ther, and to tender my heartfelt symone who loved and took active interest in every good work. He was a moral as well as intellectual strength to the Methodist body throughout the Dominion, and will be sorely missed. The doctor's sympathies were always broad and liberal. His heart was large, always having a kind word for everyone. He loved above Word of God. As the resolution had set forth, Dr. Sanderson had witnessed the introducing of the Bible throughthe Bible Society, and there were none Sanderson was associated, laid the ciety had lost a loving member, but and we rejoice that he was spared so long a useful Christian life and to see the steady stride forward of Christianity. No higher tribute could be paid the dead than that he had been a good and faithful servant for 60 years." The speaker closed with the words: "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

CHANCELLOR BURWASH. Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria University, was the next speaker. There was something very impressive, he said, in the thought of a long life stretching over four score years, and of one who had been a personal witness of so many wonderful things in the world's history and in the history of the country and the church. Sixtytwo years ago, when Victoria College was opened at Cobourg, George R. Sanderson, Stephen Miles and James Spencer were among the first students that Dr. Richey met. Dr. Sanderson was then a youth of 20, in the beginning of his religious career, intent only fulness. And his life had stretched out much further than he or any of those associated with him could have then known. After one year, Dr. Sanderson, owing to the urgent demands of the church, had to be taken out of the college, and was given work as an itinerant. "That was two years before I was born," said the white-haired speaker. My first acquaintance with him was in 1851 when, after his services as editor of the Christian Guardian he was appointed to the college station at Cobourg. which he still fondly cherishes, was signed with the name of George R. Sanderson. Dr. Sanderson had been 40 years on the college board, and for many years was secretary, and took an active part in its struggles. His chief characteristic was the wonderful grace of God in his heart, which made him so successful in the salvation of souls. The speaker could recollect of a great many young men who had been reached by him. Dr. Sanderson entered ministerial work when the Methodist Church in Canada had but a few thousand members. Those days have now passed away, and the church numbers its members by the hundreds of thousands. The venerable doctor saw inson, G. T. REV. DR. BURNS. Dr. Burns, of Hamilton, then spoke a few words to pay his last tribute to the dead. "I will speak as one of the boys," he said, "although my hair is white, as my earliest recollections and associations of Dr. Sanderson were as a boy. I don't think any student or boy ever received a wrong view of Christianity from Dr. Sanderson. I will never forget him-the hearty shake of his hand, the kindly smile he always had for everyone-the words of comfort and encouragement he offered. They He all come back to me now. There was a warmth in his heart which drew to contact. Acquainted with him for some 50 years, in all my recollections, I never knew him to make an unfair remark or do an unfair thing to anyone. I will not speak long, as all I could say would be kind things of the departed. I am proud to have known him through life, and think it a blessed privilege to have been associated with one who had such a warm nature and such a high moral character. I am here today to shed tears with those pathy to his bereaved family and re-

DR. GRIFFIN. Dr. Griffin, of Kinglake, a life-long acquaintance of Dr. Sanderson, gave a touching panegyric of his departed friend, who, he said, was about the last of that great army-that generation of grand old men-that did so much for the country and the church. An army, not great in numbers, but a regiment of great men. Among them were Dr. Ryerson, William Ryerson, Egerton Ryerson, James Ellis, Dr. Rice, Dr. Nellies, Richard Jones, Henry Wilkinson, Lewis Warner, and a number of others. These men, with whom Dr. foundations of the church deep and broad. They were an extraordinary circle of men, and, judging by the places they filled and the services they rendered, on circuits and in colleges, they were greater than we who succeed them. We can only try to be as good, but not as great. They were endowed with extraordinary gifts for the extraordinary times in which they were called to labor and to live. Dr. Sanderson's soul was larger than his creed, but he was thoroughly, intensely and always a Methodist. The great part press of my old friend's hand running at times, as he spoke of his old friend, he was almost overcome with emotion. The doctor, he said, had a warm, generous, sympathetic, loving heart. He was a firm supporter of the principle of itinerancy, and was careful and anxious to preserve the church in its purity and integrity. He had a fine voice, full, round, and melodious, and faithfully preached the grand old truths and doctrines. He hated 'sensational' sermons. Wherever, appointed tional' sermons. TEACHER VS. JANITOR A Lobo Schoolmaster Has an Altercation With the Janitor's Wife. Squire Lacey had an interesting assault case before him yesterday afternoon. Geo. Henderson, teacher in the village school at Lobo, was charged by William Eddington, janitor of the school, with assault. The evidence went to show that on March 2 Henderson had gone to Mrs. Eddington's to request her to sweep the school and repair a seat that her son was alleged to have broken. Mr. Henderson was told that Mr. Eddington was away, but things would be made right when he same back. This didn't satisfy the schoolmaster, who became mixed up in an altercation to such a degree that Mrs. Eddington threatened to help him out with the broom. This he took away from her, whereupon, it is alleged, Mrs. Eddington armed herself with a basin of boiling water and threatened to "scald" the teacher. He, it was stated, in turn threatened to smash her in the face with the broom, saying he would leave when he got ready. The case was adjourned until Saturday.
