MUNICIPAL BOND MARKET

High Figures Not Available Now, Says Financial Paper.

The Monetary Times says: The municipal bond market is in a similar position almost as it was three years ago. Prices have been high, and are now sagging a little. Municipalities have waited for high figures; many recognize that these have passed for the time being.

Two municipalities we know have arranged for the sale of their bonds at once, although the securities cannot be dated for several months hence. In one instance, the bonds will be dated January, 1910. The sitting-for-big-prices attitude will no longer do. We recollect a case not many years ago when bids were asked for a block of bonds. All were rejected despite the fact that the highest offer was only $89 below the figure desired by the municipality. The bonds were advertised a second time, and the prices offered were lowered considerably. Even then, a bid was not accepted, and offers were invited a third time. The prices were yet smaller. The highest bid was then accepted, the town losing six per cent. on its deal, compared with the highest figure received in reply to the first invitation. The market will afford similar examples if care is not exercised by civic officials.

An Ontario town the other day invited tenders for a fairly large block of bonds. Eight bids were received. Instead of making an award in the usual manner, the town authorities came to Toronto and negotiated, with the list of bids as an instrument, for the sale of the debentures. We need hardly point out that this is an improper action, and does not meet with the approval of business men. We know of very few towns who transact their bond matters in this fashion.

Gen. Charles Louis Tremblay has been appointed commander-in-chief of the French army, in succession to Gen. De La Croix.

"Bob" Burdette, humorist and Baptist preacher, who is seriously ill at Los Angeles from an injury to the spine, has been placed in a plaster cast.
